Auctioneers Act Thursday

Coing, going, gone will ring out the voices of Don Swink and Hank Kemp Thursday at 4 in front of the Side when the AWS auction gets under way.

There will be a variety of articles which will be sold to the highest bidder, according to Mary Louise Vincent, head of the auc-

An inventory taken at the lost and found department shows that books lead the articles with a total of 41 on hand. Closely following are pens and eversharps. Unclaimed clothes such as sweaters and hats will also be offered for bidding.

The auction is an annual affair and at this time all those articles which have been turned in to the lost and found office in the University depot and not claimed are sold to the highest bidder.

Miss Mary E. Hunt, '37, and Henri W. D'Elba, '39, were married June 1.

UO Library Receives Five Books This Week

Recently received at the circulation department of the University library are four books written by American authors during the year 1941. They are, "Saratoga Trunk" by Edna Ferber, which portrays New Orleans and Saratoga in the '80s; "The Good Shepherd" by Gunnar Gunnarson; "Wakefield's Course" eighth book in Mazo De la Roche's Whiteoak saga, and "Broad and Alien Is the World" by Ciro Alegria.

Also received this week is the book "The Best Plays of 1940-41," edited by Burns Mantle. This book contains 10 Broadway plays of the past season and casts for every production of the year. The plays included are "Native Son," "My Sister Eileen," "Lady in the Dark," "The Corn Is Green," "Flight to the West," "Mr. and Mrs. North," "Watch on the Rhine," "Arsenic and Old Lace," and "George Washington Slept Here."

USA Eyes Winer

In a letter to Dr. Leona Tyler, psychology instructor, Ben Winer, graduate assistant in psychology last year, stated that he expects to be inducted into the army in December.

Winer has been working with the Cooperative Test service in New York city and Washington, D.C., since June, compiling a test to be given to army officers. At the present time he is working part time and attending classes at Princeton university.

Libe Displays Oriental Art

A Chinese and Japanese display has recently been erected in the circulation department of the University library. This display was donated to the library for display purposes by N. B. Zane, associate professor of space arts.

Of special interest is a statuette of the ancient god of Chinese scholarship. This god guided and granted good memory to Chinese students and saved them from temptation if they were disposed to cheating.

Another interesting statuette on display is that of the door god. He is carved of wood, laquered with gold. The door god is supposed to stand at the entrance of bedrooms and frighten away evil spirits and bad dreams from the sleeper.

There is a small collection of Chinese and Japanese porcelains including plates, old style tea cups without handles, and water cocks used by painters in brush painting.

Mr. Zane collected these articles during his travels in Japan and China in 1937. They are useful for illustrating the religious beliefs of these people and as examples of artistic craftsmanship.

Discussion

A discussion that reminded veteran political observers of the first constitutional convention of the Class of 1945 appeared when a motion was made asking for adoption of the constitution without reading. An objection to this procedure came from Phil Hunt, Gamma hall, who asked that the constitution be read. Hunt was "booed" by a portion of the Discussion centered around the fact that all independents had received copies of the constitution by mail. Some of them, however, denied receiving them. The matter was put to a vote, which resulted in adoption of the constitution without reading.

Three Aims

Near the opening of the meeting Worth outlined the purposes of the organization. He spoke of the "social" aims, which would establish more unity between the factions on the campus. He spoke of the "activity" aims, which would establish a means of getting independents into activities.

Then his words became more slow and measured. Each word seemed to stand alone as he said:

"We must fight sub rosa political forces. In order to gain coherence of common principles we must crush the most vicious heresy at the University of Oregon."

Trump Card

The crowd was intensely quiet, waiting for a trump card. Then it

"For the best interests of both Greek and Independent, TNE must go."

Except for two brief parliamentary tangles, last night's meeting was not marred by the bickering that marks most campus mass meetings. There was almost no objection to the program, as conducted by Winnie Green, president of heads of houses.

Spirit

But the meeting was not lacking in spirit. Hendricks hall and Susan Campbell girls marched en masse past men's dorms singing "Mighty Oregon." There was mass singing of school songs in the Igloo before the meting, and individual houses sang their songs.

The Campbell club chorus sang two selections at the opening of the program. Between speakers Lulu Pali danced a hula, Ken Dorsey gave his "Hot Shot," act and played the guitar, and the meeting closed with group singing of "Mighty Oregon," led by the Campbell club chorus.

Nearly every independent on the campus had been contacted by phone or mail before the meeting, and posters had been distributed about the campus advertising the meeting.

Miss Green urged the independents to pick up any posters they saw lying around the campus. Unless the posters are cleaned up, she said, the University will charge the ISA for cleaning the campus.

SIDE PATTER Pat Taylor

Well, if we may be a bit disloyal, it looks as though they piped in a bit of California sun . . . let's hope it lasts. . . . And while we're on the subject, California was slugs of fun, especial the Mark (top of the Mark to yez!) . . . And at the Palace come midnight all the Oregon dollies and fellows arose en masse and sang Ore. our A. M. to celebrate the game. . . . Oh, we could tell tales of San Francisco . . . tell tall tales, too. . . . Saw Jane Spamm, Gamma Phi alum, who is now subdeb counselor at the emporium . . . and in the chips, and is she a smooth stone . . . also Sally Helen Mitchell, now working for the Chronicle. . . . Said hello to Kay Jenkins and Corinne Preisker . . . saw Ned Mansfield, one of those there flyin' fellers, now an instructor at Taft . . .

Well kiddies, see if you can knuckle down and tough it out until Homecoming when you can leap about and play some

See you on the late shift.
