

Ex-Comm Ends Year's Work

Athletic Petitions Due in Activities Office Friday

Winding up the old year and setting the stage for 1941-42 government kept Oregon's incoming and outgoing executive committees busy yesterday afternoon, when they worked through a pile of the usual last-of-the-year official business.

In preparation for a council appointment next week, President Lou Torgeson and his group passed a motion asking that student petitions for the chairmanship of the 1941 athletic card drive be turned in by Friday. Miss Mary Graham at the educational activities office will receive them.

Explanation of the effect of Atherton rules on fraternity rushing will be made known to students by means of interfraternity council education, Emerald explanation, and mimeographed circulars on the "dos and don'ts" in rushing athletes.

Constitutional revision was discussed, and a survey of problems that will confront the new group during the coming year was explained by 1940 officers present.

Graduate Exams

Three graduate students will take examinations for master's degrees today and Thursday. Aldus Clide Smith, political science, and Ben J. Winer, psychology, will take exams today. Thursday Robert J. MacClurg, music, will take his exam.

Hounds for Publicity Present Candidates For King of Dogs

By RUBY JACKSON

You've seen them in the classroom, you've fallen over them in the library, you've stepped on them in the "Side," you've petted them and cursed them alternately, and now you will choose one of them "King of Campus Dogs" at the Frosh Glee Saturday night.

Advance publicity for each candidate has been pouring in from each organization sponsoring an entrant. Naturally, each dog is the best.

'Amos Jones'

"Amos Jones," a one-year-old Heinz (57 varieties) dog offered by the Sammies, is taking 14 hours of classwork. In his spare time he reads the funnies, sleeps with his paws in the air, and fights. To quote the Sammies, he is "the most affectionate dog on the campus—in every way."

'Duke'

Nine times a week or one and one-half times a day "Duke," the Betas' dog, beats up on the Sigma Nu dog (according to the Betas). A two-year-old collie with papers, Duke is said to be a good fighter, and loves the millrace.

'Sparky Sigma'

None of the Kappa Sigs know the origin of their "Sparky Sigma," so he is affectionately termed a "what-is-it" by the boys. Originally a perfectly formed dog, Sparky unfortunately had his tail amputated one day by a truck. But he can still bark, and knows a lot of tricks.

'King'

A peace-loving dog who loves to fight is the Fiji's "King," a German shepherd. He loves little children, and spends his time "romping and rollicking in the rosy spring"—or so the Fijis say.

'Baron'

Biggest entrant to date is

Baron, the Great Dane of Delta Tau Delta. Baron's favorite sport is following people around, especially girls.

'Mike'

The dog who has a reputation for "getting around" is Mike, the three year old German shepherd of Theta Chi.

'Mazie'

Youngest dog entered is "Mazie," petite spaniel pup who lives at the Sigma Nu house. Claimed by the brothers to be the "cutest dog on the campus," Mazie is said to be taking an amorous interest in the Beta dog.

'Red Dog'

"Master of arts and litters" is the degree held by the ATO's "Red Dog." This five-year-old Irish setter does what few others may boast of—he sleeps with the ATOs.

'Smokey'

A scholastic dog is the Phi Delt's "Smokey," who will soon be given a Ph.D. because he spends so much time in classes. Phi Delt's say he is the "smartest dog on the campus." Smokey was "King of the Canines" two years ago.

'Super Dog'

"The best parts of every dog God ever made" are combined in the SAEs' "Super Dog." Other Glossy prints from the Oregana will remain on sale in the corridor of McArthur court for at least Wednesday, according to Wilbur Bishop, editor. The pictures, all of which were published in the yearbook, are priced from 5 to 25 cents. The sale will last from 1 to 5 this afternoon.

than this, the SAEs are not sure of the species of their entry.

'Stubby'

"Stubby," 7-months-old mongrel of the DUs, was presented to the house by a policeman. "Stubby" is said to possess a sparkling personality and hidden beauty.

Bishop also remarked that any students desiring to work on the Oregana next year, who have not already seen him, may do so in the next week.

STRENGTH

The strength that builds a nation is in the people that build up that nation. They are the foundation that brings strength to the ultimate end.

So the strength of a building depends upon the lumber that goes into it. No building is stronger than the materials that go into its making.
