

Oregana Wins Again! Tops List of Annuals

Honor Equals 'Pacemaker' In Eminence

By JEAN SPEAROW

Honor Roll of Distinction is the latest award the Oregana can add to its bulging collection. News of the Oregana's new triumph was announced by Emerson Page, business manager of this year's publication.

Just when Wilbur Bishop, editor of last year's All-American Oregana, was covering his layouts with tears of frustration because the "pacemaker" honor is no longer to be awarded and therefore there were no fields left for him to conquer, up came the National Scholastic Press association with a new honor classification to take the place of the obsolete "pacemaker."

Oregana First

This year's Honor Roll of Distinction lists the Oregana first out of the three schools in the largest enrolment category to receive the honor.

Last year the Oregana was picked as one of the ten books in the Book-of-the-Year club. Only two other books, the Royal Purple of Kansas State college and the Belle Air of Villanova, repeated this year on the Honor Roll of Distinction.

Quotations

The following quotations were taken direct from the yearbook scorebook which quotes one of the judges: "Everything considered, the best this veteran observer has ever seen in a college annual."

As to organization of the book, the scorebook had this to say of the Oregana: "It is splendid because of a grand general plan, concept, and design; and because of the finest, most steadily sustained job of putting together pictures and type elements I have ever seen done by students."

CPT Deadline Expires Soon

All men who desire to be included in the spring term primary civilian pilot training course, must have their applications in by Saturday noon, J. C. Stovall, coordinator announced yesterday. Applications may be secured in room 107 Condon hall.

This early deadline is necessary, Mr. Stovall explained, because the office needs time to rate the applicants and notify them, if accepted, before Christmas vacation. Actual classes will begin February 1.

Primary CPT includes both ground school work and 35 hours of actual flying which leads to a private pilot's license on completion of the program. Six hours upper-division credit hours are given for the course.

Petition Date Moved; Senior Posts Still Open

Would-be senior class officers may still petition for class vice-president and treasurer positions, Pat Lawson, senior class president, revealed last night. Because only four eligible petitions were received Saturday, the interviewing council, which met yesterday, decided to allow more seniors to petition for the vacant offices.

Science School Report Awaited

Whether or not the University of Oregon is to be allowed to offer major work in the "pure sciences" may be determined today when the Oregon state board of higher education, meeting in Ashland, releases its official report.

The board convened yesterday, but the report will not be available until today.

Interested parties have asked the board to grant the University the privilege of offering major work in the sciences, now offered only by Oregon State college.

At the present time the University is allowed to grant degrees in the social sciences and in professional schools derived from them; while the state college is allowed to grant degrees in the "pure sciences" and in the professional schools derived from them.

Erb to Attend Defense Meet

University President Donald M. Erb will attend a meeting of the newly organized commission on colleges and civilian defense in Washington, D. C., November 13. The meeting was called by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, director of civilian defense, who will act as chairman of the commission.

University and college presidents from all section of the United States will be present in the capitol for this initial gathering.

He will go directly from the forty-sixth annual meeting of the national association of state universities in Chicago to Washington. While in the East he will visit New York and Boston on University business.

'Sweetie' Finalists Named

Five "finalists" in the contest for the title, "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" were chosen Monday night by members of the local chapter, according to Art Wiggin, social chairman in charge of the contest.

The five are: Dorothy Hayden, Hendricks hall; June Williams, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Jane Rabbe, Pi Beta Phi; Dorothy Engel, Alpha Phi; and Marian Lockman, Delta Gamma.

Final selection will be announced in a radio broadcast at the end of the week.

At the beginning of the contest each women's living organization was represented by two candidates. At a dinner last Thursday this list was reduced to ten and last night five final candidates were chosen.

Deadline for petitions is 5 p.m., Wednesday, October 29, in the educational activities office at McArthur court. New applicants will be interviewed at 4 p.m. Thursday, October 30, in the office of Dean of Men Virgil D. Earl in Johnson hall.

