

Contest Offers Cash Awards

Two years standing and the recommendation of your instructor are the qualifications for entry in competition for the Dodd-Mead Intercollegiate Literary fellowship of 1942.

The fellowship was established for students in American colleges and universities wishing to become professional authors. It is designed to give undergraduates opportunity to take advantage of faculty advice and instruction while planning and writing their novel, and to enable them to work toward the completion of the book one year after graduation.

The novel will be published with the regular royalty with an award of $1200 payable quarterly or monthly to be advanced on the royalties. Applications and projects must be sent to publishers by April 1, 1942.

FDR Changes Turkey Date For Next Year

When students push themselves away from Thanksgiving dinners Thursday, they will have completed their last Thanksgiving dinner on the next-to-the-last Thursday in November.

President Roosevelt has recanted. From now on Thanksgiving will be moved up a week to the date it had held for so many years. All of which will be convenient no-end for housewives and others of their ilk.

But it won't be so sweet for students who are now in the habit of eating two Thanksgiving dinners—one at the home of Democratic parents and one with a Republican uncle. Two years ago many living organizations served Thanksgiving dinners a week after students had eaten turkey at home.

This is all very funny—for everybody but President Roosevelt. We see by the papers that he may have to put off his regular Thanksgiving visit to Warm Springs, Georgia, because of pressing affairs at the capital. But he will be able to go November 27, which isn't Thanksgiving after all.

Piano Recital Opens Series

Phyllis Gray opened the student recital season with a fine display of piano technique in a varied program Tuesday night in the music auditorium. Her major number, the Liszt "Concerto in E-flat major," was played brilliantly, with a surety unusual in so young a performer.

The "Tocatta in G major" by Bach was crisp and brought out the inner voices in a fine singing style. Schumann's "Papillons, Opus 2" was Miss Gray's most interesting number.

Quite entertaining was the group of short numbers which included an etude, two preludes and a waltz by Chopin, "Capriccio" by Elvigion, "La Soiree dans Grenade" by Debussy, and "Caprice Burlesque, Opus 3, Number 1" by Gabrilowitsch.

Curator Seeks Degree In Oral Examination

Robert Stephenson, assistant museum curator, took the preliminary oral examination for his master's degree in anthropology recently.

On the examining committee were Dr. L. S. Cressman, head of the anthropology department, Dr. Homer G. Barnett, instructor in anthropology, Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography departments, and Dr. Lloyd W. Staples, assistant professor of geology.

Mr. Stephenson has taken as the topic for his master's thesis, problems in the typological method in archaeology.

Dr. Hayes at Meet

Dr. Marian G. Hayes, of the University health service, will attend a conference of the Pacific coast section of the American Student Health association Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22 at Stanford university. Dr. Hayes is now vice-president of this association.

Trade Last

(Continued from page two) most of them. Most disturbing part of the whole affair to senior members of the fraternity was that three sophomores wanted to sell the place for $2,000.

University of California at Los Angeles—Two Tri-Delts learned to their despondence that one much-used "automobile" does not equal two allowances. So it was that the two sophomores, chose to ward off impending pauperism—and began to take in washing. Rates exacted by the youthful laundresses for their skilled labor have been set at 12 and 15 cents for cotton and silk shirts with long sleeves—washed and ironed; 8 and 10 cents for cotton and silk shirts with short sleeves—washed and ironed; and 5 cents for the evolutionary remnants.
