Anchorage Feed Follows Ceremony At Gerlinger Hall

Newly-elected pledges of Skull and Dagger, sophomore service honorary, were initiated Thursday evening in Gerlinger hall. Immediately afterwards a banquet was held at the Anchorage.

Officers from these outstanding men selected from the outgoing freshman class are Frank Lockwood, president; Rand Potts, vice-president; Jerry Battles, secretary; and John Gleason, treasurer.

Membership was increased this year from 16 to 20, so that more representatives could be chosen from among independents on the campus.

Initiates are: Robert Ballard, Leonard Barde, Jerry Battles, Lawrence Beckstrom, James Bennison, Bill Bishop, James Burness, Barry Campbell, and Allan Cellars.

Roger Dick, Uly Dorais, John Gleason, James Igl, Eldon Lee, Frank Lockwood, Rand Potts, James Thayer, Oglesby Young, Charles Woodruff.

Guests at the initiation and banquet included Jack Lansing, last year's president; Harry Bergtholdt, president of two years ago; Ken Erickson, former member of Skull and Dagger; and Roy Vernstrom, who was initiated as adviser to the group.

At Half-Time, Frosh Glee Puppy Propaganda

By BOB FRAZIER

The next 10 days will be busy for campus dogs. First entries to the Frosh Glee's 'Dog Days' competition, rolling in yesterday, brought the competition total to seven. More are expected soon, Glee heads said.

Complete personality sketches came with some of the entries. Other houses entered their dogs without description, claiming that facts speak for themselves.

'Mike'
The Theta Chi enter "Mike," a 3-year-old German shepherd. Mike, they say, "gets around."

'Stubby'
"Stubby," a 7-months-old mongrel, is the DU's offering. A policeman gave the dog to the boys.

'Baron'
Black, thoroughbred "Baron," the 1-year-8-months-old Great Dane of Delta Tau Delta was entered.

'Super Dog'
The SAEs are not sure of the variety of "Super Dog," their 8-weeks-old entry, but they say he is the "best parts of every dog God ever made combined into Super Dog."

'Mazie'
Not to be outdone by modesty in other groups, the Sigma Nus declare their 3-months-old spaniel pup, "Mazie," is the "cutest dog on the campus."

'Red Dog'
A dog with a college degree was entered into the race when the ATOs signed in "Red Dog,"

Degree Fees

Candidates for degrees this June should pay the graduation fee before May 29. Delay may postpone graduation until next year.

a 5-and-one-half-year-old Irish setter. "Red Dog," backers say, is a "Master of Arts and Litters." Nor does this end his accomplishments. Glee heads declare that he "sleeps with the ATOs." Red Dog will be paraded around the campus and taken to each house on a "campaign trip."

'Smoky'
No stranger to campus nobility is "Smoky," the Phi Delt's police dog. Two years ago he was "King of the Canines." Smoky likes blue, backers say, but "doesn't like the Sigma Nus' chow."

Time Rates to Take Dive for '41 Class

Time magazine has enacted a special reduced subscription rate for graduating seniors, according to George Luoma, campus agent for Time, Inc.

The publishers of Time believe that young men leaving school will want to keep abreast of current affairs, and the reduced rate will allow those with strapped budgets to subscribe.

Further information can be obtained from George Luoma, Alpha hall.

Condon Clubbers To Picnic Today

Members of Condon club, their guests, and members of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geological honorary at Oregon State college, will picnic this afternoon at the Benton-Lane park. Faculty members from both schools have also been invited.

Principal feature of the afternoon's entertainment will be a baseball game between the two groups. There will also be swimming and other games, with a campfire following supper in the evening.

Initiation for new members of Condon club will be held, and the annual presentation of a book to some member who has achieved high honors in geology will be made.

The group will leave Condon hall at 1 p.m. today, according to Bob Brooke, president.

Oregana Pictures Go on Sale Tuesday

Gals and guys may purchase any of the pictures in the Oregana Tuesday when Editor Wilbur Bishop dumps all "originals" on a bargain table sale in McArthur court.

No pictures can be preserved and "first come, first served" policy will be used in selling the photographs, Bishop declared.

The sale will last two days or as long as the pictures hold out, the editor said.

Mr. Switzer will talk on "Merchandising and Advertising" to classes in retail advertising, newspaper problems, and advertising problems.

For Your Next Picnic

- A box of chicken in the rough from Seymour's will go over with a bang. Its tempting golden-brown color; its delicious, fresh flavor; and its crisp tenderness — will make your picnic a success.

- Take along a box of Van Duyn candy, too. Its goodness is superior to other candies. You'll be popular with everybody for thinking of it.
