McClain Reports To Board Meeting On 1940 Profits

The University Co-op store last year earned Oregon students an estimated $3,206.59, Store Manager M. F. McClain reported yesterday at a meeting of the Co-op board of directors.

Gross profit from July 1, 1940 to March 15, 1941 was $18,215.14, Manager McClain's report estimated. Selling and administrative expenses totaled $15,345.21. Miscellaneous revenues brought the net profit to $3,206.59.

Salaries, many of which were paid to University students, accounted for roughly two-thirds of the year's administrative and selling expenses. Manager McClain's report listed salaries as $9,671.75 out of the $15,345.21 total.

At the meeting Mr. McClain also outlined a brief history of the Co-op and nominations were made to the 1941-42 Co-op board.

Whiskerino Ticket Sale to End Soon

Tickets for the Sophomore Whiskerino are going fast at the Igloo ticket office, Co-chairmen Bill Edelfsen and Ray Packouz revealed last night as they completed preliminary plans for the closing of the ticket sale.

Ticket Head Bob MacDonald has asked that all house representatives check with him by 5 p.m. today. A limited block of tickets are still available but sales will stop as soon as these are gone.

The limited space of Gerlinger hall makes it necessary for sophs to reduce their sale to 450 admissions. Students hearing Russ Morgan and his 20-piece band will be assured plenty of room to dance, the co-chairmen revealed.

Paul Bunyan in person will appear in the form of programs for the dance, Don Barker, program chairman, said yesterday. Decorations for the dance will feature Paul and his blue ox "Babe."

Conferees Redraft, Revise Rule Book At Coast Meeting

After a week of conferences in San Francisco, the Pacific coast athletic conference rule book has been redrafted and revised, according to Orlando Hollis, professor of law, who is a member of the sub-committee in charge of revisions.

The three other members of the committee were: Professor Notlemann, faculty representative from the University of Washington; Professor Owens, representative from Stanford; and Mr. Atherton, coast conference commissioner.

All intercollegiate athletics will be covered in the book, the last issue of which appeared in 1937.

The redraft will be presented to the regular June meeting of the conference committee for discussion and approval. If approved, the new book will be published next fall, said Professor Hollis.

The average student at the University of Indiana last year spent $643.22. The women spent an average of $682.70 and the men $621.07.

'Contaminated' Inmates Kept In The Dark

Swish, pffftt, and it's gone. Now you see it—now you don't. Cards, coins, any old thing, it's all the same to Wishard Brown. They disappear in a cloud of smoke and appear in the strangest places. Brown has kept "the contaminated ones" in such good humor with his endless procession of sleight-of-hand tricks that nurses threaten to keep him on as arbitrator, translator, and keeper of the peace. Visitor's belongings will be returned for a small "discovery" fee.

"Folled again" were: Jean Adams, Judy Sherman, Beatrice Bell, Joan Taylor, Florence Gordon, Sue Wagner, Fontelle Mitchell, Lee Rennolds, Chub Church, Ed Blumenthal, Bruce Stephenson, Phil Putnam, Bob Evans, Harold Schluter, Earl Beck, Phil Reiter, Bill Strieby, and Wish "Swish" Brown.

Dr. Breen Speaks; Officers Installed

"The YMCA is an institution which remembers the forgotten boy," stated Dr. Quirinus Breen, assistant professor of social science and history, at the "Y" spring assembly last night. "One of its aims is to cultivate a justification for that in reason."

He talked further about the scope of the "Y" when he said, "The 'Y' should tie its intellectual interest in with that of universal Christianity."

Officers Dan Bacot, president; Bob Carlson, vice-president; Charles Roffe, secretary; and Leonard Farr, treasurer, were installed at a ceremony during the evening's program.

Peggy Rakestraw, Lillian Davis, and Jane Meek, Alpha Chi Omega trio, sang "Little Fraternity Pin" and other numbers.

Other speakers were Bob Lovell, outlining the "Y's" work for the year, and J. Bernhard Fedde, lawyer, talking on "The University YMCA in Perspective."

Orides to Give Tea For UO Mothers

Plans for entertaining out-of-town mothers of Orides the Friday of Junior Weekend were made by Eugene members of the Orides Mothers club at a potluck luncheon held Tuesday at Joan Parrat's home near Jasper.

