

A Faux Pas, But Fun-- Ah, Rush Week Again

By BETTY-JO SHOWN

Rush week is upon us again, with its very expressive title and all that goes with it—the tension, the faux pas, the tribulations which make it so hectic. But even with the double burden of classes and entertaining it needn't be the chore or the bore that it is pictured as being. Relax and enjoy it! The hilariously funny things that happen make good stories for years to come.

Remember the time the house-boy catapulted the steak into the lap of the prize rushee while the peas rolled all over the table, or when you worked like mad to fix up your new room, but had to hold your breath while a timid thing perched precariously on the pins which held the couch cover together!

It is really a duel to see who can impress whom—the rushee straining at the bit, the rusher at full gallop, both ready to drop in their tracks. Everything is just so-so and just too-too, and then to your horror, you realize you are talking to your best friend in the most delightful tea language—all that cultured conversation wasted!

Even with all the rigid planning and all the carefully mastered poise, confusion usually runs rampant. The crowning insult is when you are left staring at a strange girl while your own sorority sister, your roommate last term, gropes blindly for your name. Then what a foolish feeling when you call someone else by your own name!

Oh, it's a strain all right, and the suspense is trying at times, but it's fun!

Girls Get Late, Permission For Kyser's Class

The new three hour course in musical knowledge is the most popular section on the campus even if the student union does get all the credit. Kay Kyser, the ole professor, hails from the sunny south with his band of jivemen and glamorous Ginny Sims to give Oregon students a real course in swingtime. Dean Schwering has given the gals 1 o'clock permission for their Friday night class.

Fraternities are planning preference dinner for Friday evening, while sororities have been busy this week with spring term rushing.

Come next week everyone will eat strawberry shortcake every Wednesday night when exchange desserts begin for the term. —Lois Hulser

Morning-After Idea Appeals To Toad

By JOEY CHRYSTALL

"We should first decide on the theme for this room," Daphne announced. "That's the way they always begin decorating in the magazines."

"Oh, absolutely," Toad peered up from a pile of books she was sitting on. "Or we could even have two or three, couldn't we?"

Daphne briskly changed the subject. "Does this pennant look all right here, or would you like it better behind the goldfish?"

Patter

I think that when it comes time for me to be reincarnated I shall choose to be a sunflower or a piece of brick on the sunny side of the lobe or maybe a phidelt with a roof to sprawl on. I would rather like to be a starfish or a butterfly or a lazy contented cat. But the sunflower idea is really most appealing. Wouldn't it be heavenly to stand quite quietly all day and let the breeze ruffle your petals and to feel the soft earth possessing your roots and the delicious warmth of the sun tingling along your stem? I wonder why I didn't think of that for this life. —Pat Erickson

Date Bait

For real cooperation, what more could one ask than for what the weather is putting forth this week? As bait for dates there couldn't be anything more tempting!

Have you tried sitting by the mirrace, or soaking up the sun on almost any other part of the campus?

Things like tennis, golf, canoes, picnics, hikes, and other outdoor-ismness are elegant form of entertainment if you don't mind the assorted insects.

For all kinds of FUN, have you tried roller-skating back and forth on all the walks in front of the libe? There's a test of your efficiency as an expert skater!

Hendricks will throw wide its red brick domicile for an open house Saturday, according to Lillian Zidell, social chairman.

The open house will begin at 8 o'clock, and every man on the campus is invited. Short talks will be appropriate for Hendricks hall coeds.

"We think the open house is a good idea," said Lillian, "everyone will be broke after Kay Kyser comes, and this will cost nothing and pay fun dividends."

Yeomen to Choose New Head Monday

An important election meeting of the Yeomen, campus men's independent social organization, is scheduled for 7:30 Monday evening, Horace White, secretary, announced yesterday.

Nominations have been made by the nominating committee, but it will be permissible to nominate from the floor before elections. White urged that all past and present members plus other independents interested be at the meeting to have a voice in the expansion of independent organization's elections.

CHANEL Famous Perfumes

No. 5—Worldly, brilliant, chic—the "great lady of perfumes," the aura of sophisticated smariness throughout the world. Gardenia—Lavish, lush, luxuriant—so exotically heady its vital fragrance lingers like a memory of love. Russia Leather—A perfume of adventure—dashingly flirtatious—the perfect fillip for summer suits and playful outdoor hours. No. 22—Exciting "two-toned" challenge. Recklessly gay on the surface—alluringly deep with subtle "come hither."

Sing of Spring It being Spring and all Oregon students are swinging out with the gayest in clothes. What with the sun shining etc. and spring fever, the best outfit for the term would be the skack-skirt suit at Hadley's. It's in a gray plaid with pink and blue so almost any color will match. The slacks are smartly tailored and have a natural leather belt; the skirt is pleated and the type you can match with other sweaters or jackets; the jacket has three buttons down the front. Jacket—7.95; slacks and skirt—5.95.

Lobster and the Lady A fashion note: It's smart to see double. And that's what happens when you look at the "Lobster and the Lady" dress at the Broadway. It's called the South American trend and has large squares of two alternating colors. The skirt is full and the bodice very plain except for the embroidered colored lobster on the left side. Costs 12.95.

Bag of Tricks Never, never go on a picnic or on an outing without a make-up kit with you, for it is important for you to keep looking super-perfect all day long. To help you, and to conserve space as well, the smart paintbox at Tiffany-Davis is a real blessing. It's just the size of a compact, but includes three shades of lipstick, two rouges, eye shadow, mascara, loose powder and two large mirrors—all Lucien Lelong products. Sells for 2.50.

Rise and Shine Banana... the new color of the season... at Beards in a new style for school. It is a Betty Lane junior original with a fitted gored skirt, short sleeves, new designed bodice with buttons down the front and gathers. The detail is added by embroidered flowers in chenille around the top and on the pockets... 8.95.

You Can Tell by the Hats It's Spring, and you can tell by the hats at Miller's Millinery... spicy greens, cherry reds, heavenly blues, western beige, white frosted black, and the perennial navy—everywhere. The bonnets are very definitely the thing to wear with your new up-swept hair-do, and are complete with a beguiling bit of ribbon, flowers, and fruit. Of course you'll want to add a bit of a fragile veil—just to top things off... prices from 1.93 up.

Right Combinations Colors matching exactly right is the ambition and goal of every coed when trying to match sweaters and anklets. Russell's have a very complete line of sweaters in all of the classic styles—cardigan, slip-on, long and short sleeves—and offer at the same time a perfect match in socks. Special assortment of baby pink, baby blue, and yellow just came in.

A Fine "Find" For your best dance date this month you should wear a Mary Muffet original found at Kaufman Bros. The skirt is navy, gored and fitted; a wide bright kelly green silk jersey band emphasizes the tiniest waist; the blouse is printed silk jersey top with long full sleeves and on top of all is a very small bolero... 14.75.
