

ADPis to Celebrate Their Nintieth Year

By PHYLLIS FOSTER

With the last open weekend before Junior Weekend, house dances, radio dances, picnics, desserts, conventions, and receptions fill the social calendar.

Saturday night the Chi Omega freshmen are giving their annual spring house dance with Wally Heider's orchestra. The theme is "Stardust." Alpha Delta Pi plans a busy weekend with "Spring in New York" as the theme for their house dance Friday night with Art Holman's orchestra, and on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 they are giving a reception honoring their housemother, Mrs. Lucy Perkins, who has been with them for 21 years. The reception will also honor the 90th anniversary of the sorority.

"May Day" Theme

"May Day" is the theme of the Sigma Nu spring formal where Fred Beardsley's orchestra will play. Ray Dickson will swing out with the newest southern melodies at the Theta Chi's "Tropical Nights" spring dance. Pi Beta Phi is having their spring formal at the Eugene hotel with Eddie Gipson's rhythm. The Alpha Omicron Pi freshmen are entertaining the upperclassmen Friday night with Wally Heider's orchestra—the theme is a secret. Carl Roosen's band will play at the only costume dance of the weekend at the Delta Upsilon house with "Beachcomber's Ball" as the theme. Phi Kappa Psi is having a radio dance Friday evening.

Theme Secret

Saturday night Sigma Chi's spring formal with Ray Dickson's orchestra will have "Flowers of Spring" as their theme. Another secret theme is the Alpha Chi Omega house dance (Fred Beardsley will play). Alpha Gamma Delta is giving their spring formal at the Eugene hotel with Bill Kremel's orchestra. Kirkwood Co-op will give a radio dance.

Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon are having section conventions here this weekend, and Delta Delta Delta and Gamma Phi Beta will attend conventions in Portland. The Gamma Phi chorus will sing Saturday at their province convention.

Week's Events

Social events during the week were:

Monday: Zeta Tau Alpha had a formal banquet for incoming officers which was followed by installation.

Tuesday: Phi Sigma Kappa entertained the house mothers of

"A Night in Rio" fashions are having their day on the campus.

Lilian Davis wears a South American skirt that is different. Varying from the flowered all-over variety it has a few red flowers near the hem on a natural colored background. . . . Janet Morris has a "gaucho" horse. This clever lapel gadget resembles the real thing, horse hair and all. . . . Betty Norwood wears a dressy black and white Hawaiian print with turban and huge bag to match. . . . Georgia Hartman's gray-turquoise skirt and jerkin are smart with a brown and white silk shirt. . . . Dawn Corey's red and white sun dress with its quilted jacket is something to talk about. Red anklets with white tufts of yarn add that certain something. . . . Mary Bentley is making style history in her smooth turquoise suit, white sweater, and turquoise jewelry. . . . Joyce Bechtell dons red shoes with her white shark-skin dress. . . . Betty Rayhoun's canoes in a rose and white silk shirt. . . . Marijane Eaton is making her own calico seed bean necklaces. . . . For cool days Rohda Hardson tries a brown, red, and white plaid wool shirt. . . . Mary Ellen Smith's sheer wool dress in dusty blue makes them take notice.

Phi Bete Thinks She Studied Too Hard

By MARY ANN CAMPBELL

If dark-eyed Florence Kinney, senior in English and member of Senior Six, could start her college career all over again, she would do as she has done in her three years on the campus. Her only regret is that she didn't take an extra year so she could take more courses that she feels she needs for a more complete understanding of her education.

"With an extra year, I could have taken fewer hours and acquired more pleasure and more learning from my courses," she said.

Florence took 21 hours last spring term and has enrolled twice in summer school in order to graduate this June.

"I have had what I expected out of college," she said, "but I don't think I have any very definite ideas what college should do for me. It has been so short that it only whetted my appetite and I haven't really attained anything other than a stimulated curiosity and a desire for more studying."

According to Florence, a balanced sense of values is the greatest thing a university education can give students.

She is very much in favor of group living, whether in a sorority or dormitory, and would have liked to pledge, "but," she said, "it is not worth borrowing money in order to live in a sorority."

Besides being a scholar, Florence has taken part in campus activities. She was vice-president of her freshman class, has won tennis cups, and this year was president of her living organization, Susan Campbell hall.

She is entirely self-supporting and has been throughout her college career. Besides her Phi Beta Kappa key, she also wears the emblem of Phi Beta, music and dramatic honorary.

Florence is giving a good deal of time these days to planning her wedding, which is set for the day after graduation.
