Marriage Men Meet Today To Organize

Men's organization representatives for the love and marriage series will hold their first general meeting in Gerlinger hall at 5 o'clock today, according to Robert McKinney, chairman for men's groups.

These representatives, and the women's organization representatives under Marge Curtis, will aid in organizing the fireside discussions which are to follow the February 12 lectures of Dr. Paul Popenoe, authority on love and marriage problems.

Men chosen are: Loyal Lang, Bob McDonald, Bill Macy, Paul Thurston, Eugene Newberg, Ted Parry, Roy Metzler, Ed Moshofsky.

Bob Ballard, Bob Perlman, Dick Burns, Jim Browne, Greg Decker, Ernie Short, Joe Wicks, David Knox, and Don Shirley.

Double Trouble Hits Ailment Hut

Two kinds of measles, German measles and red measles, now and another case of mumps are boarding in the ailment arena, according to Dr. F. N. Miller, director of the health service.

The seventeen in the infirmary are: Betty Rathbun, Betty Edwards, Claire Lyon, Charmian Miller, Helen Luvaas, Walter Krause, Gladys Samel, Margery Hoffman, Robert Vernon, Ralph Currin, Stanley Jones, Kenneth Sawyer, Leo Reetz, and Fred Foster.

'Let's Spike It' Travel 'Clamp' Unnoticed

Evidently easterners are being warned that a lot of red tape will be involved if they come out west. A letter from Miss Merl Clasey, who teaches at the University during summer sessions, enclosed the following article from a Minneapolis, Minnesota, newspaper:

"If you happen to be heading west soon, take with you such items as your birth certificate, lodge or association membership cards, anything for complete identification. Military officials are clamping down . . ."

Miss Clasey, a special teacher with the Minneapolis city schools and teacher in remedial reading at the clinical school at the University in the summer, was puzzled by the article and asked the reason for it. Oregonians wonder too. Thus far, the "clamping down" has not been felt to any great extent.

Bill Fugit, head of Scabbard and Blade, sponsors of the annual Military ball, will see the installation of a new voting system for the selection of the Little Colonel, it was announced Wednesday. The deadline for entries of contestants is 5 p.m.

Vote System New for Ball

The contest for the Military ball's Little Colonel is to have a new and different voting system, it was announced by Emerson Page, ticket-sale chairman, and Ken Bowes, chairman of the contest.

The tickets to the dance, which is slated for February 21, will have two stubs, one on each end so that both the boy and the girl attending may vote. Friday, a ballot box will be placed at the Side and the advance ticket sale will begin.

Couples who buy their tickets in advance will receive a re-

Mrs. Maris Leads AWS Talks Today

OSC Dean To Discuss College Girls

The second in a series of all-women assemblies, sponsored by the Associated Women Students, will get underway today at 4 p.m. in Room 207, Chapman, when Mrs. Beulah Maris, newly appointed dean of women at Oregon State, will lead an informal discussion on "What a College Girl Is Made of."

Brought to the University campus by popular demand, Mrs. Maris was described by AWS President Elizabeth Steed as "One of the most entertaining speakers ever to be heard on the Oregon campus by an AWS group."

Seven members of the Oregon State AWS cabinet will accompany Dean Maris and will be guests at a fireside and dinner this evening at the Gamma Phi Beta house. Dean Hazel F. Schwering, and Assistant Dean Alice B. Macduff will also be present as honored guests.

The assembly is one in the series of all-women gatherings sponsored by the AWS. Others will be sponsored during the rest of the year.

Heads Chosen For Frosh Glee

Lorraine Davidson and Glenn Macy were chosen last night as co-chairmen of the annual Frosh Glee by officers of the freshman class. They will appoint committee heads next week.

The chairmen were selected from a list of "12 or 13" freshmen last night. Officers who made the selections were Ted Yaw, president; June Hitchcock, vice-president; Dorothy Patterson, secretary; and Louis Felsheim, treasurer.

