

UO Mothers Will Meet Today for a Business and social meet at 9:45 in the Guild theater of Johnson hall. Mrs. Herbert M. Clark, president of the Oregon Mothers, will preside.

Scholarship discussion and election of new officers will be the main business at the mothers' meeting, it was understood last night. The session will be over by 12:30 in time for lunch in campus living organizations.

For their benefit a campus tour will be conducted at 2 p.m. At this time mothers will be shown major points of interest on the campus.

The Sunlight Serenade at 4 p.m. at the Music building will feature music by the University band, winners of living organization song contests, and the Delt quartet, baritone Les Ready, and an a cappella chorus. The concert will be held outside.

The annual Mothers' banquet at 5:30 in Gerlinger will be one of the highlights of the day. Governor and Mrs. Charles A. Sprague will be introduced at the banquet as will other University, state, and mothers' and dads' notables.

A special mothers' program will be broadcast over KOAC from 7 to 8. Among those on the program are: W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor of speech; Joseph F. Riesch, president of the Oregon Dads, Margaret Zimmerman and Martha K. Moore, musicians; Edgar C. Smith, member of the state board of higher education; University President Donald M. Erb; Sigurd Nilssen, professor of voice; and Miss Maude Garnett, assistant professor of public school music. Miss Garnett will lead group singing of "Mighty Oregon" to end the program.

Five men's groups will serenade women's houses at 10:30 p.m. Both men's and women's mothers will be special guests at women's houses.

The new board of directors and officers will breakfast with old members in the regents room of John Straub Memorial at 8:30 Sunday to discuss group plans for the coming year.

Most Eugene churches have planned special Mothers' day services at 11 a.m. Dinner in campus living organizations will be at 1.

Sweat Rolling Off Male Heads Dampened the endeavors of the Junior Weekend director ate at their last meeting as they strove to finish up final details of the festival. So much sweat, it appears, that their minds were drowned by their efforts.

For, after the busy, busy meeting was over and they adjourned for cokes, a bull-session, the boys began comparing notes. "We've got to get dates for some of the local non-Don Juans who have just got to be at the prom," they worried with wolfish grins.

"Hold on there! Just a minute. Dates! M'gosh, we've got to get dates for the Prom! And not just for other guys, either!" Shocked eyelids lifted over bloodshot eyeballs.

A quick Gallup poll was taken and the results were an Arabian Nightmare. Of the 10 members of the directorate only one, the piggin' marvel Jim Carney, had a date for the Prom, at which all of them will have to appear. In the rush of events the other nine had forgotten completely about this "minor" matter.

concerto through the past 150 years will be offered in an entertaining demonstration next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the music auditorium of the University of Oregon school of music in a program presented by students of George Hopkins, composer and professor of piano.

Highlight of the recital is expected to be the premiere performance of Mr. Hopkins' "modern American composition for two pianos," aptly titled "Transcontinental."

The program is open to the public. Opening the group of selections will be the first movement of Beethoven's "Concerto in C Minor," played by Dorothy Gelman, followed by the first movement of Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor," played by Emery Hobson. Marian Isted will be heard in performance of the second movement of "Concerto in G Minor" by Mendelssohn.

Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor," first movement, will be performed by Jane Partipilo, and the first movement of MacDowell's "Concerto in D Minor" will be offered by Leone LaDuke. Laurel Burggraf will be heard in the second movement of "Concerto in G Major" by Ravel. The "Transcontinental" will conclude the program.

The orchestral accompaniment for each number will be played by Mr. Hopkins.

the loan fund will be named after Mrs. E. C. Peetz, past president and a member who has pushed the mothers' scholarship drive.

A tea sponsored by the Associated Women Students, the YWCA, and the Eugene Mothers' club was held in Gerlinger yesterday afternoon.

the millrace tonight and the last Arabian antic has been pulled off, mothers visiting on the campus and their daughters will go to the various women's living organizations where they will be serenaded by five campus fraternities. Men will take their mothers to any women's living organization and leave them there for the serenading.

Fraternities which will do the singing and the houses they will serenade are as follows:

Sigma Nu: Alpha Phi, Gamma Phi Beta, and Hilyard house.

Theta Chi: Delta Delta Delta, Highland house, and Sigma Kappa.

Beta Theta Pi: Zeta Tau Alpha, Hendricks hall, Susan Campbell hall, and Chi Omega.

Phi Delta Theta: Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Kappa Alpha Theta.

Delta Tau Delta: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Gamma, and Alpha Chi Omega.

Alpha Tau Omega: University house, Pi Beta Phi, and Alpha Xi Delta.

If rain does not come today or tomorrow this will be the 28th canoe fete in which it has not rained.

add another bit toward Oregon's student union building, according to Phyllis Sanders, chairman.

All profit from the dollar-a-plate meal will be added to the erection fund as the Class of '42's contribution to the union, Miss Sanders said.

In order to contribute a larger sum, Miss Sanders has arranged for student waiters to donate their services and to eat at their own respective organizations.

Three shifts of banquet workers will break up the duties for the dinner with an 11 o'clock group setting tables, 4:30, table setting, and 5 o'clock, serving.

Pat Salisbury and Greg Decker are in charge of the women and men servers.
