

Exec Comm Names Russ Hudson Alumni Fete Chairman; Arbuckle Appointed Rally Squad Member

By HERB PENNY

Selected as Homecoming chairman by the executive committee at 6:15 Thursday evening was Russ Hudson, junior in BA and winner last year of the title of "Typical Joe College." Hudson is now considering plans for the 1941 alumni fete and will probably announce appointments on the Homecoming committee next week.

Also named by the executive committee Thursday was George Arbuckle as senior member of the rally squad. Arbuckle

IFC Will Back Sign Contest At Homecoming

The interfraternity council will back the Homecoming sign contest, as it has in previous years, but will leave the question of a noise parade up to the heads of houses, Al Hunt, secretary, announced last night, following an IFC meeting.

Attempting to clarify what he called a "general misunderstanding" concerning the attitude of the IFC toward this year's Homecoming, Hunt said that the council had never refused to participate in the sign contest, and that their asking for a $25 expense account from the educational activities department, was a "request, not a demand."

ASUO President Lou Torgeson will call a meeting of the heads of houses, representing both men's and women's groups, Greek and independent, and refer the noise parade decision to them, Hunt said, adding that the IFC would abide by their decision.

If, however, the heads of houses agrees upon a "better idea" the council will back them on that, he said.

Hunt mentioned complaints in past years from local hospitals, and from Eugene residents as objections to the noise parade. He also cited the necessity of houses going to Portland, often at considerable expense, to collect scrap iron, locomotives, and other materials for the parade.

Young British Sailors Tell Of Warspite Engagement

By JIM BANKS

Bomb attacks and enemy shell fire are part of a day's work for Reginald A. Rainbow and Herbert S. Amos of the British battleship Warspite now drydocked at Bremerton, Washington.

A direct hit amidships by a 1200-pound aerial bomb and another near miss at the port bow necessitated a temporary delay for repairs, the boys admit, but insist the Warspite was never out of commission and made port under her own power at full speed ahead.

Reginald from Northampton, England, will soon be 18. Herbert, from Dover, is just that age.

Guests of Mr. Carl Curlee of the Albany chamber of commerce, the youthful crew members of England's Mediterranean flagship are on two-week's leave.

Last night they were dinner guests on the Oregon campus.

Typically British in speech, neither of the boys displayed an over-dose of supposedly typical British reserve.

"We enlisted at 15," Reginald

Grace Moore Says Brawn Overemphasized in US

By JEAN SPEAROW

"There is too much accent on muscle and too little on culture," observed Grace Moore, sunny-haired songstress, as she compared American young people to the same age-group in South America where she just finished a highly successful concert tour.

"Young people between twenty and thirty in South America are vitally interested in broadening their cultural horizon," she said. "Whenever a new personality appears in the field of art or politics they are eager to investigate this new addition to their culture pattern."

"It seems too bad, but the young people of the United States are losing their natural charm. There is too much wise cracking, too much slang being slung." Miss Moore giggled appreciatively at her own choice of words, and then repeated them with obvious amusement.

Dominant

Her dominant personality filled the small hotel room as she sat on a severe straight-backed chair with each small, black, low-heeled shoe planted solidly on the carpet parallel with the legs of the chair.

Pastoral Note

When fall, the hold of summer cleaves,

I like to lie 'mid fall leaves.

I love to hear the shuffling sound They make when e're I wander 'round.

I like to play with one by one From early morn to setting sun.

"I wonder who you are?" you say.

Why, I rake the leaves for NYA.

Former Student Set to Explain Nazi Troubles

By JACK BILLINGS

Jay Allen, former University student and Emerald reporter, returns to tell a story of European adventure this morning when he addresses a 10 o'clock assembly at Gerlinger hall on "My Trouble with Hitler."

The world-famous reporter and lecturer spoke last night at Marshfield under the sponsorship of Sheldon W. Sackett, editor of the Coos Bay Times, and is to be driven to Eugene this morning by Mr. Sackett in time for the assembly.

Last March 17 Mr. Allen was arrested by Nazi soldiers while attempting to cross the boundary between German-occupied and Free France without a military permit. He was jailed in the French prison at Chalons until all the news value had drained from his dangerously-gathered information.

Released

He was released by Nazi officials but was expelled from France. Allen has since been touring the U. S. lecturing on his experiences during this war and in

Judges Defer Election Probe

Action on a protest to the ASUO judiciary committee asking whether or not sophomore, junior, and senior class officer elections last spring were legal, was deferred Thursday until 4 p.m. Monday.

The committee, meeting Thursday afternoon, discussed the more pressing question of freshman nominations, but delayed action on the older class officer question.

Class officer elections last May passed almost without notice, because of the stir over the ASUO campaign, which culminated in the elections being declared illegal by the ASUO judiciary committee, and the need for second elections. Class elections were not held over.
