

George Washington 'Sleeps Here' Tonight In University Theater

First Performance of Kaufman-Hart Hit By Amateur Group Set for 8 o'Clock; Play Also Scheduled for May 17, 20

"George Washington Slept Here," latest Kaufman-Hart comedy hit which just finished a long Broadway run, opens here tonight at 8 o'clock in the University theater in the play's first amateur performance. It will also be presented here May 17 and 20. Reservations may be obtained at the University box office in Johnson hall, extension 216.

First in war, first in peace, and first in the heart of Newton Fuller is George Washington, first president of the United States. The father of the Fuller family buys a broken-down Pennsylvania farmhouse just because the father of his country supposedly slept there one night.

OPENS TONIGHT

Walker Treece, top, plays Newton Fuller, male lead in "George Washington Slept Here," which opens tonight. Below, Frank Calhoun plays Uncle Stanley, supposedly rich uncle of the cast.

Further complications ensue when Raymond, the Dead-End Kid nephew, arrives for a visit while his mother is in Reno getting a divorce. Raymond wants to be a brat, and is entirely successful.

There is also an over-amorous actor who manages to confuse matters for a time, and house full of weekend guests who clutter up the place. All to all this electrical storms, spendthrift caretakers, vindictive neighbors, and a grasping mortgage-holder.

However, "all's well that ends well," and all ends well for the Fullers, with promise of a future perhaps not entirely peaceful but always interesting.

But the farmhouse has long outlived such past glory and has degenerated into a rickety old ruin.

Things don't look any brighter when the rich Uncle Stanley descends upon the family. His finicky ways and insistent demands are somewhat offset by his wealth, but life with Uncle Stanley is not all sunshine.

Only a Shanty

Further complications ensue when Raymond, the Dead-End Kid nephew, arrives for a visit while his mother is in Reno getting a divorce. Raymond wants to be a brat, and is entirely successful.

There is also an over-amorous actor who manages to confuse matters for a time, and house full of weekend guests who clutter up the place. All to all this electrical storms, spendthrift caretakers, vindictive neighbors, and a grasping mortgage-holder.

However, "all's well that ends well," and all ends well for the Fullers, with promise of a future perhaps not entirely peaceful but always interesting.

Further complications ensue when Raymond, the Dead-End Kid nephew, arrives for a visit while his mother is in Reno getting a divorce. Raymond wants to be a brat, and is entirely successful.

There is also an over-amorous actor who manages to confuse matters for a time, and house full of weekend guests who clutter up the place. All to all this electrical storms, spendthrift caretakers, vindictive neighbors, and a grasping mortgage-holder.

However, "all's well that ends well," and all ends well for the Fullers, with promise of a future perhaps not entirely peaceful but always interesting.

Further complications ensue when Raymond, the Dead-End Kid nephew, arrives for a visit while his mother is in Reno getting a divorce. Raymond wants to be a brat, and is entirely successful.

There is also an over-amorous actor who manages to confuse matters for a time, and house full of weekend guests who clutter up the place. All to all this electrical storms, spendthrift caretakers, vindictive neighbors, and a grasping mortgage-holder.

ALL'S LEGAL NOW

ASUO officers for next year were sworn into office by Gov. Charles A. Sprague Thursday at the last student body assembly of the year. Serving the student body next year will be: left to right, Lou Torgeson, president, Bob Calkins, first vice-president; Jim Frost, second vice-president; Bette Morfitt, secretary treasurer; Bob Lovell, senior co-mediator, and Governor Sprague.

OREGON DAILY EMERALD

VOLUME XLII UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1941 NUMBER 128

Tea to Honor New Emerald Editor

Helen Angell, newly appointed editor of the Emerald, will be honored at an informal tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the alumni room of Gerlinger hall sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism honorary. All girls majoring in journalism or working on the Emerald are invited to attend. Mrs. George Turnbull will pour. Campus clothes are in order for the tea.

