

SUMMER SLAVERY...

Civil Service Jobs Open to Students

Application Deadline Set for January 23; Dean Onthank States Examinations Offer Opportunities; Two Tests Are Available

Students who will have completed their junior or senior years by July 1, 1941, now have the opportunity to try for civil service positions...

Primarily for summer vacation work, the student aid examination is open to juniors. Students registered in five or six-year courses may apply to take the examination if they have completed at least three-fourths of the work...

The junior professional assistant examination is open to seniors who will be graduated in June as well as to college graduates.

Onthank Urges Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, declared the examination to be an opportunity that juniors, seniors, and graduates should not disregard. He stressed the importance of sending in the applications for the examinations before the deadline of January 23.

Blanks for the examinations may be obtained at the postoffice down town.

Fields Listed

Fields included in the student aid examination are economics, home economics, public administration, political science, history, sociology, and statistics.

Fields included in the junior professional assistant are junior administrative technician, biologist, business analyst, chemist, economist, geologist, legal assistant, meteorologist, physicist, writing and editing assistant.

Requirements for the examinations or further information may be gained at the employment bureau.

Baxter and Crane To Talk at Assembly

Dr. Bruce R. Baxter, former president of Willamette university and now bishop of the Portland area of Methodist churches will be a featured speaker at a Methodist student assembly scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday.

The program opens at 5:30 p.m. Saturday with a banquet for all students. Dr. Gertrude Boyd Crane, professor of psychology and philosophy at Pacific university will talk on "An Adequate Christ."

In keeping with the theme of the evening, a group of foreign students has been invited. Of these, Madeline Chin will sing, Fred Erickson will act as toastmaster.

Sunday program events are: 9:30 a.m. Dr. Crane will lecture on "Christ of the Gospels" in Wesley chapel.

11:00 a.m. At a morning service especially for students, Bishop Baxter will preach on "The Student's Christ."

5:30-7:00 p.m. After this period of recreation and refreshments, Dr. Baxter will make his final talk on the topic, "Christ and Our Problems."

In the interests of students wishing to attend the basketball game, the Saturday banquet program will be ended at 7:30 p.m.

Although this assembly is especially for Methodist students, anyone is welcome to attend any or all of the meetings.

Tonight Wesley foundation will hold open house at 8 o'clock to accommodate students not attending the basketball game.

Starting Team

Oregon's fast break offense, designed to push the ball into enemy territory before the latter can string out an effective defense, is current history. And it works, if players are in top condition.

WSC, according to news-hound Buck Buchwach, throws most of their "eggs" into a big one, 225-pound-6-feet-7-inch Paul Lindeman.

The mammoth Cougar, a fighting fool, roams around the backboard pulling off rebounds. Practically single-handed, he muzzled Oregon State's Mandic in that zone... until the former hobbled off the floor with four personal fouls.

If worse comes to terrible, Oregon rooters will breathe a prayer for Hank "The Galloping Needle" Anderson, hoping that screwy shot of Hawkeye's will find the hoop every time.

Cougar forward Vern Butts, a "set-shot artist," is due for some heavy duty work. Same goes for Captain Ray Sundquist of WSC, a guard, who bagged 25 points in two nights against OSC.

Captain Vic Townsend, guard; Porky Andrews, guard; Warren Taylor, forward; and Red McNeeley, forward, along with Anderson, comprise Hobson's starters. However, before the game is too far spent, Paul Jackson, Don Kirsch, "Big" Bill Borcher, Archie Marshik, and Quentin Sidesinger will be mixing it up in there.

HEN SCRATCHINGS...

Dabblers in Doodling Beaten by Japanese

By MARY WOLF

Do you want to improve your doodling? Then take a course in Japanese.

According to Stanley Johnson, one of six members of Dr. H. J. Noble's first year Japanese class, you can easily confuse the doodle experts by making the Japanese "hen scratches" in telephone booths or on restaurant tablecloths.

Evidently the course is a pipe, because Chiye Arai, Japanese student, is reported to have taken it so that she could "see how it would feel to get an A."

"I always did like foreign languages," James Moe, Chinese student, declared. "It's the closest I can come to studying Chinese here and who knows—?"

"Star" pupil of the class, Frank Hitchock, an Hawaiian student, is so confused that he doesn't know what he's taking, fellow classmates say. They admit that they may get up nerve enough some day to tell him that he is taking a class in Japanese.

Miss Alden Attends State Recreational Committee Meeting

Miss Florence Alden, head of the women's PE department, leaves today for Salem to attend a meeting of the state committee on recreation.

This subcommittee, asked for by the City School Superintendents' association and appointed by the state superintendent of public instruction, is part of a larger committee on health, physical education, and recreation for the state of Oregon.

The purpose of the recreation committee is to "determine the functions of recreation as it relates to the school within the community setting." In connection with this purpose the committee is expected to set up policies and recommendations for the fullest possible functioning of recreation.

The contacts made by Miss Alden in the field of recreation, group work, and youth organization on her sabbatical leave last spring term is offering valuable light on the problem before the committee.

Charlotte Collins has resigned as president of Hendricks hall, according to information from the dean of women's office. Winnie Green, former vice-president, automatically stepped into the position.

Gerlinger Hostess Returns From Trip

Back from a week of traveling, Mrs. Edith Siefert, hostess of Gerlinger hall, Wednesday described the landscape of "sunny" California as streaming with rain.

Mrs. Siefert accompanied her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert P. Booth, and her two sons, Dicky and Bobby, to the home of Mrs. Booth's parents in Banning. They took the coast trip down. Mrs. Siefert returned by way of the California valleys where she was particularly impressed with the sheets of muddy water which fell steadily.

Vincent Addresses Portland Art Class

Andrew Vincent, professor of drawing and painting in the University art school, lectured to a large group of the Portland art class in that city Wednesday.

Besides lecturing on mural painting, Professor Vincent gave a demonstration of this type of work in the studios at the Portland art museum.

The Portland art class which he attended is the oldest art group in that city and according to Dean
