DIES IN ACTION

Verdi Sederstrom, first vice-president of the ASUO in 1939-40, was first University alumni to die in the war of the Orient. He was on the battleship Oklahoma when it capsized in Pearl Harbor.

Former UO Officer Slain In Honolulu

Ensign Verdi Sederstrom, first vice president of the ASUO in 1939-40 and active through all of his four years at Oregon, was killed in the December 7 raid on Honolulu.

He began his naval career after graduation when he was employed in Oakland, California. Shortly after registering for reserve naval officer training, he was called for service with the quartermaster corps.

While at the University Sederstrom was very active in campus affairs, acting on several committees, and holding responsible political positions. He was a member of Skull and Dagger, sophomore service honorary.

Friends remember him as an active and capable student whose energy enabled him to earn most of his way through school.

His sister, Eleanor, is a senior this year and has also been very active in campus affairs. His parents live in Salem.

A son, Harlo Zinser, was born in June to Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Head, G.S., (Norma Bernice Zinser, '35).

SAE Repairs Fire Damage

Monday the carpenters, plasterers, painters, and plumbers picked up their tools, and left the renovated Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house in pretty good condition, considering that on Tuesday, December 23, 1941, it underwent a gutting fire, which caused over $1000 damage.

Except to those who are most familiar with the SAE house, it looks about the same as before—maybe a little "new" in spots. One of the biggest blows to members of the house was the loss of their coveted collection of imported European china mugs. These expensive works of art—some valued at $15 and $20—were only a charred mass after fire, smoke, water, and axes had done their work.

The collection was given to Sigma Alpha Epsilon by the late George L. Baker, former mayor of Portland, who brought them from Europe several years ago. For some time they made up a part of the famous European art collection at Mr. Baker's home, "The Tides," at Seaside.

The fire, which broke out at 12:25 p.m. in the bottom of a trash chute, did a great deal of damage in the basement, raced quickly to the first floor where it attacked the dining room buffet. The buffet held the brightly-colored art collection.

From there the flames shot up the open chute and between the walls, gnawing at second-story closets, just as firemen arrived and rescued the endangered sweaters, cords, and ROTC uniforms.

According to firemen on the scene at the time, "Another fifteen minutes would have seen the end of the SAE house!"

The clouds of smoke were almost impenetrable, and the fire-fighters were often forced to run to a window for air. Dave Scoggin, house manager, reports, though, that all repair work is now finished, that no clothing or study rooms were damaged, owing to speedy work of the fire department, and that a new asbestos, fireproof shute has been installed.

"We may be locking the door after the horse has gone," says he, "but we might get another horse sometime."

Panel Group Speaks

The women's symposium team will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Rover Road women's club this noon on "The Place of Women in Modern Society."

Senate Meets To Discuss ISA Program

All members of the Independent Students' association "senate" will be chosen by the end of this week, Milton Small, senate president, revealed last night. Selection of delegates, which began late fall term will be formally ended in time for a meeting this weekend.

Representatives

Senate members are chosen from campus independent groups and living organizations. Each of the men's dorms and each co-op is allowed two representatives, Yeomen and Orides are allowed three each, and each of the women's dorms is allowed four. Any group of 20 independent students, however, may organize and select a representative to the senate, Small said. It is not necessary that these groups carry on activities after the election, he said.

First duty of the senate members will be the collection of data on members of their organizations to use as a basis for an activity file. This action is in harmony with the three-point program adopted by the ISA, which provides for the "well-being" of independent students in activities, and in social and political life on the campus.

New Appointments

Members of the ISA cabinet meet today. It is expected that they will act on the vacancy in the cabinet, caused by the failure of Frankie Nelson, sophomore representative, to return to school this term.

Newshawks to Select New Staff Members

All Emerald editorial workers will meet Thursday, January 8, at 7:30 p.m. in 105 journalism. New reporters will be announced by Bob Frazier, news editor. Upper news staff positions, desk editors, and assistant desk editors will also be announced.

Persons who have worked or who are interested in working on the night staff will meet immediately after the all-staff meeting. Reorganization of the night staff will be started.

Plans for a proposed winter term luncheon will be discussed.

At a simple ceremony performed July 19, Miss Eileen R. Hickson, '34, became the bride of George G. Donnell.
