Gracious Queen Annabelle and Five Princesses To Part Curtains on 'Arabian' Junior Weekend

By RAY SCHRICK

"Open sesame . . ." and lo, the University of Oregon will open today!

The magic command, entrance to treasures of Arabian Nights, will spread wide the gates of Junior Weekend and to a recreation of the land of Aladdin, genii, and magic lamps.

A campus luncheon at 12 o'clock will be first campus-wide meeting of mothers and friends in a weekend thrown from the world of facts to fantasy.

Queen Annabelle Dow and her court of four princesses will rule a magic realm through fun and seriousness, through state and frolic, through all the wonders that made Arabian Nights a fairyland of enchantment to the Oriental eye.

Coronation, mock canoe fete, baseball, and tonight a Junior Prom will be major events in a program designed to keep each minute in maximum use.

Clearing campus skies last night pointed to a weekend free from the wiles of rainy weather. Prepared for any occasion, each event will run exactly to schedule.
