

Dean Outlines 'Union' Plans

Dean E. F. Lawrence of the school of architecture and allied arts is the author of an article titled "Why Not Union Now?" which appeared in the December issue of the magazine Pencil Points.

The dean has set forth a proposal for the planning professions which is summarized as follows:

1. A combined national convention of planning groups, architects, engineers, landscape architects, city planners, and housing experts to formulate plans for a Federation of National Planning societies represented by a national council of planners, and to consider mutual problems involving education, and general practice and especially defense and government service.

2. Reciprocity between registration boards that the terms architect-engineer and engineer-architect may be legalized

a. By engineering examinations for architects to meet standards acceptable to engineering registration boards, and

b. By examinations in planning and practice for engineers to meet standards acceptable to architectural registration boards.

Dean Lawrence believes that through such a plan architecture can actually be engineering plus beauty. He makes reference to the fact that in England, despite the war, the government is encouraging and even allowing priorities for desirable private, municipal, and semi-public construction and reconditioning. Most of all the British are undertaking long-range planning of the widest scope. They feel that an emergency must not be allowed to breed conditions as bad or worse than they were before.

KOAC Program Head Visits Radio Players

Mrs. Zelta Rodenwald, Corvallis, director of women's programs at KOAC and chairman of the KOAC program staff, was in Eugene Wednesday to see local program participants.

One of Mrs. Rodenwald's chief purposes in coming to the campus was to make future arrangements for programs to be presented by Dr. Lawrence Bee's radio study group which is connected with the Oregon Parent-Teacher's association.

Since the ice storm of January 7, no local programs have been transmitted over KOAC. This has upset the usual routine, but Mrs. Rodenwald said that efforts were made to have power available for the UO-OSC hoop tilt Saturday night.

Lois Clause Appointed Circulation Manager

Appointment of Lois Clause as circulation manager of the Oregon Daily Emerald was announced last night by Fred O. May, business manager.

Miss Clause replaces Lars Bob Gilson, who resigned to become assistant circulation manager of the Eugene Daily News. She was on the Emerald office staff prior to her appointment, May said.

Symposium Travels

Traveling on a three-day speaking tour starting February 3, the women's symposium group will go to St. Helens and Astoria where they will speak to the assembled students of high schools, and also the Clatsop County League of Women Voters. From there they will travel down the coast to Seaside, Tillamook, Newport, Waldport, and Florence, speaking to the high school student bodies in each of these towns.

'Thaw' Puts State on Map

The laugh is on Oregon, "land of the golden west," and our own state.

In the East they have cyclones, duststorms, blizzards, sub-zero weather, and grasshoppers. In California the big attraction is earthquakes and fogs of various densities, and Washington advertises her cloudbursts. But in Oregon, "land of the rose and sunshine," we only have "silver thaws."

"There's nothing thaw about it—it's a freeze," said J. C. Stovall, geography instructor, recently. And, he's right, because back in 1886 Harvey Scott, editor of the Oregonian, coined the phrase so that easterners wouldn't know that we, too, have sleet to beautify our trees and to eat up our fuel supplies. At least, that's what Ira Gilstrap, old-timer of Junction City, Oregon, says.

Article By Dr. Bernard Will Appear In Autumn

Dr. Harold W. Bernard, assistant professor of education, will have an article published in an early fall issue of Parents' magazine. The article, entitled "Help Your Child Build Courage," runs 2100 words in length.

The idea developed in this article is that children, in order to build up confidence, must be aided by their parents in developing skills, whether in sports, reading, or any useful field. This will help the child face situations he will meet in later life, the article continues.

Professional magazines such as Mental Hygiene, School and Society, and Journal of Exceptional Children are publications in which Dr. Bernard has already made his literary debut.

Student Union Picks Leaders

Don Stevens, freshman in business administration, was elected chairman of the newly chosen freshman student union committee when the group held their first meeting yesterday at the Side to make plans for the activities they will carry out to supplement the work now being done by the sophomore and junior committees.

Og Young, chairman of the student union committee spoke to the newly organized group and told them something of the history of the move and what their part was to be in it.

Phyllis Hortsman, freshman in arts and letters, was elected to serve as secretary of the group.

Various plans of action were discussed. The group recognized the fact that due to the present war emergency no building will be possible immediately, but certain work in relation to its future building will be carried on by the committee.

Dr. O. F. Evans, University of Oklahoma geologist, becomes sort of a "ripple reader" when he wants relaxation; he interprets

Under a labor-study plan operation at Berea college, Kentucky, students are required to spend less than $150 a year.

Co-op Has New Pocket Editions

Four new titles have been added to the selection of pocket editions books for sale in the Co-op book store, Mrs. Lucile Parsons announced yesterday.

"You Can't Do Business With Hitler," by Douglas Miller, is one of the most popular of the new books in this series, according to the librarian. It deals with the author's experience with the dictator.

"The Singapore Exile Murders" by Van Wyck Mason, "Death in a White Tie" by Ngaio Marsh, and "The Case of the Caretaker's Cat" by Erle Stanley Gardner are three new mystery stories now available. The author of this last book is on this coast.

The books in this series are all available in the pocket series edition which sells for only 25 cents at the Co-op.

Schrick Announces New Desk Assistants

Appointment of Bud Churchill and Erling Erlandson as assistant copy desk editors on the Emerald Tuesday and Wednesday nights was announced Wednesday by Ray Schrick, managing editor. They will assist John Mathews and Duncan Wimpres, city editors.

33 Initiated At Formal Rite

Thirty-three University women were initiated into Orides, independent Oregon women, at formal ceremonies January 19 in Gerlinger hall. Several girls, unable to attend the initiation, will be inducted into the group later, Corrine Nelson, Orides president, said.

An Orides-Yeomen sponsored dance will take place in Gerlinger from 8:30 to 11:30 Friday, January 23. Admission to the dance costs 15 cents, and campus clothes are in order. Orides and Yeomen will be admitted free.

Joseph Caldwell, a Princeton graduate, was the first president of the University of North Carolina.
