Mike Hoyman Plans Time Trials For Varsity Webfoot Splashers

Swimming Coach Mike Hoyman is continuing his aggressive training system with more double time trials again scheduled at the men's pool for this weekend. Dissatisfied at the results of last week's distance trials, Hoyman has given orders to his swimmers to bear down and get to work.

The first installment to be held today will be only short 220-yard speed dashes, the same distance as a week ago. The second, and most important, part to be held Saturday will be 1500 meters, or in everyday collegiate figures, about 1640 yards, as compared to the 1320 yards of last weekend.

All-Campus Sports Near Third Round

All-campus competition in the fall term tournaments are rapidly nearing the end of the second round of play, according to Paul Washke, director of intramurals.

Chuck Cutler and Elmer Olson have forged their way into the third round of the handball singles by chalking up two victories.

Cutler and his partner, Bob Blair, have joined Griffith and Olson in the third round of the handball doubles.

Jack McClimate is the lone contestant to have reached the third round of the tennis singles.

Tennis Doubles

Four teams have reached the quarter-finals of the tennis doubles tournament. They are: Gregos and Thornburn, Ail and Wienstein, Osborne and Duden, and Russell and Wilson.

Two tandems are in the third round of the ping pong doubles. They are Bob Whitely and Ralph Dunn, and Palmer Fallgren and Brown.

Four more victories have been posted in the golf singles elimination. The winners are Rod Tay-

Among 400 beginning students at Brown university is Trajano Pupo Netto, a law graduate of the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Beaver Busting Cougars Next Course For Webfoots

By WALLY HUNTER

Since a week ago on the dark dreary day when the Rose Bowl hopes of both the University of Oregon and Oregon State were laid in the grave for this year, the ominous howl of the Washington State Cougar has been echoing down from the Palouse hills—and to many an Oregon supporter it sounds like the knell of doom—for the lads from Pullman showed unlimited power in throttling the hopes of the Beaver, and the Webfoots are to find out Saturday if this win was a fluke.

Thrice thrashed Washington State Cougars had a field day against OSC and though the score stood at 7-0 at the end of the game it might as well have been 20 to 0, so convincingly did they smash the Aggie men. Oregon State used every kind of a defense in the football books in an attempt to stop the Crimson Grey attack, but it was like trying to derail an onrushing express train with a cigarette butt. The Beaver line, which is consistently one of the stiffest on the coast, took a tremendous beating from the Cougar forward wall and thus the Oregon line has its work cut out.

Bob Kennedy

The spearhead of the Cougar attack was a converted quarterback named Bob Kennedy who operated from the fullback post. Kennedy, a blond-thatched dynamo, hits like a rolling piece of pig iron and was virtually unstoppable. He leaps, darts, and smashes through any slot in the opposing line with all of the power of a steamed up freight train, and if functioning as he did Saturday everybody will get a glance at a load of pure unadulterated power. With Kennedy doing the heavy work it leaves pass-pitching Billy Sewell free for his specialty.

In Ends Dale Gentry, and Nick Suseoff the Cougars have a rugged set of small mountains that are as tough as they come. Gentry's pet play is an end around, which clicked to perfection several times in the Beaver busting. The defensive tackle bears the brunt of these lads' ire most of the time and it's ghost town at the tackle spot after the play gets under way.
