

Tex Feted in Tucson; Ducks Roll Southward

LONGHORN

Pete Layden, Texas halfback. Layden is a member of the Longhorn herd that ravaged the Southwest for weeks before an underdog Baylor rose to tie them and Texas Christian bowled them over. Layden is a hard-running, accurate passer, and better than par punter. He'll be trying plenty of bull-doing tackles against Tex's wandering Webfoots come Saturday.

Crain, Layden Spearheads Of Vaunted Texan Attack

By WALLY HUNTER

University of Oregon's Texas-bound Webfoots stopped off in Tucson Arizona last night long enough for the University of Arizona to fete the Ducks and their mentor, Tex Oliver.

Today the Austin-conscious Oregons will whip off in the direction of El Paso, Texas, and from there to the home of the fearsome University of Texas Longhorns. The Ducks are expected to come to rest in Austin Friday.

Biggest questions about the Webfoot squad is the condition of Halfback Tommy Roblin, Oliver's breakaway specialist. The shoulder that "Terrible" Tommy injured in the Oregon State game is still in the questionable state.

It is doubtful if he will be able to participate in the festivities.

Texas Star-Studded

When the Ducks hit the trail in pursuit of the wild and woolly Longhorn it would help no end if every man on the squad were in good physical condition. Coach Dana Bible has under his wing one of the most star-studded aggregations that has ever lugged the colors of the University of Texas into battle.

Burnished spearpoint of the Steer attack is a chubby whippet named Cowboy Jack Crain. The Cowboy's amazing ability to change his pace in the flicker of an eyelash has had would-be tacklers groveling in the turf all season.

His free-wheeling victory sprints have been an earmark of nearly every Longhorn victory this season. Crain besides being one of the most feared runners in the nation also quick kicks and passes with the cream of the crop.

Layden Triple-Threat

After Crain loosens up the defense with his defense-blinding runs, in steps John Peter Layden, Steer captain. Big Pete clutches the ball firmly in both hands and then proceeds to make gaping holes in the defense. Layden besides being a line shredder de luxe possesses the finer qualities of a triple threat back. His picking and long passes have been one of the outstanding features of football played the Texas way.

In the line—but not hidden even a little by the lustrous backs, Crain and Layden—is chunky Chal Daniels. Daniels has a "sitting room only" sign tacked on the front of his helmet, and that is where the opposing linemen usually finds himself at the end of a play—sitting.

Cutler Sweeps Handball: Wins Singles Crown

Chuck Cutler made it a clean sweep in all-campus handball yesterday when he beat Jim Rathbun, 21 to 17, 21 to 13, to win the singles crown. Cutler had previously teamed with Bobby Blair to cop the doubles title.

Yesterday's match was the toughest Cutler had played to date. He had marched through the earlier without meeting much competition, and without dropping a game.

Play in the golf and tennis competition has been stymied for the last week by rain but has reached the finals and is expected to be finished as soon as weather permits.

Ping-pong Singles

The ping-pong doubles is completed with Norm Wiener and Bob Whitely the champs. Whitely will be out for a double killing in the sport when he tangles with Irvin Mann in the singles finals.

Phi Delts, ATOs, Sigma Chis Win Playoff Games in 'A' Volleyball

DUs, ATOs Cop 'B' League Tilts

Intramural volleyball hit the playoffs yesterday with a bang, and sparks were still flying when the play was over. The "A" teams from the Phi Delts, ATOs, and Sigma Chis advanced over the first rung of the playoffs with well earned victories, while the "B" teams of the DUs and the ATOs were also hanging up wins.

Phi Delts Win

The Phi Delts, defending champs, won a classic from a determined DU team. Led by Ed Niklas and Jack White, the DU team swept through a hapless Phi Delt team in the first game, 15 to 3. They grabbed a lead in the second game and seemed on the way to a win when the Phi Delts came to.

Behind the sparkling play of Gabby Galbreath, the Phi Delts evened up the score and then moved ahead to win the second one, 15 to 13. The last game was a nip and tuck affair with the defending champs finally grabbing the decision, 15 to 11.

Galbreath played marvelous ball, blocking shots perfectly and slamming unstoppable spike shots.

Sweethearts Victorious

The Sigma Chi combination of Chuck Thompson and Dick Burns

was a little too much for Ossie Redfield and his SAEs, as the "Sweetheart" boys walked off with the decision, 15 to 12, 15 to 9.

The ATOs eliminated the Theta Chis from the playoffs with a convincing 15 to 4, 15 to 8 win. Bill Huggin and Ox Wilson took over the offensive task for the ATOs and were more than enough to beat the Theta Chis.

In 'B' Play

In the "B" play, the DUs won a marathon affair from the Delts, 7 to 15, 15 to 4, 17 to 15. The DUs were shaky in the first game, dropping it, but got started in the second one behind the play of Bill Leahy and Ron Dilling, to win.

The final game turned into a tight tussle with the score saw-sawing back and forth. It was duceed at fifteen all but the DUs won two points in a row to grab the game.

The ATO "B" team won from Sigma hall by default.