Sprague Inducts ASUO Officers

Pi Phis, SAEs Receive Honors as Most Spirited Groups in Student Meetings, Ex-Prexy Payne Does Final Emcee

By JOANNE NICHOLS

Knowledge must be supplemented by earthy realism and moral idealism, Governor Charles A. Sprague told a capacity audience at Gerlinger hall yesterday morning at the installation of next year's ASUO officers.

"We have looked to education as the bulwark of democracy," he said, "but knowledge alone is not sufficient unless it is based on a foundation of wisdom. Wisdom is indispensable in the solution of individual and social problems, so we must move individually and socially toward wisdom."

Straight, Narrow

Only by a combination of an appreciation of life's fundamentals with a sense of direction and the moral incentive to drive one in that direction can we as men and women retain our moral balance or the world be improved by its future leaders, he asserted.

After giving the inauguration oath to the newly elected student body officers, Governor Sprague urged them not to let personal matters influence their judgment but to administer their duties with a strong sense of honor and justice in the interests of the University and of the student body.

New Officers

Newly installed officers are: Lou Torgeson, president; Bob Calkins, first vice-president; Jim Frost, second vice-president; Bette Morfitt, secretary-treasurer; Becky Anderson and Bob Lovell, senior executive council representatives; Steve Worth and John Busterud, junior representatives; Charles Woodruff and Oglesby Young, sophomore representatives.

The Pi Phis and the SAEs were honored as the living organizations which have shown the most spirit at assemblies throughout the year. President Donald M. Erb introduced Governor Sprague. Master of ceremonies was outgoing ASUO Prexy Tiger Payne, who introduced and thanked outstanding faculty and student leaders.

Boys Rate as Girls Date

IS HE MORTARFIED?

Tickets for the Mortar Board ball are going fast but there are still many good dates available, according to Betty Buchanan, ticket sales chairman. The dance is set for Saturday night.

Joanne Riesch, dance chairman, promises that the floor of McArthur court will be in fine condition. Art Holman and his band will furnish music for the occasion.

Tickets, priced at $1 each, are now on sale in all women's living organizations and the following girls are in charge:

Alpha Chi Omega, Marjorie Curtis; Alpha Delta Pi, Janet Ross; Alpha Gamma Delta, Norma Baker; Alpha Omicron Pi, Penny Mullen; Alpha Phi, Janet Farnham; Alpha Xi Delta, Florence Cooley; Chi Omega, Patty Pearson; Delta Delta Delta, Mary Jane Bunn; Delta Gamma, Jacqueline Laraway; Hendricks hall, Lillian Zidell; Highland house, Rosemarie Riley; Hilyard house, Aida Brun; Kappa Alpha Theta, Betty Stockwell; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Jean Johnston; Pi Beta Phi, Joan Goodrum; Sigma Kappa, Veva Peterson; Susan Campbell, Babs Du Puy; University house, Elaine Lee; Zeta Tau Alpha, Lois Hosford; Gamma Phi Beta, Neva Haight; and Orides, Carol Bird.

Politics Finis No. 2

Erb's crack in assembly Surely hit home. Why 'twas almost as subtle As yesterday's pome.

—J.W.S.

Four of Oregon's most beautiful coeds chase hot on the trail of Lou Torgeson, new student body president, to get a date for Mortar Board Saturday night. Women pictured are, from left, Janet Goresky, Marge McLean, Winifred Wilhelm, and Bette Morfitt.

Tomorrow's edition of the Emerald will be the freshman edition. Bob Frazier will act as editor-for-a-day.

Orides Sponsors Independent Dance

Orides will sponsor the last of a series of Friday night informal dances for independents in Gerlinger hall tonight.

Dancing will begin at 8:30, according to Jeanne Smith, chairman, and will continue until 11:30. Campus clothes will be in order.

A charge of 15 cents will be made of all non-Orides members who wish to attend the dance.

Chancellor Leaves For Policies Meeting

Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter of the Oregon state system of higher education, left here this week for Skytop, Pennsylvania, where he will attend the spring meeting of the educational policies commission. As member of the commission Dr. Hunter was chairman of the EPC conference co-sponsored by the Oregon state system on the University of Oregon campus March 24. The chancellor will return to Eugene about May 26.