

Coronation of Queen Starts Weekend Fun At Campus Luncheon

Serving, Tapping of Pledges for Friars, Mortar Board, Asklepiads on Program; Musical Numbers Also Scheduled

A prayer on their lips for sunshine today, Junior Weekend heads yesterday announced completion of plans for an outside luncheon starting at 12 noon.

The first big act on a full weekend calendar, the luncheon will see coronation of Queen Annabelle Dow in open-air ceremonies—providing there is no downpour. In case of last-minute rain, complete setting will shift to the Igloo, Bette Morfitt, chairman announced.

Serving and tapping of pledges for Asklepiads, Mortar Board, and Friars will last from 12 to 1

Tickets to the campus luncheon will be on sale at Booths today for 25 cents. Mothers may also obtain them when they register in Johnson hall.

p.m. Promptly at 1 p.m. a program of entertainment will spread among campus dancers.

A horseback procession of Scabbard and Blade men will bring Queen Annabelle to her coronation throne. These men will be in full military dress and wear white turbans. Prime Minister Cullen Murphy and Master of Ceremonies Jim Davidson will also symbolize the Oriental scene with the turbans.

Fred Beardsley's orchestra, a solo by Les Ready with accompaniment by Phyllis Gray, and a brief talk by Dr. Donald M. Erb will provide a full program of entertainment.

"Instead of 'Pomp and Circumstance' which is generally used for the coronation march, this year's luncheon will feature a 40-person chorus from the University high school," Miss Morfitt revealed. "These students will sing the princess theme from 'The Persian Market.'"

Arabian Mood To Rule Tonight At Junior Prom

Picked Junior Duo To Receive Koyl, Gerlinger Awards

Arabian Nights will transform McArthur court into a realm of wonderland at 9 o'clock tonight.

From the opening waltz, dedicated to Queen Annabelle Dow and her court of four, the nomadic atmosphere of Junior Weekend will turn to the Igloo for the Junior prom.

Art Holman, campus band leader, will direct his orchestra atop a revolving bandstand. Decorations will be reminiscent of the Far East and the geni of Aladdin's time.

In semi-formal attire students will come to the dance and to see the presentation of the Koyl and Gerlinger cups to the most outstanding junior man and woman of the year.

Declaring everything "ready to go," Jack Saltzman, prom chairman, announced that final touches will be put on the professionally decorated ballroom this afternoon.

A special section has been set aside for Moms and patrons, according to Betty Jo Shown, chairman of the official welcoming committee. Moms will be admitted free of charge to the prom.

Open House for Mothers to Be Held

To accommodate mothers and visitors, Westminster house will hold open house all Saturday afternoon. Tea will be served.

Sunday morning at 9:45 a musical program has been planned for students, their mothers, and sisters. Mrs. E. E. DeCou will speak at this time.
