Tabulations Show Number Active In Extra Functions

Tabulations released today by the educational activities department show that slightly less than 1700 students participate in activities on the University campus.

The activities department has just completed a survey of school activities to determine the number of students involved.

This year, 1693 students are active. Of these, 416 are in class administration, 299 work for various student publications, 611 work in all-campus events, and 357 participate in other activities.

However, the activities department explained, these figures cannot be employed in determining the actual number of students in the activities, since duplications result from some students who are members of staffs of more than one activity.

This survey covers student activity participation in activities in which the students are responsible for formulation and presentation of the activity itself.

UO Friend Leaves Sophomore $5000

Always in close touch with the University during her lifetime, Mrs. Ellen M. Pennel remembered the campus and her student friends after her death by bequeathing a large share of her estate to the University.

By the terms of the will, Morris Klapper, sophomore in sociology, will receive $5,000, the largest part of the estate, with which to finish his education.

A gift of $500 was also made to the library and with the exception of several hundred dollars to relatives and a thousand dollars to the Congregational church, the remainder of Mrs. Pennel's estate will be devoted to a University scholarship fund.

YOU don't need a science degree to tell you that the pleasure you get from a cigarette is in the smoke itself! That's plain common sense! But science can tell you—has pointed it out many times—that Camels are definitely slower-burning. That means a smoke free from the harsh, irritating qualities of excess heat—a smoke that is extra mild, extra cool, and extra flavorful.

Now science confirms another important advantage of Camel's costlier tobaccos and slower way of burning—less nicotine in the smoke (see above). So light up a Camel—now. Try Camels. Smoke out the facts for yourself.