The local group will give the others 2 o'clock tea May 9, in the men's lounge of Gerlinger. This will be directly preceding the tea planned for all the mothers of University students which will be given in the same building later in the afternoon.

Dean Hazel P. Schwering, assistant dean Alice B. Macduff, and Miss Janet Smith, head of the student employment agency, were guests at the meeting.

Music Honorary Installs Officers

Abbie Jane White, sophomore in arts and letters, was installed as president of Phi Beta, women's national professional fraternity for music and drama, last Thursday by Marjorie Titus, outgoing president.

Other new officers installed were Gerry Walker, vice-president; Kay Daugherty, second vice-president; Phyllis Gray, recording secretary; Barbara Rutherford, corresponding secretary; Betsy Steffen, treasurer; Sue Sawyer, second treasurer; Leona La Duke, historian; and Genevieve Graves, reporter.

'Intolerance' Trips From Babylon to U.S.

In a four-ring performance Wednesday in Chapman hall, the footsteps of "Intolerance" traced their path. Ranging from the splendor and fall of Babylon to the dejection and resurrection of a 1916 melodramatic factory worker, the film was presented to four University audiences.

The "modern" theme of the resurrected "oldie" sketched the life and hard times of ordinary folks with ordinary foibles and follies, pestered by socialites attempting, with insincere purpose, to "uplift" them.

Intermingled, with almost split-second changes, was the story of the tragic St. Bartholomew's massacre of the French Huguenots. Added to this was the tale of a Babylonian Amazon's war-efforts and the sell-out of her native city, combined with the crucifixion of Christ.

An educational activities presentation, the picture was the third of the "Survey of the Film in America" series. The silent was produced by D. W. Griffith, maker of "Birth of a Nation."

Those aiding in the showing of the movie were Bobby Sinclair, Jean Fridiger, Mary Bentley, Jane Grey, Barbara Lamb, Yvonne Torgler, and Marilee Margason.

Luxuriant-Growth Blackbeard to Get Gold Shaving Mug

Prize winning cup, a gold lettered shaving mug which will be awarded to the soph with the "best" beard at the annual Soph Whiskerino Friday night, will be on display in the Co-op window today and Friday, Jeff Kitchen, contest manager, announced Tuesday.

Judging of the beards will be one of the highlights of the Whiskerino which will feature Russ Morgan and his 20-piece band. Russ Morgan and a committee of Eugene barbers will participate in the selection of the winning second-year man.

Flora Study Made

Dr. LeRoy Detling, assistant professor of botany, and James C. Stovall, instructor in geography, recently made a trip to the coast region between Cleawox Lake and Heceta Head, to study the relationship of the flora of the area to the different ages of sand dunes.

The investigation was made in connection with a research project being carried on by Dr. Detling on the speciation in western Oregon.

Morgan's Career Called 'Meteoric'

Russ Morgan, maker of "Music in the Morgan Manner," got his musical start at the age of seven when he first learned to play the piano, and at fourteen earned his first musical dollar playing in a Scranton, Pennsylvania, theater.

Once in New York, however, his rise was meteoric . . . before he was 20 he was arranger for two of America's greatest composers . . . John Philip Sousa and Victor Herbert. Later Morgan became musical director of the Brunswick Record corporation.

On overtures from NBC he organized his own orchestra, and after rehearsing for only a month opened at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York City where he stayed for a year and a half.

Coming to Eugene Friday, April 18, as part of his Northwest tour schedule, Russ Morgan and his host of entertainers will play for the Sophomore Whiskerino in Gerlinger hall. Featured with the band is Phyllis Lynne, lovely vocalist.

Another added attraction with the Morgan aggregation is Jana . . . lightning sketch artist, who in a few brief moments "does" dancing couples to a point that would honor many a magazine cover.

Theta Sigma Phi Elects New Officers

Oregon's chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honorary for women, last night elected Pat Parker as president for next year.

Helen Angell was named vice-president, Erros Penland, secretary, and Barbara Roberts, treasurer.

Miss Parker, new president of the chapter, was chosen to represent Oregon at Theta Sig's annual national convention in June. This year's convention will meet at Bloomington, Indiana.

Formal installation of officers will take place within the next two weeks.
