'O' Bull Session Lunches Today

All Order of the 'O' men of years gone by are to be guests this noon of the present Oregon lettermen at Gerlinger hall, Jim Rathbun, order president, said Friday.

Robert Bradshaw, captain of the 1914 football team, will act as toastmaster, and among other sports notables who will speak are Tex Oliver and Colonel Bill Hayward.

The general tone of the luncheon will be informal, more like a bull session than a formal gathering, Rathbun stated.

At 12:45 the lettermen will begin their annual Homecoming day march from Gerlinger hall to Hayward field. There they will march around the field before being seated in a body.

Blood-Hungry 'O' Hackmen Get Wet Spirits

Thirty tradition violators took the best in hacks that the Order of the 'O' men had to offer yesterday noon on the Fenton hall steps, to wind up the last "swing session" of Homecoming weekend.

A crowd of 250, thirsting for blood, kept up a continuous howl, which rose to a crescendo as an especially cutting blow went home.

The 'O' boys, led by Jim Rathbun, president of the order, finally resorted to flipping coins to see who would have the privilege of hacking the victims.

Several law school inhabitants, entrenched on the third floor of Fenton, waterbaggged the crowd until a dozen lettermen rushed their citadel and dragged two of the disturbers out to the blood-thirsty crowd.

In the struggle a window was broken, and the two recalcitrants suffered for their sins by taking three hacks apiece.