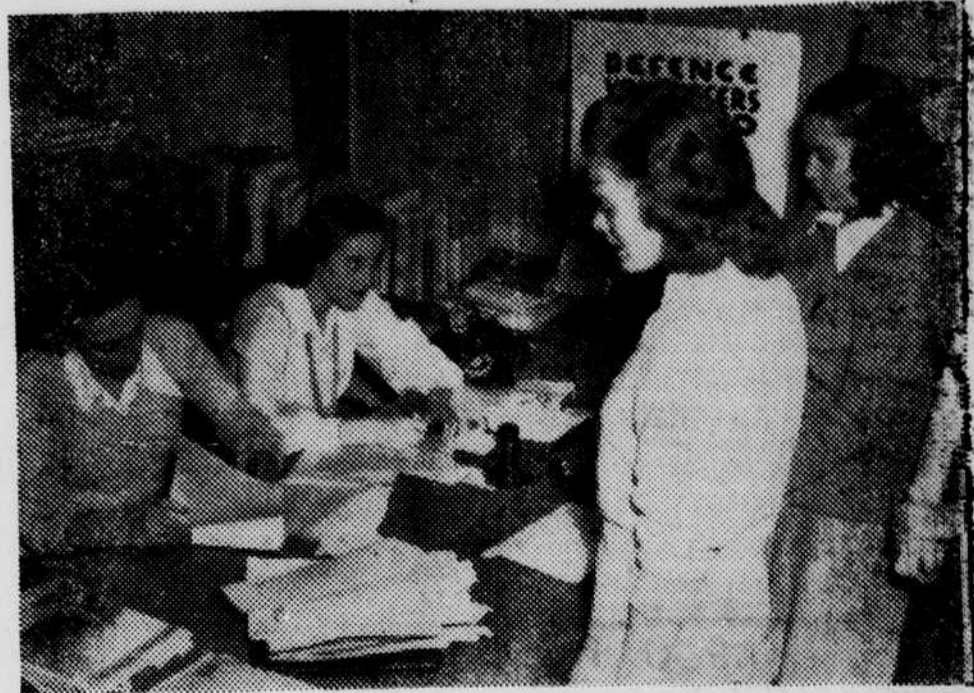

The Glee is scheduled for April 25.

Collegiate Spirit

Cokes, they say, will be no more until the ending of the war. At least the militarists are glad: They've found a way to make us mad.

Shown signing up for defense work are Annabelle Dow and Lulu Pali. Taking their applications are Bette Workman and Hope Hughes. Opportunity is given to all students to sign up for some kind of defense work on the campus.

'Cross' Center Started at UO

Establishment of a campus Red Cross center was announced last night by Ann Reynolds of the student defense committee.

The center, to be located upstairs in Chapman hall, will be headquarters for a project by University women, under Miss Reynold's direction, to make emergency kits, sweaters, Sox, and similar war relief materials for the Red Cross. The new center will be a great convenience for defense workers, who would otherwise have to work down town.

Materials

Working materials should be available by this weekend, according to Miss Reynolds.

As yet, sole organization to assist Miss Reynolds is Kwamas, sophomore women's honorary. Acting for the group are Babs DuPuy, Yvonne Torgler, and Phyllis Grey, who will be in charge of promotion and actual making of materials. Within a week they will place posters for the project in all women's living organizations.

Dean Ralph W. Leighton will serve as faculty advisor for the project.

Hudson Raises

Russ Hudson, chairman of the funds and accounting division of the student defense committee, will raise necessary funds. Money will come from dances and sales conducted by non-permanent campus groups, since permanent groups such as living organizations are contributing to the war effort through purchase of defense bonds.

During the last war headquarters for Red Cross work were situated in the YWCA bungalow. Workers signed cards pledging a stated number of hours of work per week to be done there. According to present plans, all work is to be purely voluntary under the new system.

Colonel Joins ROTC Staff

Col. Charles L. Sampson, former ROTC staff officer for the ninth corps area at the presidio in San Francisco, arrived on the campus Wednesday morning to assume duties as instructor in military science and tactics.

Colonel Sampson was graduated from the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, the army war college, and the naval war college. While stationed at Camp Roberts, near San Louis Obispo, California, he organized an infantry replacement training center.

He also considers the famous college of hard knocks among his alma maters, having begun his career as a 19-year-old private in the Spanish-American war with the Kansas national guard.

After the Spanish-American war he served in the regular army as a second lieutenant, the rank he had achieved during that conflict. Going to war again in 1917, Colonel Sampson served first as a major and then a lieutenant-colonel. He received his appointment as a colonel in August, 1935.

Col. R. M. Lyon said that he will be prepared for any order that the war department may send.
