

IFC Votes Penalties for Inciting Riot

In agreement with the general student body policy of friendly, courteous conduct toward visiting Oregon Staters during Homecoming weekend, the Interfraternity council went on record last night as opposing rowdy, rude treatment of the Beavers.

Lou Torgeson, ASUO president, asked members of the council to inform their houses that severe penalties would be inflicted upon those who start trouble between Oregon and visiting OSC students, and the council voted to do this.

The IFC will back the general effort for harmonious relations during the weekend, Allen Hunt, secretary-treasurer of the council, declared last night. He said that representatives of different houses reported that their living organizations had invited the OSC chapters to come to the local houses for a post-game visit and to meet alums.

Three Pledged

Pi Kappa Alpha has pledged Dale McMullin of Glendale, Oregon; Sigma Phi Epsilon has pledged William L. Mayther, Spokane, Washington; and Sigma Alpha Epsilon has pledged Rodney S. Miller, Astoria, the dean of men's office announced.

ISA Members Seek Soapbox For Torgeson

Members of the ISA were busily hunting about today for a soap box worthy of the task it will be called upon to perform; namely, that of supporting ASUO President Lou Torgeson while he impresses between-class loiterers with the virtues of the ISA.

The speech will take place at 11 o'clock this morning between Commerce and Oregon buildings and will undoubtedly carry great weight with Torgeson's staunch followers, flocks of whom are expected to move out of their houses at once and poin the swelling ranks of the ISA.

Independent living organizations are busily preparing to house this influx.

Sophomore Art Student Elected AAA President

Woody Ichihashi, sophomore art student, was elected president of the Architecture and Allied Arts league at a special meeting Thursday morning. Vacancy of the president's office was created when Jon Kemp, originally elected to the office for this term, left the University to take a job in Seattle.

The AAA league has decided to hold its annual bazaar the Friday before final exams. Students will enter their own work in this sale which they will do specially for the occasion. The league will receive 20 per cent of the profit. The bazaar will take place in the little art gallery.

Dressing up similes of Homecoming welcome signs to be displayed on windows in downtown Eugene are Jim Curry, junior in BA, Ancil Payne, Homecoming promotion chairman; Claire Kneeland, Lane County Alumni association; and Russ Hudson, Homecoming general chairman. Windows will be completely dressed today and flags will be displayed on main streets.

Sea Scouts Invited To Ball and Bridge

Lloyd Lillie, Scout executive of the Lane county Boy Scout council, today invited all Sea Scouts in the University to attend the Council's Second Annual Ball and Bridge of Honor at the Elks club in Eugene on Friday night, November 28.

This dance will be held in honor of Hamilton C. Rolfe, regional commodore from Seattle, and will be attended by Sea Scouts and officers from Portland, Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Newport, Eugene, Marshfield, and Coquille.

Bids may be obtained by contacting Lloyd Lillie at the Scout office at 880 Willamette, Eugene.

Libe Hours Change

Library hours undergo a slight alteration this weekend because of Homecoming. Instead of the usual Saturday hours the circulation, reference, and periodical departments will close at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The reserve departments will close at 12. Other hours will be the same as usual.

Judges to Pick Two Best Signs

Reviewing a succession of movable Ducks and blitzed Beavers this evening, judges for the Homecoming sign contest will select two winners for the 1941 contest. Decisions will be kept secret until the Homecoming dance Saturday night when the winners will be announced at intermission time.

Prizes for the winners will be two new engraved cups bought by the Homecoming committee this year. These cups will remain in the permanent possession of the winning houses.

Judges for the contest are Eyer Brown, associate professor of architecture; N. B. Zane, associate professor of space arts; Mrs. Ruth M. Thompson, instructor in business administration; L. Kenneth Shumaker, assistant professor in education; and Marvin Krenk, instructor in speech.

Instructor Interviews Future Civilian Pilots

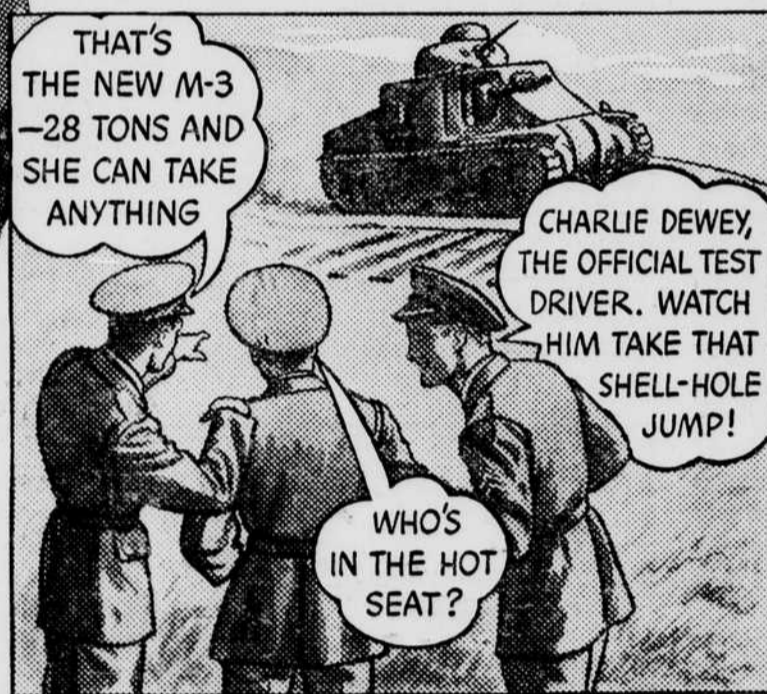

Ten men, who have applied for spring primary civilian pilot training, will be interviewed this afternoon by Franklin Sherwin, ground school instructor, in 107 Condon hall basement. Mr. Sherwin will see the applicants between 1 and 3 o'clock.

Asked to report today are: Joseph Montag, Roger Jayne, Daniel Detweiler, Wayne Coffee, John Kramer, Caroll Samuel Willes Marshall, Gregory Olney, Norman Manneheimer, and Ed Poehler.
