

Open House Heads Social Events for this Weekend

By LOIS HULSER

Webfeet will get their annual workout Saturday evening when they tape their saddles for the inevitable bunion derby which will take men's groups on a tour of women's organizations with ten minutes of jive and swing at each house. Beginning at 7 o'clock coeds will entertain guests until midnight.

Radio dances, firesides and open houses are being planned by many houses after the first home game when Oregon plays Idaho Friday night. Houses planning entertainment include Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Delta Pi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, and Phi Kappa Psi.

First Desserts

Last night pledges attended

their first dessert and upperclassmen renewed old friendships over a cup of coffee. Alpha Tau Omega exchanged with Kappa Kappa Gamma; Campbell co-op-Hilyard house; Chi Psi-Kappa Alpha Theta; Gamma Phi Beta-Delta Tau Delta; Alpha Chi Omega-Kappa Sigma; Phi Sigma Kappa-Alpha Omicron Pi; Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Alpha Phi; Delta Gamma-Sigma Chi; and Chi Omega-Theta Chi.

Sunday afternoon Delta Delta Delta is honoring Mrs. R. Louise Fitch, one of their national fraternity officers at a Swedish buffet where she will meet members of the University faculty. Mrs.

Fitch was formerly dean of women at Cornell university.

Wednesday Reception

Autumn colors decorated alumni hall Wednesday evening for the annual President's reception for the University faculty. Members of heads of houses served at the formal occasion.

In the receiving line were Mr. Earl M. Pallett, Chancellor and Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter, Dr. and Mrs. Burt Brown Barker, and President and Mrs. Donald M. Erb.

Knife Drapers Aren't Popular

All right, so you do ask for five glasses of milk with your lunch, so you insist on draping knife, spoon, etc., all over your plate. Maybe you have fun smearing your glamor all over the napkins.

But remember you aren't any dream girl to the houseboy who spills your silverware or lugs those milk glasses back and forth. And you won't click at that all-important first dessert if you leave a trail of gory looking Helena Rubenstein.

Are you a member of that weird horde which doesn't know about ash trays? Do you still pick the dinner table as the logical place to discuss your last visit to the dentist or accidents you have almost been in?

Everyone hopes you know the answers, especially your house-mother. And yet isn't it amazing how the gruesome mistakes always happen to some one else? Everyone still hopes you will get by, so why not check up on whether you pass things with a half-hearted shrug which leaves all the muscle work for the poor sister who is next in line. And we'll love you forever if you just please won't stir your mashed potatoes.—Marjorie Major.

Ad Man Recovers

Frank short, instructor of advertising in the school of journalism, returned to his regular classes Wednesday after an absence due to illness.

"Union Now" Head Will Speak Here

Clarence Streit, noted newspaper correspondent and leader of the movement known as "Union Now," will appear at the University at an assembly in Gerlinger at 11 a.m. Monday, October 13. He will speak on "The Democracies' Answer to Hitler."

Mr. Streit, who is a member of the New York state bar, will lunch with the faculty club and will hold an open forum discussion on his morning subject at 3 p.m. in 207 Chapman.

According to Dean Karl W. Onthank, the personnel offices have been attempting to get Mr. Streit for a lecture on his movement for three years and considers it fortunate that he is visiting the Northwest this month.

"PLAYGIRL JR."—by Stetson

Of course it's a youngsterish looking hat! That's because it matches the gaiety of the youthful sub-deb, but with such a knowing curve to its brim, and an impertinent feather tuft. The band and binding are silk grosgrain.
