

St. Valentine Pops Into Dance Motifs

By LOIS HULSER

This afternoon coeds will give the man of their dreams a perfect dunking in the millrace after formal crowning at Alpha Chi Omega house. Then with adhesive tape on the bottom of their saddles and the Valentine spirit in their hearts they will take their men to Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, and Chi Omega to dance.

Valentine Motifs

St. Valentine will be honored royally Friday eve when four houses have their winter formals. Eddie Gipson and his lads will play for ADPis and their dates at a semi-formal dance at their chapter house. Phi Sigma Kappa fellows are having Art Holman while the Kappas are having a buffet dinner at the Eugene hotel to the music of Ray Dickson's band. Orides-Yeoman formal will be staged in Gerlinger.

Sweethearts of Sigma Chi will be entertained at a radio dance after seeing the Ducks play the Gem State lads.

Wally Hider and his new band will play for the Alpha Phis Saturday night when their freshmen entertain the upperclassmen at their winter formal.

The artists of the institution are dancing in costume at the Anahorage Friday eve, just to be different, at their annual Beaux Arts ball.

'Tis said the SAE formal will be a dinner dance in the main dining room of Hotel Osburn. Eddie Gipson is their maestro.

If Ski Locale Pales, Try Hoo Doo Bowl

"Going skiing? Say . . . suspiciously the voice on the other end of the wire inquires . . . 'You're not trying to be funny, where can you ski around Eugene?'"

The Hoo Doo bowl, about 100 miles from Eugene on the North Santiam, is free from timber and has every degree of slope. It's a perfect stage to practice your new Christiania or gelundesprung. You'll find a unique lodge, with sleeping dormitories and restaurant accommodations. This lodge, situated in a natural setting on a hill, overlooks the Sun Valley of Oregon. Last Sunday over four feet of fine powder snow attracted approximately 500 skiers to the track. A special bus carried 17 members of the University of Oregon ski clubs' would-be Sitzmark-makers.

If time and money are no object, Timberline lodge is the skiers' paradise. This gigantic WPA project is located 185 miles from Eugene on the south slope of Mount Hood. Once a year the University of Oregon Ski club sponsors a ski train to Odell lake," says Neil Farnham, president of the organization.

What's in a Color? Green is Glamorous

By JOEY CHRYSSTALL

"This is a very interesting book," remarked Daphne, in a tone which could have been called conversational but which also could have been said to have a note of command in it.

Toad patiently put down her eon notes. One did not attempt to study when Daphne was reading a book which interested her.

Daphne continued, "It says that color is very important in our lives: color tells us many things."

"Like rose colored effects on collars?" queried Toad brightly, showing an interest in the subject.

"Well . . . yes . . ." Daphne pondered, "But also in a much wider sphere—did you know that colors affect your moods?"

"Oh absolutely. I have noticed that big, brown eyes have a very definite effect on me."

"Have you ever thought," Daphne struggled, attacking the problem from a different angle, "that while your repulsive roommate can wear every shade of yellow there is and look gorgeous in it, the minute you even put a dandelion under your chin you remind people of an old dead leaf in a gutter?" Toad shuddered. She would have been just as happy if Daphne had not chosen a gutter for the setting.

"Almost every one you see these days is popping about in the wrong color," Daphne continued relentlessly. "It says that if the wave lengths of the color one is wearing do not correspond with one's personality, one radiates no joie de vivre; one only exists!"

"Gosh, how horrible," Toad breathed deeply. "Do you think if I went out now in my green suit I would radiate at ALL?"

Daphne wrinkled her brow in serious thought. "Well, it's still daylight, you know—but I think if you were CAREFUL it might be all right."

Patter

aha she cried pouncing on the typewriter keys this is a wonderful opportunity not only for me but for anyone who might accidentally happen to read it that is for all the clever and "hoomorous" (lil abner) minded ones who would like to loosen the draw strings or let down their hair or dig into their souvenirs and come up with bits of driftwood and unpublished signs of genius in general or even funny little pictures they have drawn or remarks (nice) that they have heard in eateries and classes and houses etc.

aha she was saying until she remembered that Friday or Saturday or whenever Feb. 14 is isn't very far off and all copy has got to be gotten in wouldn't somebody else like to help spike

You want to go dancing but no one you know is having a dance? Very simple. Put on one TERRIFIC costume if you like costumes (NO, we're not suggesting you crash the Beaux Arts Ball, what do you think we are, ANYWAY?) . . . or a formal, if you like formals, and go and visit some of the nice dances being given this weekend. It won't cost you A CENT, and besides, you can get ideas for your own dance.

The Deb Decides

By MARY KAY RIORDAN

Right Combinations! Very right, very bright combinations — the paintbrush make-up kit to have every trick of cosmetics absolutely under your finger tips. The kit is just like the grammar school paint boxes we used to have so much fun with, only this one contains six different shades of rouge and six individual lipsticks to give you color harmony for every costume and occasion. Several shades of eye-brow pencils and mascara also. Tiffany-Davis features them.

Double Talk Two conversation pieces — a slip-on sweater and a cardigan to match for 3.95 at Russells. Both sweaters are classic in design and come complete with a cellophane bag . . . It's a Helen Harper model in yellow, pink, and blue.

Lapel Doohinky A South American wooden head . . . terrifying in its expression with gold earrings, gaudy jewelry. This Figi islander has the most eccentric hair arrangement — it stands straight up and definitely adds to his appearance. All of the new spring costume jewelry sets at the Broadway for 98c.

Nautical 'N' Nice Ahoy, you fashion-conscious young women! Girls in every port have given up their hearts to the nautical collection that just sailed in, at Beard's, and in formals, you'll find an amazingly large group; one smart favorite has a white sharkskin skirt with a silk jersey navy blue bodice (shirred V-neck) and a tiny white jacket of sharkskin . . . 19.75.

Winter's Over! So celebrate with one of the new Gaymode shades for the light shades of spring. Tulip and Arbor are the very newest and this year have more yellow in them than stockings have had for many a season. If you can't part with the rosy-red cast, you'll like Robin and Crocus. These stockings come in any thread weight and also in the nylon at J. C. Penney's.

That Wide-Eyed Look You'll really have a wide-eyed look of amazement when you see the wonderful bargains at Montgomery Wards in skirts for 1.98. The new jungle cloth does not wrinkle or crease and the style is perfect . . . gored and not too full to be right for the new skirt fashion. Comes in blue, tan, and rose.

Spring's Coming! Banana — a cool interesting shade for spring. At Hadley's is a two-piece dress of banana alpaca . . . it has a gored skirt, with just the right fullness, a fitted bodice, buttoned down the back. To relieve the simplicity two tiny pockets are shirred into the material at the front of the bodice, and the same treatment is given the neck, giving the impression of a collar . . . 10.95.
