'Mice, Men' Opens Friday

By MAJORIE MAJOR

Drama that begins in the bunkhouse of a California ranch and ends morosely and tragically on the banks of a small stream comes to University theater audiences next Friday, January 16, when Guild hall presents "Of Mice and Men" by John Steinbeck.

The University theater version has been rewritten and adapted from the novel to the play by Director Horace W. Robinson, assistant professor of drama.

"Of Mice and Men" tells the story of George and Lennie, played by Jerry Lakefish and Robert Steadman, after they have wandered into jobs on a ranch. George tries to protect the half-wit Lennie from his own great brute strength. But tragedy hangs low on the horizon because of the meddlesome and willful Curley's wife, played by Ramona Jones.

Parker McNeil will take the role of Candy, perhaps the most pitiful of the characters. Candy is the broken-down hand who owns an equally ancient dog, which he eventually allow to be shot. McNeil's make-up for the character, which he has designed himself, will remind faithful Guild hall playgoers of his excellent make-up as Dr. Waldersee in "Idiot's Delight."

Dave Zilka, Robert Farrow, and James Bronson complete the cast. Performances will continue on January 17 and 20. Reservations may be obtained by calling 3300 or the University theater box office.

Sophs Slate 'Union' Show

Plans for a student union assembly late this term were laid yesterday by members of the sophomore student union committee. Beverly Padgham, assembly chairman, read a series of plans to be worked into a script.

The assembly theme, according to Miss Padgham's plans, will follow the "March of Time" idea with the history of student union brought onto the stage. A glimpse into the future will be offered as a closing feature. Mary Bentley and Phil Burco were appointed to assist her by Chairman Uly Dorais.

Avowed purpose behind the student union assembly and other student union activity is to "keep student union alive." Committee members feel it is necessary to keep the issue before the public so that "other building interests" will not get funds that might otherwise go toward a student union building.

"Casting" for the assembly program will be handled by Harry Miller and Rylla Hattan; state publicity, Al Cellars and Lora Case; finance, Chuck Rolffe; chairs and public address facilities, Dave Casey; publicity, Ann Reynolds and Bob Frazier.

The question of adding members to the committee because several of them did not return to school this year was tabled for hearing at the next meeting.

Campus Plans Day For Dads

Jack Lansing, chairman of the 1942 Dad's Day has appointed Al Hunt, senior in architecture and allied arts, as promotion chairman for the event. Hunt will work with Lansing in arranging promotion for the annual University trek of Oregon Dads.

This year the Dads will have a special luncheon at John Straub Memorial hall, it was announced. This luncheon will precede the Oregon-Oregon State basketball game.

Dad's Day this year will be held February 13, 14, and 15. As in previous years it will feature a slogan contest and, if following the pattern of last year, a letter contest. Last year the winning slogan was "The Gates Are Open, Dads," taking note of the dedication of the $25,000 gates which were presented to the University by the Oregon Dads.

The winning letter last year was printed and 809 copies sent home to Oregon Dads.

Pembroke college's freshman enrollment of 165 is up 30 per cent over last year.

Navy Needs Officers

The navy needs 7000 seniors and 7000 juniors now in college for deck and engineering officers. Students who enlist now will not be called into active duty until they graduate, except that juniors may be ordered to active duty for the time school is closed during the summer.

A communication just received from the navy states that the university has in its curriculum all the essential requirements for students who wish to enlist in the naval reserves. Any of the personnel officers of the university are available for consultation at any time on courses and requirements for enlistments.

In a letter received by Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the university, the navy department states that it "greatly appreciates your prompt cooperation in making available to your students additional subjects for further training in the V-5 and V-8 programs."

Famous Film Shows Today

"The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," first in the series of movies to be presented by the educational activities board, will be shown this afternoon at the Chapman hall auditorium. Four continuous showings will start at 2:10 and students will be admitted free upon presentation of their educational activities cards. Faculty members and townspeople may purchase memberships into the University of Oregon Film society for $1.50 plus tax, which will admit them into all seven performances.

The film is famous for its artistic effects, achieved by unusual lighting, makeup, and arrangement of background material. It was this picture, which ranks along with "Birth of a Nation" as a milestone in screen history, that marked the film industry's realization that motion pictures were to become a major artistic medium.

All seven movies in the series will be presented on consecutive Wednesday afternoons, beginning today and ending Wednesday, February 25.

YW Girls Asked To Attend Meeting

Girls who attend the regular Thursday afternoon tea at the YWCA bungalow tomorrow are urged to stay for the tea committee meeting scheduled for 4:30, and for the assembly committee meeting at 4:45, according to Patty Pearson, general chairman of each committee.

Miss Pearson stressed the importance of the attendance of the girls who signed up for this work at the beginning of the school year.

Ducks Win Wings

Three University alumni won the silver wings of a second lieutenant's commission in the air corps reserve Friday at the graduation ceremonies of the air corps advanced flying school, Luke field, Phoenix, Arizona.

The new second lieutenants are James Felix Doern and Fowler T. Wood, both of Portland, and Eston Elmer Balsiger, Klamath Falls.

Emerson Page, senior in business administration, was appointed chairman of the annual Senior Ball yesterday by Pat Lawson, senior class president. Committee chairmen, decorations, and the choice of the band will be announced later this week, Miss Lawson said.

Page, business manager of the Oregana, has an activity record reaching back to his freshman year on the campus. Last year he was co-advertising manager of the Oregana, and promotion manager of the Emerald. In his sophomore year he was chairman of the Whiskerino. He is a member of the co-op board and Alpha Delta Sigma, men's national advertising society.

The ball, scheduled for McArthur court January 31, will be the first all-campus formal of the year.

Realtors Honor President Erb

University President Donald M. Erb added to his laurels the title of Eugene's first citizen for 1941 Monday night at the Eugene realty board's annual banquet as more than 300 residents of Eugene and the state honored his "inspired leadership and intellectual courage."

Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of the state system of higher education, urged defense of the institutions and ideals of democracy in the main speech of the evening. He emphasized the imperativeness of defending them "with all the armed might that it is possible to muster."

"After the foes of democracy have been crushed and destroyed," Dr. Hunter declared, "we must spread the doctrine of our traditions and ideology and make it the living and militant force for all peoples of the world." These doctrines, he said, must become the dynamic force of our lives.

Dignitaries present to pay tribute to Eugene's No. 1 man were Earl Snell, secretary of state; State Treasurer and Mrs. Leslie Scott; Real Estate Commissioner and Mrs. Claude Murphy; Millard Holbrook, president of the Oregon Association of Real Estate Boards, and James A. Rodman, state representative and past president of the state real estate association, who was toastmaster. Representatives of the youth organizations of Lane county were also present.

AWS Appoints Hop Chairman

The AWS cabinet at a special meeting last night appointed Marilyn Campbell, sophomore in architecture and allied arts, and Betty Bevil, freshman in science, to the position of co-chairmen of the annual Nickle Hop.

The dance will be held from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. January 20 instead of the previously announced date.

A dance committee composed of one girl in each living organization will be appointed by the co-chairmen within a few days. A publicity head will also be announced at that time.

The Nickle Hop is an annual affair sponsored by the Associated Women Students. Each living organization has charge of the music and other features for its own group.
