Math Teacher To Talk Today

London Man to Tell Of Interpreting Physical Theories

Dr. Thomas Greenwood, professor of mathematics and lecturer from the University of London, will speak today at 4 in 103 Deady on "Interpretation of Physical Theories," in the last of the University lecture series.

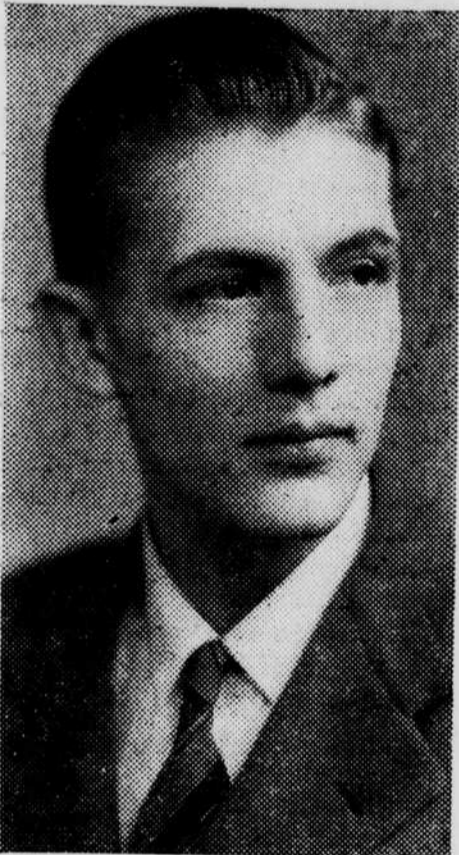

Dr. Greenwood, who has been a visiting lecturer and political correspondent in Britain and America for the past 15 or 20 years, is known to be an entertaining and well qualified speaker. His experiences in traveling have added much to his general knowledge of educational methods and social conditions in various parts of the world.

Professor Greenwood is a well-known writer, as well as being editor of a London magazine, The Philosopher.

Since his arrival in America in June of 1939, Dr. Greenwood has lectured in many universities from Kentucky to Oregon. He is a former Rockefeller research assistant, and has specialized in philosophy, logic, and general science at the Universities of Paris, London, and Vienna.

The lecture is open to the public, and is under the joint sponsorship of Sigma Xi, science honorary, and Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary.

Cullen Murphy Chosen Queen's 'Man of Honor'

'Prime Minister' To Share Royal Float in Festivities

Cullen Murphy became official escort to Queen Annabelle Dow in the land of Arabian Nights and mystic Oriental geni last night when Gene Brown, general chairman of Junior Weekend, appointed him prime minister for Oregon's May fete.

Murphy was selected following consideration of eligible junior class candidates. He will appear as "man of honor" with her royal highness on public occasions and will plan most official events at which the queen will appear.

Revise Ex-Comm?

Amendment Submitted

Following is the amendment, signed by 150 University students, which would provide for the addition of six members to the ASUO executive committee:

"Two members having an academic standing as freshmen, two members having an academic standing as sophomores, and two members having an academic standing as juniors. These persons are to be elected by the student body at large at the same time and in the same manner as the student body officers."

This amendment would be added to the section of the constitution which provides for members on the executive committee.

The amendment will be proposed to students at a special assembly at 11 this morning in Gerlinger. Students will vote on the amendment May 8 at regular student body elections.

Moot Lawsuits To Start May 1

Collins Demands Damage Payment From Rementeria

First law school moot trial, involving an accident suit, will be presented by University student lawyers Thursday, May 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the circuit court room of the Lane county courthouse.

The situation, drawn up by Orlando J. Hollis, professor of law, involves Dave Rementeria in a suit by Hugh Collins for damages allegedly resulting from Rementeria's negligence.

Attorneys for the plaintiff will be Dick Bryson and Brock Miller. Rementeria's action will be defended by Jack Dunn and Jack Hay.

Other law school students who will serve at the trial include: Bob Recken, clerk; notary public and bailiff, William Robert; sheriff and court reporter, Elmo Vickers.

"We like to have non-law school students for jurors at these trials," said Professor Hollis. "Any students who wish to serve on the jury panel during these trials may hand their names to the clerk, Bob Recken."

There will be four moot trials, one every Thursday until May 22.

Act, Don't Dream Captain Admonishes

If you're tired of studying and long to sail the high seas—stop just dreaming about it and go ahead. That's what Captain Dwight Long did back in 1934 when he was a student at the University of Washington—and it's paid him dividends.

Captain Long will present a two-hour technicolor movie to University students Friday evening at 7:30 in McArthur court. Free to all students on their activities cards, the talk and film will give the story of his four years of globe trotting.

