

Staples to Lecture On Rocks, Minerals

A non-credit course in rocks and minerals designed to answer the problems of scout leaders, naturalists, and people interested in the out-of-doors in general is being offered this term by Dr. Lloyd W. Staples, instructor in geology. It is sponsored by the general extension division.

The class will meet in room 101 Condon hall, from 7:15 to 9:15 on Wednesday evenings.

Work will consist of one hour of lecture followed by an hour of laboratory demonstration. No previous training in geology or chemistry is required. The fee is $5, payable at the first meeting of the class.

The course is designed particularly for high school teachers of general science, scout leaders, natural history camp leaders, education advisers in CCC camps, persons desiring to follow the career of ranger naturalist and for the general layman who wishes to be informed about earth materials.

Three Men Pledge

Three names have been added to fraternity pledge rosters, according to the dean of men's office. They are: Robert G. Perlman, Portland, Sigma Alpha Mu; Ken Oliphant, San Jose, California, Sigma Nu; and James Coleman, Newberg, Sigma Nu.

Of South Dakota State college's 1940 graduates who sought teaching positions, 91 per cent have found jobs.

LONG WAY FROM HOME FOR LONG STAY

Edna Crowe (center) of Seoul, Korea, shows a couple of fellow students that it's no small jump from home to Oregon. In the accompanying interview she gives her impressions of America and a description of things back home. With her are Emma Verdurmen (left), arts and letters freshman, and Helen Angell, junior in journalism.

Korea to Eugene, Oregon Student 'Commutes'

How would you like to shop in Japan, live in Korea, and come to America to school? That's what Edna Crowe of Korea did.

Edna, now a freshman in nursing at the University, does not go home for vacations.

"I probably won't go home until after I graduate," she sighed, "and then I want to come back here and be a nurse in an American hospital."

"You know, home isn't very different from here," she confided. "I went to American schools in Seoul, the capital of Korea, all my life, and we had parties and studied just as you do. We didn't do quite as much dancing."

White Russian Friend
"The place is really quite American," she continued. "Of course out in the country, there are little thatched houses and stone ones, but Seoul is very modern."

"I have the nicest friend over there; she's White Russian, has a creamy skin and red hair, and her name is Nina Belogolovy. She and I tried to play tennis together, but we didn't quite understand it, I guess," Edna reminisced.

Her brown eyes flashed interest. "I'll tell you when I really had fun—coming over here on the boat. We played shuffleboard, ping-pong and horseshoes. Oh, that trip was wonderful!"

Food Rationed
She says she doesn't know whether Korea is making any military preparations, because everything is kept secret.

"Some Korean boys have joined the Japanese army though," she hesitated, "and we're rationed on sugar and other essentials."

Asked her hobby Edna skipped upstairs and brought down a lovely brocade box full of jewelry from Korea. Rich jade clips and hammered silver bracelets gleamed in the collection. "I don't wear it very much," she explained, "but I love it. It reminds me of home."

Eugene is a long way from the Japanese-occupied peninsula of Korea, and Edna admits she gets lonesome sometimes.

Book Store Opens

The Campus Book store, a new campus supply shop, opened last week on the Oregon campus. Jack P. Schimberg, manager, was formerly with the national business machine company.

The new campus shop occupies the old Co-op location on the corner of 13th and Kincaid.

Saint Nick Calls At UOPill Palace During Holidays

Santa Claus didn't miss the campus infirmary this Christmas. Regardless of the fact that they had to spend the holidays in bed, Morry Hunter, Miss Florence Schwieter and two other nurses really had a swell Christmas party together. They even had a big tree, equipped with all the trimmings.

The ward three zanies are at it again. They all plan to register in bed.

This weekend proved disastrous as far as the infirmary was concerned. A total of 15 patients are registered, most of whom are suffering from colds. This total is quite high as compared to the start of last term. They include: Billie Wade, Bernice Wheeler, Dorothy Gelman, Elizabeth Walker, Mildene (The Goon) Goss, Arney Wilson, Jane Axtell, Les Ready, Rex Roberts, Verne Sellin, Wallace Clark, Gerald Bowerly, Jim Hoover, Bob Moller, and Bob Greer.

