

OSC Professor to Describe Bonneville Tonight

Hodge Plans Explanation Of Dam's Use

Speaker Will Cite Defensive Aspects Of Cheap Power

Dr. E. F. Hodge, professor of economic geology at Oregon State College, will speak on "Bonneville Dam—Its Location and Meaning" tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the faculty room of Friendly hall.

He will cover the subject from the aspect of its value to national defense in the present world crisis. The use of cheap power which will be furnished by the dam to process numerous economic minerals will be a large factor in this new development.

Dr. Hodge speaks from experience, since was one of the geologists on the dam project and was for two years connected with the U.S. army engineers.

His knowledge gained in this capacity includes familiarity with economic minerals of the Northwest that might be processed with cheap Bonneville power.

Older faculty members at the University will remember him not only as a geologist, but also as an outstanding handball player.

Dr. Hodge's lecture is under the auspices of the University lecture committee and will be open to the public.

$5 AND $10 ... Reading Entries Due Wednesday

Three Divisions Offer Cash Prizes In Jewett Contest

Announcement of the registration deadline for the W. F. Jewett poetry-reading contest was made Friday by Mark Hanna, speech instructor. "All entries must be in not later than Wednesday evening, February 19," he declared.

Prizes of $10 and $5 will be given in each of the three groups in which all undergraduate students may enter. These divisions are lyrics and sonnets, Biblical poetry, and narrative and ballad poetry.

One Poem Each

"It is important," said Mr. Hanna, "that no more than two students may submit the same poem."

Students may enter any or all of the three divisions, but may participate in but one in the finals. If a contestant places in more than one group, he must choose which division he will enter in the finals.

Preliminaries Tuesday

Preliminaries will be 3 p.m. Tuesday, February 25, and the finals at 3 p.m. Wednesday, February 26. The contest room will be announced later.

Entrants may choose their selections from an approved list in Mr. Hanna's office. Those entering group one will be required to read poems by Masefield and Yeats as well as one sonnet and one lyric of their own choice.

noon. Group games, ping pong, and cokes form the main social activities planned for the first meeting of the two groups this year.

The University Ski club will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight instead of Thursday. The meeting will take place at 7:30 in 207 Chapman.

Oregana Men Tell Progress of Book

Just returned from a trip to Portland, made for the purpose of taking pictures to the engravers and visiting the lithographers of the 1941 Oregana, Wilbur Bishop, editor, reports that they are very pleased with the appearance of the book so far. George Root, educational manager, also made the trip.

Remarking that the lithographers are busy on the cover of the year book at the present time, Bishop said further, "All of the opening section of the book is finished now and looks very nice, especially the duograph pages and the third color work."

According to Bishop, all the writing for the book is in now and all that remains to be done is picture and organization work on the schools and activities sections. Ted Harmon, managing editor, and Laurita Christofferson, assistant managing editor, kept Oregana work in progress at the office during the absence of the editor.

Terry Second In Ski Meet

An ice-sheathed hill and a stiff side wind combined to make it as tough as possible for ski-jumpers at Mt. Hood's thirteenth annual Pacific coast jumping tournament Sunday on Multnomah hill.

Tom Terry, of the University ski team, competing in class C competition, scored 189 points to finish second only to Oregon State's George Brummer, who gathered 192 points with his leaps. Terry and Brummer were the only two out of a field of 12 competitors in the C class who managed to stand on the icy apron of the jump both times.

Housemothers Take 'Busman's' Vacation In Corvallis Tour

Oregon housemothers spent Monday touring the Oregon State campus and visiting the Corvallis housemothers.

Dr. Warrington of the psychology department and Miss Hunter, head of the OSC dormitories, spoke to the combined group in Waldo hall.

Each housemother had dinner at the living organization of which she was in charge on the University campus. Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of men; Mrs. Alice E. Macduff, assistant dean; and Mrs. Edith Siefert, hostess of Gerlinger hall, accompanied the UO housemothers and head residents.

A course in Latin-American history has been added to the curriculum at Lafayette.

Kilocycle Clippings

By RUSS HUDSON

Marvin A. Krenk's argumentation and persuasion class comes to the fore again this week with another campus forum of the air. These weekly forums are heard over KORE at 9:15 on Tuesday evenings, and feature student discussions on current national and international problems.

Subject for debate and discussion this week is "Union Now." Be sure and listen in, as it will not only be a hot discussion on the matter, but the public is invited to phone in questions to the station during the broadcast.

Bets bets for today . . . About the best picnic programs that are offered include "At Your Command" at 1:45 over KORE, and "Ma Perkins" all the time. If someone could be found around the campus that could sing "Goodbye Now" like Martha Tilton it would really be a pleasure to leave.

There is plenty of good jumpin' jive on tonight over KORE and Mutual—Griff Williams at 7:30 . . . another good bet in the "Laugh and Swing Club" at 8:30.

Of course the evening wouldn't be complete without hearing a little complete without hearing a little hot piano and Phil Harris doing his stuff at the Wilshire Bowl in Hollywood. See your local paper (Oregonian or Journal) for the exact time.

If you happen to be out on a sneak date . . . tune in on "Night Owl Band Wagon" over KORE at 12 midnight. Plenty smooth music too.