Captain Long has sailed 32,000 miles since the fall of 1934 (he was 21 at the time) and with his exciting adventures to relate has written two books "Seven Seas on a Shoestring," which reached the best seller class, and "Sailing All Seas."

'Old' Freshmen Meet Tonight in Villard

Members of the "old freshman class" will meet at 7:30 tonight in Villard, Jim Burness, class president, announced last night.

Burness said the meeting would be a regular business meeting to pick up loose ends of the business that has been going on.

ASUO President "Tiger" Payne will speak to members on the class card issue.

Amendment Adds Six Men To Council

Wyatt's Suggested Reorganization Adopted by Board

Oregon's executive committee yesterday gave the "green light" to the proposed constitutional amendment, enlarging the executive committee by six members, when they voted to refer it to the student body immediately.

The proposed amendment calls for an enlargement of the present committee to include six new members, two seniors, two juniors,

A special ASUO assembly to propose an amendment to the constitution, to provide for more positions on the executive committee, has been called for 11 today by ASUO President Tiger Payne.

and two sophomores. This would make a total of twelve members on the entire committee. The proposal was drawn up and presented by Wendell Wyatt, head of a special constitutional committee appointed last fall by ASUO President Tiger Payne.

The amendment will be proposed to the students at a special meeting today at 11 o'clock in Gerlinger hall. In accordance with the constitution the amendment will be printed in the Emerald and will be voted on by ballot one week from today.

In order to put the amendment into effect this year, should it pass, the executive committee voted to postpone ASUO nominations until Tuesday, May 6. An amendment to the by-laws, effective only this year, was then passed to permit the holding of elections on Thursday, May 8, with only two days instead of the customary seven intervening between nominations and elections.

The constitutional amendment as it will be proposed at the assembly today appears in this morning's paper.

Applicants to Take Second ROTC Exam

Nearly 100 sophomore applicants to advanced ROTC will take the second half of their eligibility examination today under the direction of Captain H. W. Hall of the military science department.

A board consisting of Colonel J. W. Crissy, Major C. E. Knickerbocker and Captain H. W. Hall is examining the students to select next year's first year advanced class. About 50 principals and 50 alternates will be chosen. The selections will be made with regard to leadership and tactical knowledge.

The examination for sophomores will take place immediately after the regular regimental drill today.

Manager Bids Due

All Oregon and Emerald business manager petitions must be in George Root's office in McArthur court by 5 Friday.

Library Contest Judges Named

Student Collections Will Pass Faculty Inspection May 3

Judges have been selected for the University library's annual contest for the best student personal library, M. H. Douglass, librarian, announced Wednesday night. The contest is a feature of Library day, which is held on May 3.

Judging undergraduate libraries will be a committee headed by George Belknap, University editor, and including Mrs. Barbara McMillan, librarian at Eugene high school, Mrs. Victor P. Morris, Dr. F. W. Skiff, Portland, and Mrs. Alice Henson Ernst, associate professor of English.

Libraries of graduate students will be judged by Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology and geography, who will act as chairman, Dr. H. D. Sheldon, professor of history and education, Dr. Andrew Fish, professor of history, Lucy M. Lewis, director of libraries of the Oregon state system of higher education, and Dr. Edna Landros, acting head, classics department.

Prizes for the contest will be donated by the association of patrons and friends of the library and by the Oregon News company.

Students may enter their collections in the contest on or before April 30; entrants will be held responsible for having their books in place by 9:30 a.m. Saturday, May 3. Judging will begin at 10:30 that morning.

The banquet committee, as announced by Chairman Phyllis Sanders, is composed of June Johnson, hostess; Nelda Christensen and Marge Curtis, decorations; Elizabeth Steed, entertainment; Greg Decker, boys' service; Pat Salisbury, girls' service; Donna Ray, entertainment.

Impressionistic Film Stumps UO Students

Four blase University audience cheered and hissed gleefully Wednesday at the revived film, "Sunrise" but were completely stumped by the German-produced "Hands." The films were presented on an educational activities program and projected in Chapman hall.

Some declared that "Hands," which was presented through the medium of hands alone, was "naughty." Others insisted it was "dramatic" but not objectionable. "I don't get it," one coed declared ruefully.

The producer of the picture, on the other hand, insisted that no serious implication or message was expressed. The medium of hands was used so that the personalities of the actors would not hamper the dramatic quality of the action. Weird, discordant music furthered the film's impressionism.

Janet Gaynor, looking like a reincarnation of Bette Davis, and exophthalmic George O'Brien starred in "Sunrise." Designed to show the influence of German impressionism on the American cinema, the film was produced just prior to the advent of "Talkies" and featured music masked in on a separate sound track.

Wednesday's program was the fourth in a series of six movie revivals sponsored by the educational activities board.
