

Defense Workers Sought . . .

Dean Onthank Issues Call for Student Help

Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, announced Monday that he was looking for men and women on the campus who have special qualifications for University defense work. Several hundred students registered at the special table for this purpose in McArthur court Monday.

The personnel office is using regular state blanks for this purpose. These will be compiled and segregated into different types of defense work needed.

Dean Onthank Head

This work is being coordinated by Dean Onthank, acting as student personnel head of the newly formed University defense council. It will be his job to fill up the ranks of the already formed skeleton crew of faculty members in the new council.

He needs especially men and women qualified in first aid work, especially those with certificates from the OYB Scouts, Red Cross, or other such organizations; those with life-saving training; radio operators, preferably with amateur licenses; those who have had fire-fighting experience, such as is given in the civilian conservation corps; those with police experience; men or women switchboard operators, repair men, installers, and linesmen; licensed chauffeurs and experienced truck drivers; those with extensive nursing or home-nursing experience; and experienced stenographers and typists.

Blanks Obtainable

On the available blanks, which may be obtained in the dean of men or the dean of women's office between 10 to 12 a.m. and 3 to 5 p.m., students will be asked to show the extent of their experience in their particular line.

"If each one has a job to do," said Dean Onthank, "there will be much less chance for panic and hysteria in time of emergency."

Athletic Card Sales Reach All-Time High

Athletic cards admitting students to $14.75 worth of sports events during the next two terms went on sale again yesterday at registration for $6, plus the ten per cent sales tax.

The tempting array of basketball games, baseball games, tennis, swimming, and track meets, combined to up the total sales to an all-time high of nearly 2800.

The tickets may be purchased during the remainder of the week on the second floor of Johnson hall. Cards may be purchased in one payment or on the installment plan, four dollars now and two dollars spring term.

An intensive drive is planned for later in the week, to be carried on by house representatives. Exact dates will be announced by Harry Prongas, chairman of the card drive.

Music School To Give Opera

Paul Valti, American lyric-dramatic tenor of the San Francisco Opera company, has been chosen by Sigurd Nilssen, professor of voice, for the part of Turridu, tenor lead, in the production of the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" to be given by the music school in the spring.

The other leads, all University music students, are: Margaret Zimmerman, Santuzza; Lolita Pierson, Lola; Beth Siewert, Mama Lucia; Ray Leonard, Alfio. Dr. Theodore Kratt, dean of the music school, will conduct the orchestra.

Persons interested in singing in the chorus, especially tenors and basses who can read music are invited to see Mr. Nilssen in the music building. A larger chorus than the one now rehearsing is needed to produce the opera.

Comish Contributes To Oregon Magazine

Two of a series of articles by Professor N. H. Comish of the school of business administration have been published in the Oregon Merchants magazine.

Carrying the titles, "The Significance of Returns and Exchanges" and "A Reduction of Returns and Exchanges Through Better Salesmanship," the articles are based on information gained in surveys of retail stores in Oregon by Professor Comish's research students.

Banquet to Fete Football Squad

A banquet honoring the University's 1941 football squad will be given Thursday night at 6:30 in the Osburn hotel by the Eugene chamber of commerce and Lane county alumni association. Featured entertainment of the evening is to be a motion picture of the Oregon-Washington game.

Originally planned for December, the meeting was postponed because of blackout. Carol Williams, banquet committee chairman, has expressed belief that conditions now permit the affair to be held with safety, and expects a large attendance from throughout the state. Harris Ellsworth, editor of the Roseburg News-Review and president of the Oregon alumni association, will preside.

Aviation Psychology Offered in New Book

A volume of abstracts on aviation psychology was received recently by the psychology department, from the national research council committee on the selection and training of aircraft pilots.

The volume is now available to anyone interested in the subject, in the office of Dr. H. R. Taylor, head of the psychology department, in Condon hall, and it may later be placed in the University library.

Three Girls Pledge

Two sororities pledged three girls the end of last term, according to the dean of women's office.

Alpha Delta Pi pledged Frances Jeanne Villair and Lilas L. Todd. Colleen Collins was pledged by Alpha Phi.

Campus Calendar

Pot and Quill will meet with Sally Allen this evening at 7:30. Those members, new or old, who desire transportation should meet outside the newspaper room of the library at 7:25. Initiates are requested to bring an original manuscript to read.

Master Dance, special business meeting Tuesday, 5 o'clock, sun porch, Gerlinger.

Mu Phi Epsilon, national women's music honorary, will hold a business meeting at 7:30 tonight in Gerlinger hall.

The Christian Science organization will meet tonight in Gerlinger.

German History Seen In New Library Book

A new book received at the circulation department of the University library is "The German's Double History of a Nation" by Emil Ludwig.

This book devotes only a few pages to Hitler and the rest to the history of Germany. It is the author's purpose to explain the causes and effects of deeds and events in the German way.

Oregon Newspapermen To Gather Friday at UO

Oregon editors and publishers will convene on the University campus Friday, January 9, in the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Oregon Press Conference.

Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Portland Oregonian and president of the group, will preside, and a number of University people will take part, according to the program issued by George S. Turnbull, professor of journalism and secretary of the group.

Problems of special interest to newspapermen are scheduled for discussion with emphasis being placed on the news in war time, taxes, wages and hours, circulation and subscription prices, national advertising, and the law of the press are other topics.

C. L. Kelly, professor of business administration, will discuss "Taxes in War Time: What to Figure on and How to Figure It" Friday morning. Dr. Paul B. Means, professor of religion who spent 10 years in Malayasia and 3 in India, will explain "The American State in Southeastern Asia" at the Friday luncheon. Charles M. Hulsten, assistant professor of journalism, will describe "Press Law: Oregon Developments up to Date" Saturday afternoon.

Charles M. Hulsten will act as toastmaster for the no-host luncheon Saturday, and Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, will be toastmaster for the annual banquet.

Ford Sammis of Los Angeles, director of public relations of the Pacific Coast Petroleum Industry, will represent the Pacific Advertising association, addressing the conference on "What to Expect in National Advertising and How to Handle It." He will take the place of Don Belding, president of the advertising group, originally scheduled to speak on the topic.

The broadcasting crew of the senior editing class will present a skit entitled "What We See in the Oregon Papers." Members of the group are Mary Lois Dana, Mimi O'Donnell, Charles Boice, and Ted Harmon.

Governor Charles A. Sprague, Dr. Donald M. Erb, and other notable authorities will also address the conference.

Robert E. Ballard, '34, formerly a postal clerk at McMinnville, has been called to active duty with the army.
