

No Cookee Can Sewee, Goresky Tells Scribe

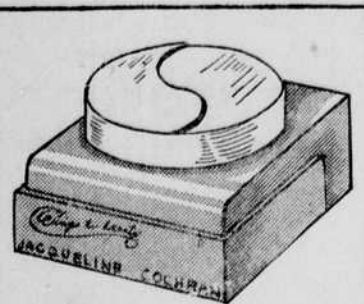

By BUCK BUCHWACH
(Women's Page Correspondent)

Miss Janet Goresky, the Emerald's first coed of the week this year, can tell you a lot of things, if you're lucky enough to be within hearing range. For instance, the regal-looking blond with very-gorgeous tresses and twinkling blue- (or are they brown) eyes can tell you a little millrace story.

It happened last year, when the upper classwomen in the Alpha Phi house were very unceremoniously dumped into the millrace by the frosh class. Fully clothed, the bedraggled dunkees struggled from the water only to gaze at a woman smiling broadly at the prank, from across the way at the Gamma Phi house.

The woman was Miss Hazel

She Doesn't Cook

Janet, who can't cook but sews a lot, has the clever knack of making one feel at home immediately, her warm personality forcing one to consider her as a friend without further ado.

The first thing she did upon the reporter's entrance was to invite him to sit in the love seat with her in the parlor. If yours truly hadn't known that the pin upon her very attractive green sweater belonged to Johnny Leovich, he might have misinterpreted the invitation. But Johnny, in case you didn't know, happens to be the star baseball catcher and football end for the Oregon Staters, and probably would have little trouble downing a full-sized grizzly bear, not to mention a 5 foot 4 inch reporter.

She Mixes Activities

Anyway, sitting quite at ease,

Christies, etc.

By JOEY CHRYSSTALL

Here follows our personal pigeon-holing of Peoplegetting-readytoski, which may be used as models, or horrible examples, or something else:

The Outdoor Girl: Firm in the knowledge that she has a naturally lovely complexion, Exhibit A ruthlessly discards all makeup from her equipment—taking up most of the packing space with assorted lacquers and waxes for her skis. The rest of the space is occupied by two oranges (Vitamin C), and a chocolate bar, which she knows is the best thing in the world for energy.

The Glamour Girl: Knowing that her complexion is, after all, only human, our hothouse bloom includes in her paraphernalia a cream or lotion for every possible kind of weather; two lipsticks, one for morning and one for afternoon. She doesn't have room for any ski wax, or anything else TECHNICAL like that, but she probably won't be waxing her own skis anyway. The Featherhead: Having collected together a few pieces of Kleenex and some bobby pins, she suddenly remembers that her skis haven't been brought up from the store room in the basement, and begins to wonder frantically who has the keys to the darn thing.

These are the most often observed types, but there are some rarer ones which are occasionally seen in the vicinity of practice hills and should be mentioned. There is the specie Fourpointwalkingencyclopedia which is usually observed making lightning calculations on the effect the angle has on the wind resistance, or some such intriguing problem. Sometimes one can recognize a Poet by the enraptured awe with which it gazes on the landscape.

The last example, which should be observed with a flyswatter, if at all, is the Candid Camera Fiend. These are only too easy to recognize, being equipped with obvious things like cameras and light meters; but being able to recognize them is not much help, for when they are in your line of vision, you are probably in theirs; your pitiful leer recorded for all time.

Instead of carting it away to the junkheap, Janet and the other gals pulled a typical collegiate gag.

They sold it to the freshmen for $5—cash.

Crosby Band Lures Seniors From Books

By LOIS HULSER

Seniors are taking off their glasses and emerging from a mass of books and jumbled theses to present the music of Bob Crosby and his Dixieland band Friday evening in the Igloo. Students will dance under a canopy of blue, gold and silver, a fairyland of beauty created by Allied Arts of Portland.

Date Bait

The Senior Ball definitely heads the date bait list this week with no other considerations for Friday eve. Saturday there is a variety of things to do if the Senior Ball hasn't wrecked the budget, and nine times out of ten it will. (Not to be pessimistic!) The Playground Park, and movies all are good suggestions. Movies sound practical after a Friday splurge. Or you could study—

There's one o'clock permission for the first formal of the term. Coeds will wear formals while dark suits or tuxedos are in order for the men.

The best publicity men of the senior class have for weeks been publicizing the biggest and best dance the Oregon campus has seen in many years. Students are counting on it to be just that for sales on tickets, ranging from $1.50 to $2.00 are going fast.

He'll Play Requests
Crosby's famous band will play numbers requested by students. The committee is making up a list of requests from those dropped in the box at the side.

And Good Old Desserts
First mid-week activities of the term include desserts for most of the living organizations on the campus. Last night's desserts were Alpha Chi Omega-Kappa Sigma; Alpha Delta Pi-Campbell Co-op; Alpha Phi-Delta Tau Delta; Sigma Phi Epsilon-Kappa Alpha Theta; Kirkwood Co-op-Sigma Kappa; Kappa Alpha Theta-Beta Theta Psi; Alpha Tau Omega-Chi Omega; Theta Chi-Gamma Phi Beta; Pi Beta Phi-Delta Theta; Delta Gamma-Chi Psi; Delta Delta Delta-Phi Gamma Delta and Highland House-Canard Club.

