21 Queen-Potentials Named

Tale of a Tradition...

Previous Kingdoms, Queens Recollected

By JOHNNY KAHANANUI

Thirty years ago this spring Oregon's Junior Weekend canoe fete was born. Ten years back was born the institution of selecting a queen for all Junior Weekend festivities. However, not born 30 years ago . . . we hope . . . and hardly 10 years ago is this year's Junior Weekend queen-to-be, some lucky lass among 21 now up for consideration.

First to reign over all Junior Weekend was Queen Eleanor I, nee Eleanor Lewis. The vivacious first queen ruled over a "land" that blinked its eyes one spring morning and found itself metamorphosed into something fantastically modern. A telescopic "make-believe" of the most recent architectural innovations adorned the millrace, trends that were being given impetus in Germany. Floats were garbed accordingly, in keeping with the canoe fete theme, "La Fete Moderne."

'Venice Moderne'

Flashing dark eyes turned the head of many an Oregon lad, orbs that were an attribute to Queen Dorothy II (Dorothy Hall), who ruled a campus gone Venetian. She glided down the millrace on a float "Venice Moderne" and viewed the colorful procession of barges from her throne high atop the band stand.

A five-foot four-inch 120-pound brunette was handed the scepter in the spring of 1933. She, Margaret Wagner, reigned over a canoe fete that transported one into Oz, Mother Goose Land, and places akin, apropos with its theme—"Fete Fantastique."

Josephine Waffle ascended the throne in 1934, and as Queen Josephine I surveyed a canoe fete depicting the history of Oregon.

"The Melody of Spring" floated down the millrace in 1935, and

Students Contribute To Letter Mortality

"Students of the University are more careless about their mail than all the other people in Eugene," said Postmaster F. L. Armitage. "In one day carriers brought in 171 cards from the students supposedly to go home, but they didn't get any farther than my wastebasket."

Postmaster Armitage said that the students carelessly just sign the cards and letters by their first name and put incorrect addresses on them.

When money is found in the dead letters it is turned into the United States treasury. If there is no inside address or last name in the letter the letter is destroyed, as there is no way of getting it to its owner. "On the average, 100 letters a week are opened here, and 90 per cent of these are burned because they are just signed by first name."

OSC Faculty Women Ask UO Club to Tea

Members of the College Folk club, an organization of faculty women at Oregon State college, have invited the University Women's Faculty club to a tea April 7 from 3 until 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The tea will be given at the OSC Alpha Delta Pi sorority house on 350 N. E. 23rd street.

Mrs. Earl M. Pallett and Mrs. Will V. Norris are in charge of transportation arrangements from Eugene. Those having room in their cars to take others or those without transportation should contact either Mrs. Pallett or Mrs. Norris.

'Bug Housers' Serve Spring Sick Sentence

Ninety-nine year, boys, is a mighty long time but to the measleites in the University branch of the Oregon House of Correction, five days is just as long a sentence, if it has to be served during spring term.

Those paying their debt to society at present are: Jane Barlow, Barbara Bryant, Marilyn Miller, Audrey Dial, Lois Geller, Jeanne Filcher, Mary Bentley, Nancy Fay, Jeanne Younger, Norma Ogle, Olivia Dysinger, Ruth Eckhardt, and Jane McCurdy.

Whisker Dicks Set for Action

Bud Vandeneynde Picks 26 Deputies In Men's Houses

Trying to keep the sophomore whisker-growing spree "open and above beard" will be 26 house deputies named Thursday by Bud Vandeneynde, soph class president. The men will report any sophomore man who shaves before the Whiskerino, and necessary disciplinary measures will be taken.

Deputies for the men's living organizations are: Tony Nickachos, Alpha hall; Tony Crish, Betas; Millard Dunlap, ATO; Wes Sullivan, Campbell; Glenn Williams, Canard club; Larry Court-

Coeds Meet Juniors Thursday at Dance

Campus Leaders to Name Nine Nominees Monday for Final Round of Competition; Impartial Committee to Select Winner

Prospective queens of the junior class, one from each living organization, paraded across the dance floor of Gerlinger hall last night for first official introduction to third year men and women as potential rulers at the 1941 Junior Weekend fete.