Appointments will be made later this week by President Lawson and Class Secretary Dorothy Jean Johnson, in accordance with the senior class constitution. They will act on the advice of the interviewing council, composed of Miss Lawson, Miss Johnson, Dean Earl, and James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science, senior class adviser.

The vacancies in senior class officers were created when Bob Cherney, former class president, and Mack Hand, former class treasurer, were placed on probation because of their spring term grades.

Miss Lawson, then vice-president, automatically moved to the presidency. Miss Johnson could have moved into the vice-presidency, but preferred to remain as class secretary.

Although the class president and other remaining officers are authorized by the class constitution to fill the vacant offices without asking for petitions or granting interviews, Miss Lawson and Miss Johnson thought the procedure being followed, that of requesting petitions and interviewing the applicants through an unbiased council, would be more fair.

'Joe,' 'Betty' Contestants Named by Organizations

There is now a potential Joe College and Betty Coed in almost every men's and women's living organization on the campus, according to Rylla Hattan and Maurice Saloman, co-chairmen of the Whiskerino contacting committee. This list will soon be cut down to five men and five women, who will compete at the dance itself for the titles of "Joe" and "Betty."

ALL SET

Jim Frost, ASUO first vice-president and director of elections, announced that all was in readiness for freshman elections at the YMCA house today.

ROTC to Give Blackout Help

In preparation for Friday night's blackout, 30 senior ROTC students have been instructed for service as police reserves for campus duty by O. L. Rhinesmith, campus police officer.

Their chief job will be to see that University property is not damaged by prowlers taking advantage of the darkness.

According to instructions, these reserve police will be responsible for life and property within their area as well as for the success of the blackout. They will be prepared to report anyone driving a car during the period between the alarm signal and the all clear. Officers will be identified by cards and white arm bands.

They will have a pencil and pad and will take names and addresses of those not cooperating with blackout regulations.

Operating in pairs, they will be stationed at campus buildings from 8 p.m. until the all clear is sounded after the blackout. Household holders will be warned to turn out all lights and those not complying will be reported.

Frosh Polls Open Today At 'Y' House

Freshmen go to the polls at the YMCA house today from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to vote for class officers, after more than four weeks of political bickering. Persons voting must present cards of the Class of 1945 and their educational activities cards, Jim Frost, director of elections, declared Monday.

Freshman class cards will be sold until noon today at the educational activities office for 55 cents. The additional five cents is charged because of the new 10 per cent government tax on things of that sort.

Candidates

Candidates are:
For president: Fritz Giesecke and Ted Yaw.
For vice-president: June Hitchcock, Winston Kelker, Thorn Kinersly, and Bob Pendergrass.
For secretary: Gerd Hansen, Dorothy Patterson, and Mary Jane Wilson.
For treasurer: Louis Felsheim and Stan Hager.

Voting Rules

Only members of the election board and card-holding freshmen will be allowed at the polls, Frost said. Voters will enter by the west door of the house and leave by the east door.

The polls will be open during the noon hour, but will close promptly at 3 p.m., Frost emphasized.

Levine to Begin Lecture Series

First in the series of University lectures by world-renowned scholars will be Rabbi Raphael Levine, who will speak October 30 on "The Jew in the Modern World."

Rabbi Levine has spent the last nine years in England, where he lived through and witnessed the most severe phases of the war and carried on extensive work on behalf of refugees. He has returned to America to lecture and work.

"This lecture is for everyone and especially for those interested in the particular problems dealt with by the speaker," announced Professor Rudolph Ernst, chairman of the lecture series. "There will be eight lectures in all, each by world-famous scholars and experts in their respective fields."

Rabbi Levine is sent out by the Jewish Chautauqua society which sent here Rabbi Stephen Weiss of New York several years ago.

The lecture will be held in 12 Friendly hall at 7:30 Friday evening.

Efficiency

Oh would that I were Mr. Ickes With power to commend or deride.

In communicate I would rise up and say,

In manner befitting my pride,

"All you papers that print near cantonments

Or in towns collegiate reside, Don't put the funnies on one page And sports on the opposite side.
