

In Time With the Tunes

By RUBY JACKSON

In Portland last week the San Carlos opera company presented a series of music dramas to capacity crowds.

In Portland last week Mr. John Stark Evans, professor of music, directed a reportedly gorgeous performance of Beethoven's "Missa Solemnus," with such notables as Don Eva and Verne Sellin taking part.

In Portland in a week or two the La Scala opera company will put in its bid for attention and get it. Among its stars are Tito Schipa, Martinelli, and Richard Bonelli.

Portland Gets Flagstad

To Portland during the 1941-42 concert season will come Kirsten Flagstad, said to be one of the greatest Wagnerian sopranos of all time.

What about Eugene? Couldn't arrangements be made to get Flagstad and perhaps one or two operas? Attendance—the Waterloo of the last opera scheduled here—would take care of itself once the performances were actually announced as part of the UO educational activities series. It's worth thinking about.

Easter day always brings a lot of the world's best music to our radios. Number one place goes tomorrow to the New York Philharmonic broadcast, which will offer an all-Wagner program as follows: Prelude to "Tristan and Isolde"; Isolde's Narration; Venusberger music from "Tannhaeuser"; Siegfried's Rhine Journey, Funeral Music, and Immolation Scene, all from "Goettdaemmerung." (CBS, 12 to 1:30 p.m.)

Ford Presents

Five thousand voices singing the "Hallelujah Chorus" should prove quite a novelty, but that's what will happen on the Ford Sunday evening hour. (CBS, 6 p.m.) Musical selections of note will be presented on the same program.

Though the program for the NBC Saturday concert under Toscanini has not been given in advance, it should prove excellent as usual. (NBC, 6:35 to 8 p.m.)

Enders, Movie Star Appear in Life 'Shot'

John H. Enders, '38, is pictured in the April 14 issue of Life magazine with Veronica Lake, actress star of "I Wanted Wings," and two fellow cadets at Randolph field, Texas, where he is in training.

Enders was a member of Scabbard and Blade while at Oregon and was a rifle marksman and cadet colonel. Miss Veronica visited Randolph for the premiere of the movie.

Dr. Stafford Views Chemistry Layouts

Dr. O. F. Stafford, dean of lower division and service departments, recently took a trip in the interests of the American Chemical society. Dr. Stafford visited many chemistry departments of several Northwest colleges.

Walla Walla college, Washington State, and the University of Montana were the schools where Dr. Stafford was welcomed as an official visitor.

10 Little White Lies

I'll be ready in a second.
I guess we're outa gas.
But, mother, we DID have a flat tire.
Sorry, I have a headache.
So glad to have met you.
I'd rather go with you, but he asked me first.

This won't hurt you at all.
You're a marvelous dancer.
You haven't changed a bit!
I love you, too.

When a student at the University of Texas packed his bags and left for home just before finals last semester, saying he would be back at the beginning of the new semester, friends got to wondering. They called the registrar to discover what courses he was taking and found that he hadn't registered for that term.

He declared he wouldn't have time to play around next term because he was going to register for some courses. Dorm officials were startled into silent amazement.

Spring term social season swings into action with the Order of the O dance tonight . . . this column volunteers no information about said dance until Tuesday.

Triangle department: Betty Norwood, Tri Delt, Bruce Creighton, Fiji, and Stanley Davis, Kappa Sig now in Portland are parties of the first. Les Anderson, Pifi Jean Kendall, and Ox Wilson are involved in the second.

Don't miss the Theta-law school softball game—our lawskule correspondent advocates cokes and pretzels after . . . another law student abandoning the books, Barney Allen, Fiji, dates Jeanne Hauger MOST frequently.

Tridelt Catherine Crane labels Cecil "White" Wright the "sweater boy" . . . Joe Wicks, Theta Chi, has his pin back from an OAC Kappa . . . Catherine Ann Kinch, Alpha Phi, and Bob McDonald, ATO, are picking up where they left off two terms ago—she asked him to the Phi radio dance . . .

We advocate a Sig Ep open house—the boys have a portable dance floor in their back yard which no one has seen as yet—what do they do, dance with themselves??

Stu Randall, Fiji, is going and Scott Corbett, Fidelt, has gone to the Marine Officers Training school in West Virginia . . . and Elaine Clark, Kappa, has been wearing Bob Broderick's ATO pin for some time . . . Lulu Pali is wearing a Zeta hall man's pin . . .

Rabbit Tracks: Bunny Earl, Kappa Sig, seen around with Bunny Lynd, Susie . . . Les Steers, Sigma Chi, steadying with Gammafi Marge Hofsfeldt . . . Chan Kilburn was in the stocks yesterday . . . Lena Schlessor, Gamma Phi has Jack Lansing's Kappa Sig pin again . . . Muriel Meier, Phi, goes with Jim Rathbun, Beta . . .

"They're coming, they're coming, they're coming" was the theme song of three DG pledges from Woodland "Dingy," "Bertie," and Mary the other day—the boys from back home were coming up to see them—so they went down to the Anchorage and greeted them first hand as they drove into town . . .

Mary Ellen Mills, Pifi, has Dave Atkinson's Beta pin—what was she doing at the ATO preference dessert with Frank Shields? . . . Russ Hudson, in his enthusiasm to buy a twistee (he says) bounced downstairs, hit his head on the ceiling, and knocked himself out . . . and Donald Richardson, lawskule business manager, dates a Gammafi lotslots . . .

Lettermen's Dance

Judges for the contest will be Hal Young, professor of voice; George Hopkins, professor of piano, and Wayne Ackers of the Eugene Gleemen.

Campus athletic heroes will greet the couples in their letterman sweaters, Rathbun said, emphasizing that informal clothes are in order.

'Dentera' Studied

Dr. LeRoy Detling, assistant professor of botany, is conducting a special research project in cooperation with Dr. J. T. Baldwin of the University of Michigan. Subject for the study is the Dentera, a genus of the mustard family.

Houses See Movies

Colored motion pictures, featuring Seabeck, the Puget Sound summer conference camp, were shown recently at three campus living organizations. The YW and YM representatives visited Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Kappa Psi, and Hendricks hall.