NYA Cards Due
All NYA time cards must be turned in to the payroll window in the top floor of Johnson hall by noon today.

Isn't skiing a Scandinavian sport? Being of good Swedish stock, we like to think so, and we were going to talk about it this week. But it sounded like more fun to leave that to the other writers and instead do a bit of winchelling on our fellow Emerald columnists. Or is it calumny-ists?

Where do you suppose Fendall gets his authoritative slant on KISSING? Don't you imagine she wonders what the heck as she hears him softly muttering "prune," before the clench? It's sort of remindful of an old and awfully unfunny joke. "JOKE: customer: I want some apples. Clerk: Winesap? Customer: Cider, boob." We mean, we wonder what she says....

Then there is Tommy Wright who is getting himself a name as a rabble-rouser. We use the word guardly, because we like our hair, sort of. Wright, we think, is a little disappointed that his unintentional bomb-shell didn't explode.

We saw the current-events expert, Mr. Ridge Cummings, the other night at a drug store counter. It was a rather fascinating sight. Calmly he dunked coconut macaroons in a milkshake and read a newsmagazine (for relaxation). Tsk, Mr. R., and the world in the fix it's in.

And Mildred Wilson has our hearty disapproval for exposing our sense of humor. She could have said she got that joke out of the Oregon State Bugle, or something.

Cheerio.

Jewelry Pup Skis World On Lapel Pin

Jeanette Eddy's wooden dog pin is out skiing the world—he's carved and stands on minute wooden skis; Ginny Gray's navy blue and white polka dot Russian blouse shines with or without moon beams; Betty Fryer's, ice-skates are up to her neck—they're wooden with little felt socks and clasp her collar; Mildred Wilson is springy as an apple blossom leaf in her turquoise sweater suit, light and soft as a robin; ready to melt the ice at Hand Lake is Marge Pierce in her fire-engine corduroy suit; Jean Friderger's leather peasant has the world for her oyster; her face is a pearl, and she's dressed in bright colors and dangles from Jean's coat lapel. Bright, and good as gold is Neva Haight's yellow chain jewelry; Betta Christensen copies the Cu-hans with her beads shaped like Cuban drums—oblong in yellow and tortoise shell.

Infirmary to Treat Minor Injury Cases On Downstairs Floor

Infirmary officials requested yesterday that all students who have minor ailments go to the infirmary dispensary instead of the hospital proper for treatment.

Due to the current influx of cases it is difficult for the nurses to take care of those upstairs in bed and also those who go upstairs for minor treatments.

Dispensary hours are from 8 to 12 and 1 to 5 on week days, 8 to 12 on Saturdays, and Sundays from 10:30 to 12. Week ends, students are requested to come at these hours, unless in cases of emergency.

Infirmary officials stated that the "no visitor" sign will be up indefinitely.

Fashion Gallery

Fashion forecasts a banner sweater year at J. C. Penney's and best of all beige and lipstick red will be popularity winners again. The California companies call maize California Sun, of course, but the color is the same.

As for style... 70% will be the coat type and 30% slipovers according to a survey. Heavy knits with pockets will be the leader for summer wear. All the sweaters will have stand out shoulders.

Intriguing

Have a merry fling this weekend! For a new and different look for the Senior ball have your hair arranged at Hadley's beauty salon in the balcony. It's a known fact that you should look glamorous and sieek with an air of exclusiveness for such an important weekend. See what Hadley's can do for you!

Personalized

Make-up colors are more than ever important now because of the very light pastel shades Dorothy Gray's new lipsticks are Brass Band (the shade for "navy" outfits) and South America. "Swashbuckle" is the new compact and lipstick combination. The loose powder and rouge are in the lovely compact and matching lipsticks on the outside in regular stick form—at Tiffany Davis.

Shining Nails

The news at Millers that will never grow old is the Chen Yu chip proof nail lacquer for 75c. For convenience a tiny purse size bottle of the same shade accompanies the large bottle. Shades from China include... Opium poppy, Weeping Willow, Wistaria, Canton red, Celestial pink. Flowering plum, and Dragons blood give nailpolish an exotic air.

"Her Grace"

An important dress! For the formal dances wear a white net . . . at Gordon's. It has three net skirts, very full, and one with horsehair braid to make it stiff and swirly. The bodice has a draped line with a jeweled clip at the neck and waist. The back is cut moderately low with the same draped treatment. Tiny sleeves of net complete the effect.

Orchids

It's high time you gave the girl of the hour an orchid and now is certainly the time! You'll find Chase Garden's with such a large stock they can find the one to fit your pocket book and the coeds dreams. See about one for the Senior Ball!

Springtime!

A bright idea for your spring coat and one that should wreath your face in smiles is the smart beige tweed at Montgomery Ward and Co., for $24.75. The material is of a soft tweed and is lined with a lovely crepe. Featured is the gored back, the tuxedo front, the long straight sleeve, the modified shoulder line (not as wide this year) and the lynx dyed wolf fur collar.

Melody in Shoes

Although everyone knows how super and convenient it is to have wooden shoes, you just can't realize how grand a new pair would be for the rest of winter term and for spring too. It is certain they will be wearing wooden shoes for ages and ages, so treat yourself to a new "snappy" pair from Bill Ireland's Campus Shop.
