

War to Visit Eugene; Air Raid, Blackout Set

A practice that has been used to a great advantage in combating enemy aircraft in Britain and tried with gratifying results in this country will be initiated on the west coast October 31, when Eugene and Lane county will undertake its first blackout and simulated air raid.

The blackout will take place between 9 and 10 on the evening of October 31. Whistles will be blown 12 minutes before the actual blackout begins. Everyone is urged to keep off the streets and cooperate in making the blackout successful, Herschel R. Taylor, chairman of the Lane County Defense Council, announced.

Living organizations and meetings will be requested to darken all windows during the few minutes between the warning siren and the all clear signal.

If necessary police will control traffic during that time, it was announced. Planes will be flying over the city in order to determine the effectiveness of the blackout.

Helping at the armory during the maneuvers will be 30 advanced ROTC students volunteering their services with local volunteer workers.

A complete list of blackout rules appeared in an earlier Emerald and will be published again before blackout date.

Lieutenant Ray F. Siegenthaler of the air corps is in charge of a filter center to be used during extensive maneuvers in detecting "enemy" planes in the Eugene area. The filter center will be located in the downtown armory and will consist of an operations board representing Lane county.

Civilian volunteers will be stationed at vantage points throughout the county and, on spotting planes, will phone the information to the filter center. Here it will be "filtered" to ascertain the number, type, direction, and altitude of the planes. US army planes will be sent out from Portland to be "detected."

Information received in Eugene will be phoned to Portland and the operations officer there will send out combat planes or notify anti-aircraft batteries.

Committee chairmen for the dance met Wednesday to discuss plans, and announced that the theme and surprise features of the dance would be revealed in the near future.

Homecoming

Jim Banks will handle mail promotion for the fete and Chuck Boice will handle radio publicity. Both are juniors in journalism.

Mary Jane Dunn, sophomore in arts and letters, was appointed as secretary to Hoyt.

Yet to be announced are the heads of the Homecoming dance committee and the state publicity committee. These positions and members of the various committees will be filled Monday and probably announced in Tuesday's Emerald.
