

From All Sides

By MILDRED WILSON

A special "tap day" edition of the Pitt News which appeared recently was composed entirely of news concerning students tapped by various honoraries—and the appointment of positions on the campus publications and in activities.

Containing eight pages of tap day sidelights, including the names and brief sketches of all tappers, the issue was the first of its kind ever attempted at Pitt.

Also included in the paper was the announcement of the senior queen and her main attendant. Some of the honoraries which tapped students were Mortar Board, ODK (senior men), Cwens, Druids, Xylons, and Spoons.

Ode to a Coking Date

A long tall glass half-filled with ice,

A beautiful girl, this will suffice,
To fill a morning hour with cheer,
And still those vulgar thoughts of beer.

Political deals, the latest gossip
All occur while people slop-up,
Cherry, lime and lemon cokes,
And catch up on the latest jokes.

—The Silver and Gold.

A coed at the University of Minnesota was sitting at a table in the post office one day writing a letter to her boy friend. So absorbed was she that she didn't notice it when her so-called friends left.

A little later a boy came up and asked her where he could get a date.

"How should I know?" she asked a bit sharply.

"I saw your sign and thought you'd know if anybody would," was his hurt reply.

She looked down and saw a little card, neatly printed in lipstick which read: ALL-U DATE BUREAU.

Library Features Model Ship Exhibit

Centers of attention among foreign trade week exhibits now in the library are three ship models recently presented to the University Propeller club, branch of the national organization.

The Rio Hudson, the President Coolidge, and the Fast Esso, a tanker, are modelled at a 32 feet to 1 inch scale, complete with life boats and deck swimming pools.

Other elements of the show window are boats models pictured in Fortune magazine, six maritime journals, books and foreign etrade week pamphlets, stamps, and posters.

The week is sponsored by the United States chamber of commerce. In 1933 President Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized May 22 as the anniversary of the date in 1819 when the first vessel put off from the United States shores on its maiden voyage. Oregon festivities for the week started with the dedication in Portland of a plaque commemorating the anniversary of the launching of the first ship in Oregon, Star of Oregon.

After All!

Joe wrote to Marie and told her he wouldn't see her for a few months, he'd be busy. After all, if she loved him she would want him to get ahead.

Well, Marie had good intentions, but she got bored so easily. She began going with another fellow. Nothing serious, you know, just a nice boy who kept her from getting morbid.

Two weeks ago I got a letter from Joe. He told me he would be coming through town Tuesday, that's yesterday, on one of those little blitz-buggies, bound south for maneuvers. He asked me to keep Marie company, standing on the Anchorage verandah waiting for him. He had made arrangements with his driver to turn off for a few minutes so he could see her.

I wrote back I'd be glad to, although it meant cutting a few classes.

But it turned out I didn't have to cut the classes. None of the buggies turned off at the Anchorage. Marie was having a coke there with the other fellow. She's engaged to him.

Canine Finalists Will Strut Friday

The five finalists in the "King of Campus Dogs" contest will be announced Friday morning after preliminary judging Thursday, according to Jim Thayer and Len Barde, Glee promotion chairmen.

Houses that have entered dogs in the contest will be notified of time and place of preliminary judging Thursday, and are expected to have their dogs there on time. Each entry must be "dry-cleaned and pressed, with hair combed."

Judges who will decide on the finalists will be unbiased faculty members. Points will be counted for color of fingernails, shine on the nose, permanent wave, and other salient canine features.

Ballots bearing the names of the finalists will be given out at the dance, and the king will be chosen by popular vote.

Besides a novelty crown, some "substantial" prize will be awarded the winner, according to Barde and Thayer.

Student Talent File Will Provide Facts About Showmen

The completion of the talent file, a tabular record of student entertainment abilities, was announced by Jeff Kitchen, assistant educational activities manager, Tuesday. The file will be open to all campus groups in need of information pertaining to performers for dances, assemblies, or other functions.

Kitchen also said that a properties file project would be completed by the end of the week. Location of many properties necessary in various campus productions can be found by calling or inquiring at the activities office in the future, Kitchen declared.

We'd certainly admire to know huccome no one's seen Philippi since Sunday . . . musta been Mickey the Finn...

The small furor that's hit the campus is Doris Kline, Alpha Phimala who's come back for a spell. . . . Everybody at the Phi house is plumb tuckered from trying to keep up with her. . . . Happy were we to see Stu Randall, Fiji, back, too . . . and we might say the same for Leone LaDuke. . . . Happy, that is. . . . So did Geo. McPherson, Sigma Chi come back, sporting a new cah. . . . There's lots to be said about Mortar Board, but the dean's prob'ly already said it. . . . Oh, happy carefree Mortar Board. . . . The new sodajerk at the Snake Ranch is Bob Berghan. . . . Pi Phi Betty Anderson now has ex-ASUO Prexy Hal Weston's Tau pin. . . . Hear tell Imola Mitchell is off for Honolulu come summer . . . isn't that tough? . . . And also, come June, Phi Delt Marine Lieutenants Bill Feasley and Scott Corbett are driving from Virginia . . . to see Alpha Phi Jean Frink and Theta Carol Nelson, no doubt. . . . Well patter will putter now. . . . Have a happy summer.

See you on the late shift . . . at the Side natcherly. . . .