The 21 women were introduced by Gene Brown, general chairman, at a Weekend Warmup for members of the class of '42. Next Monday a preliminary committee will enter names of nine of the candidates as contestants in the final round of competition.

The winner will be selected from the remaining nine candidates after they have been interviewed by a professional committee of Eugene and Portland photographers; professional beauty experts; George Godfrey, state publicity director of Junior Weekend; and Bruce Hamby, athletic news director. Beauty and grace will play the major part in the selection of the winner.

The girl selected will be announced queen the latter part of next week, probably Friday.

The nominees from the various women's houses are: Barbara Todd, Alpha Chi Omega; Fontelle Mitchell, Alpha Delta Pi; Eloise Rockwell, Alpha Gamma Delta; Ottilia Hofstetter, Alpha Omicron Pi; Eleanor Sederstrom, Alpha Phi; Lois Nordling, Alpha Xi Delta; Dorothy Wheeler, Chi Omega; Helen Angell, Delta Delta; Pat Holder, Delta Gamma; Jean Burt, Gamma Phi Beta; and Wini Green, Hendricks hall.

Mary Peck, Highland house; Catherine Fitzgerald, Hilyard house; Annabelle Dow, Kappa Alpha Theta; Barbara Neu, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Isolde Eichenlaub, Pi Beta Phi; Pat Howard, Sigma Kappa; Mary Louise Yates, Susan Campbell hall; Maxine Wyse, University house; Lois Hosford, Zeta Tau Alpha; and Rebecca Anderson, Orides.

Lettermen Sell Lemon Squeeze Tickets Today

Inter-Greek Sing Highlights Dance In Igloo April 12

Gridiron stars, baseball heroes, and other assorted lettermen will turn salesmen today and invite students to buy tickets to the Order of the "O" Lemon Squeeze in McArthur court April 12.

Two special features of the dance will be the selection of the winners in the interfraternity sing and the Order of the "O's" own contribution to the music field, Jim Harris, general chairman, stated.

Ray Dickson and his Webfoot 12-piece band are arranging some novelty numbers for the Squeeze. Dickson has played for other campus affairs such as the Sophomore informal and the rally dance following Oregon's victory over Oregon State in football.

Tickets will sell for 50 cents each.

Independents Plan Hop in Gerlinger

Independents will dance in the AWS room of Gerlinger hall tonight, when Orides and Yeomen sponsor the first of their spring term informal hops.

All independents are welcome to attend and campus clothes are in order for the no-date affair, according to Jeanne Smith, dance chairman. A charge of fifteen cents will be made all who are not members of either independent organization.

Queen Candidates

For Queen the rolls list 21. Guess they'll have to pare 'em.

From such defeat, we certainly would like to spare 'em.

So that the Weekend's theme will not impair 'em.

Let's keep all 21—
And have a harem.

'Tovarich' to Feature Smith

M. DUPONT

Smith had much experience in drama in the University between 1934 and 1937, playing in many University productions. He appeared at that time in shows such as "Dinner at 8" and "Bury the Dead."

Last summer he received considerable renown for his work in the Ashland Shakespearean festival as Jacques in "As You Like It." Smith is now taking only drama courses in preparation for a career in drama.

Performances of "Tovarich" on Thursday, April 10 and 17 will be sponsored by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary society. Tickets will be sold today and may be obtained from the romance languages department and from Jack Powers, president of Pi Delta Phi.

The University box office in Johnson hall will open at 1 p.m. today. The telephone number is extension 3300, local 216.

Dishes are still needed for crockery-smashing in certain scenes of the play. Contributions of china are requested by the drama division and may be taken to the drama office in 106 Johnson hall.

Whisker Meeting

Soph Whiskerino committee heads meet in the Side at 4 o'clock today, Class President Bud Vandeneynde announced last night.