Torrid First Half

Summary table with columns: Oregon (76), FG, FT, PF, TP. Lists players like Taylor, McNeely, Anderson, Townsend, Sidesinger, Andrews, Fuhrman, Borchert, Marshik, Jackson, Kirsch, Anet.

Summary table with columns: Willamette (46), FG, FT, PF, TP. Lists players like Cameron, Gallaheer, Eberly, Robertson, Kolb, Brooks, Barnick, Lilly, Satter, Skopil, Eggers, Daggett.

Officials: Frank Heniges and Chappie King.

Editor of Chronicle Cancels UO Speech

Chester Rowell, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, will not address University students at the scheduled assembly Thursday, according to the office of Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration.

Dean Onthank declared that Mr. Rowell had been called east, and had wired the University that he could not appear as scheduled. Definite plans have not been made for the assembly Thursday, but Dean Onthank indicated that there might be a student body as-

Coeds Rise 'n Shine At Annual Nickel Hop

By BOB WHITELEY Campus piggers are looking forward to the annual "Nickel Hop" in order to check up on "that girl" that they just haven't gotten around to taking out. This year, as is the custom, the gals are on the quota system. The organization that has the most men come over in the course of the evening in comparison to the number of girls wins the big silver loving cup—for distinguished service.

Six to Eight The dance opens in typical Oklahoma land rush style at six o'clock Wednesday evening and continues until eight. Those who plan to take in both the Tri Deltas and the Alpha Phis are going to have quite an overland trek in the 10 minutes allotted between sessions. This annual affair started as the "Dime Crawl," then was knocked down 50 per cent to the "Nickel Hop." Freshmen and sophomores generally plan to cut loose and enjoy themselves, while the more staid and reserved juniors and seniors sit back complacently smoking their pipes and muse "Youth league tomorrow night."

There are always the same types of graft each year; those who wander out for a smoke and then sneak in again at the next session, those who put pennies in the box instead of nickels, those who don't put anything in, those who let the girls put the money in.

Reports are being circulated that the organizations are frantically buying smooth records in order to present the best music available. When quizzed about playing banned records, one girl whirled around and shouted, "Oh, bother the ASCAP!" (That's just what she said—we heard her). "We'll play anything we want."

Watch Hints Have you noticed the little hints the girls have been dropping lately, subtle little digs like: 1. Why don't you come up and see ME sometime — (said with umph!) 2. Listen to these new records we got— 3. Remember, you promised to teach me— 4. Surely YOU have a nickel (used to bring out pride). 5. I'll be saving one for you—

Gilbert Says Anzac Sports Unstressed

By MARY WOLF "Colleges of New Zealand and Australia select students more carefully than do American public institutions," declared Dean J. H. Gilbert of the college of social science, interviewed upon his return to Oregon last week after a term's leave of absence.

He said that only the higher rank students from secondary schools are admitted, non-independent study is done, vacations are longer and degrees as in the English universities are made to depend upon comprehensive examinations.

Basketball Sissy "Although the New Zealanders are strong for recreation," he continued, "college sports are not so important as in America. Football is a more gentlemanly game than in the United States and basketball is left largely to the ladies, considering the game not suitable for the men to play."

Most of Dean Gilbert's time was spent in Canberra, Australia, the capital of the Commonwealth government and at Wellington, the capital of New Zealand. He accumulated a vast amount of material on the financial systems of these countries and expects to write a book of some description during the next year.

Dr. Hunter Returns From Eastern Trip

Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter who recently underwent an eye operation in New York, has returned to his office in Johnson hall. Dr. Hunter was operated on at the Presbyterian hospital in New York City while attending education conventions in the East. Miss Jessie M. Smith, secretary to the chancellor, is in Sacred Heart hospital recovering from the flu.
