

Girls Bike Open Road From N.Y. to Oregon

By RUBY JACKSON

They were just eating supper when we found them—two pretty, sunburned young ladies with vibrant personalities and new ideas about how to travel. Their names are Sarah Moskowitz, 21, and Eugenie Charpentier, 20. For 15 weeks they have been touring the country on bicycles.

"We talked three years before our parents would let us take the trip," Sarah said. "We worked for three years to get the money, too."

The girls live in New York city, and work as bookkeepers.

Before the trip is over the young travellers will have visited over 20 states, and 3 nations. "We went into Mexico," Eugenie laughed. "It cost us two cents to get in, and a penny to get out. Canada? Oh yes, we'll go up to Vancouver at least."

"This is the first youth hostel we've found in any state," the girls said. "It's certainly grand. We have a round trip train ticket for six months time. We stop where we please, take our bicycles, and just go everywhere."

Clothes are no problem to the enterprising pair. "We carry four seasons of clothes," they explained. "When we stop somewhere we take out what we need and send the rest ahead to our next stop."

They liked Washington, D.C., thought Florida was lovely enough to cover entirely, and enjoyed the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. In the next two months they will take in the McKenzie pass and the coast highway up to Seattle.

"About 56 miles a day is what we make on good roads," Sarah said. "And it isn't expensive. It costs us under $10 each a week. Sometimes we can get a good room for $3 a week. If we stay somewhere just one night it costs more." Both girls were of the opinion that a youth hostel system throughout the country would cut travel expenses in half.

"We'll be back," they said, "just as soon as we can save some money and do this all over again."

Five Sororities Send Students To Conclave

Province Meetings In Washington, Oregon, Canada

The Delta Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Delta Delta Delta sorority houses are holding northwest province meetings this weekend, and the Pi Beta Phi sorority house held one last weekend.

Maxine Hansen left by airplane Thursday accompanied by Madeline Giussina, a Eugene alumna, to attend the Delta Gamma northwestern province meeting which is being held in Vancouver, B.C., Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Northwest Gathers

All of the Eugene, Corvallis, and Idaho members of Gamma Phi Beta are attending their northwestern meeting being held in the Mallory hotel in Portland Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Representatives from the Washington and British Columbia chapters are also expected.

Four delegates of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority are attending their meeting on the Oregon State campus this Friday and Saturday. They are Bette Morfitt, Virginia Garbin, Barbara Crain, and Barbara Johnson. All of the delegates will eat "brunch" at the Oregon chapter at 10:30 Sunday.

15 to Portland

The Delta Delta Delta sorority is sending approximately 15 girls to attend its province meeting at the Benson hotel in Portland Saturday.

Last weekend, April 25 and 26, Betty Anderson, Elizabeth Daggett, June Tyler, Mary Louise Vincent, and Margaret DeBault represented the Pi Beta Phi house at its meeting in Spokane. All of the northwest chapters including those from Alberta, Canada, sent delegates.

Pitt college has a coed band major and when asked how she liked her job she bubbled, "It's marvelous . . . I look over my shoulder and there are 120 men . . . following me!"

University Co-op Store Celebrates 'Coming of Age'

Twenty-one years ago the University Co-op began business in the same building as the College Side at 13th and Kincaid; at present, in its new location in Chapman hall the Co-op is celebrating its twenty-first year in business.

The first year of business the total sales amounted to $16,000. This past year the sales have amounted to more than six times that much.

"The Co-op has become of age, we're old enough to vote," declared M. F. McClain, store manager, as he made preparations for the celebration sale.
