

Letter Winners Named

Dad Day Plan Offers Lunch, OSC Game

Two top "epistle to pater" writers on the Oregon campus were rewarded for their ability Thursday when they won the annual Dads' day letter writing contest. The two winners are Nelda Rohrbach, freshman in arts and letters, and Chuck Sullivan, senior in history.

Oreganas

Both letter writers will receive 1942 Oreganas, Nancy Riesch, letter chairman, announced. The letters are written inviting dads of Oregon students to come to the University for the annual Dads' day celebration, held this year February 13, 14, and 15.

The letters will be published in an early issue of the Emerald and all students are urged to send copies of them to their fathers. Last year 809 letters were sent to the dads.

Open Houses

The dads' celebration this year will feature informal get-togethers of fathers and students. Open houses will take place following the Oregon-Oregon State basketball game in McArthur court Saturday evening.

A highlight of the weekend will be a "streamlined" luncheon in John Straub Memorial hall. Edgar Smith, member of the state board of higher education, will be the speaker at the luncheon and Joe Riesch, president of the Oregon Dads, will be toastmaster.

College students over the country are estimated to earn more than $32,000,000 a year.

Tri-Delts, Chi Omega Top 'Hop' Support

Delta Delta Delta sorority, first, and Chi Omega sorority, second, bought tickets 100 per cent strong the first day of the Heart Hop ticket sale.

Over 700 tickets have been distributed in women's living organizations and several more houses are expected to go 100 per cent before the girl-date-boy dance Tuesday, according to Betty Kincaid, chairman.

Each girl buying a ticket can cast one vote in the Monday election for the King of Hearts and may also attend any or all of the four houses at which the dance will be held from 3:30 to 5:30.

Record players will furnish music for the dancers at the Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Gamma, and Kappa Alpha Theta houses.

Lutherans Paged

All Lutheran students who wish to attend their Sunday ski retreat are asked to get in touch with Gladys McNutt immediately.

Students belonging to the LSA are to bring their breakfast and luncheon and will meet at 5:30 a.m. Sunday morning at the YWCA bungalow.

Transportation will be furnished to the ski retreat which has been tentatively set for Hand Lake. All additional details may be secured by calling Miss McNutt.

Mrs. Seifert Absent

Mrs. Edith Seifert, hostess of Gerlinger hall, is now absent on a three-day vacation to San Francisco. Her place is being taken by Mrs. B. W. DeBusk.

Twenty-Two Girls Enter 'Little Colonel' Contest

Twenty-two girls, representing the pick of Oregon feminine beauty entered the race last night for the Military ball "Little Colonel." Each campus girls' living organization picked a name from among its number to be tossed about, debated, and voted upon by all customers of the Military ball, February 21.

According to the plan released by Scabbard and Blade members, joint sponsors of the dance with the military department, each man and woman holding a couple's ticket will vote on the two stubs attached to the ticket. Thus students will choose the Little Colonel and her court of majors and captains by accurate means.

Advance Sales

Advance ticket sales open today. Every member of advanced military—163 men—will be a salesman. Together they will constitute the largest selling force to ever operate on the Oregon campus. Advance couple tickets sell at a substantial reduction over the price the night of the dance.

A locked ballot box will be placed at the College Side Friday for the voting convenience of purchasers of advance tickets.

KOAC Program

Work of the home economics department will be discussed Monday evening at 8:30 over KOAC, Mary B. Farr, instructor in home economics, announced yesterday.

Several students will be interviewed about the value of subjects they have studied in the various home economics classes. Dorothea Parker, Buck Buchwach, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lindley will be heard as students who have taken the courses.

Art Books Moved

Several hundred outdated books were moved out of the art school library this week to the main University library building where they will be put in the reference department.

These books are all too old to be of much value to art students, Mabel Houcks, secretary of the art school said.

Publication Schedule Listed for Emerald

The Emerald publication schedule was revised Thursday to conform with a shortened winter quarter, a one-day spring vacation, and an early graduation. There are still 53 issues listed. Three of these will be special editions: Spring Opening, Thursday, February 7 to 28; March 5; the special Sunday issue, March 29; the Graduation issue, Wednesday, May 20.

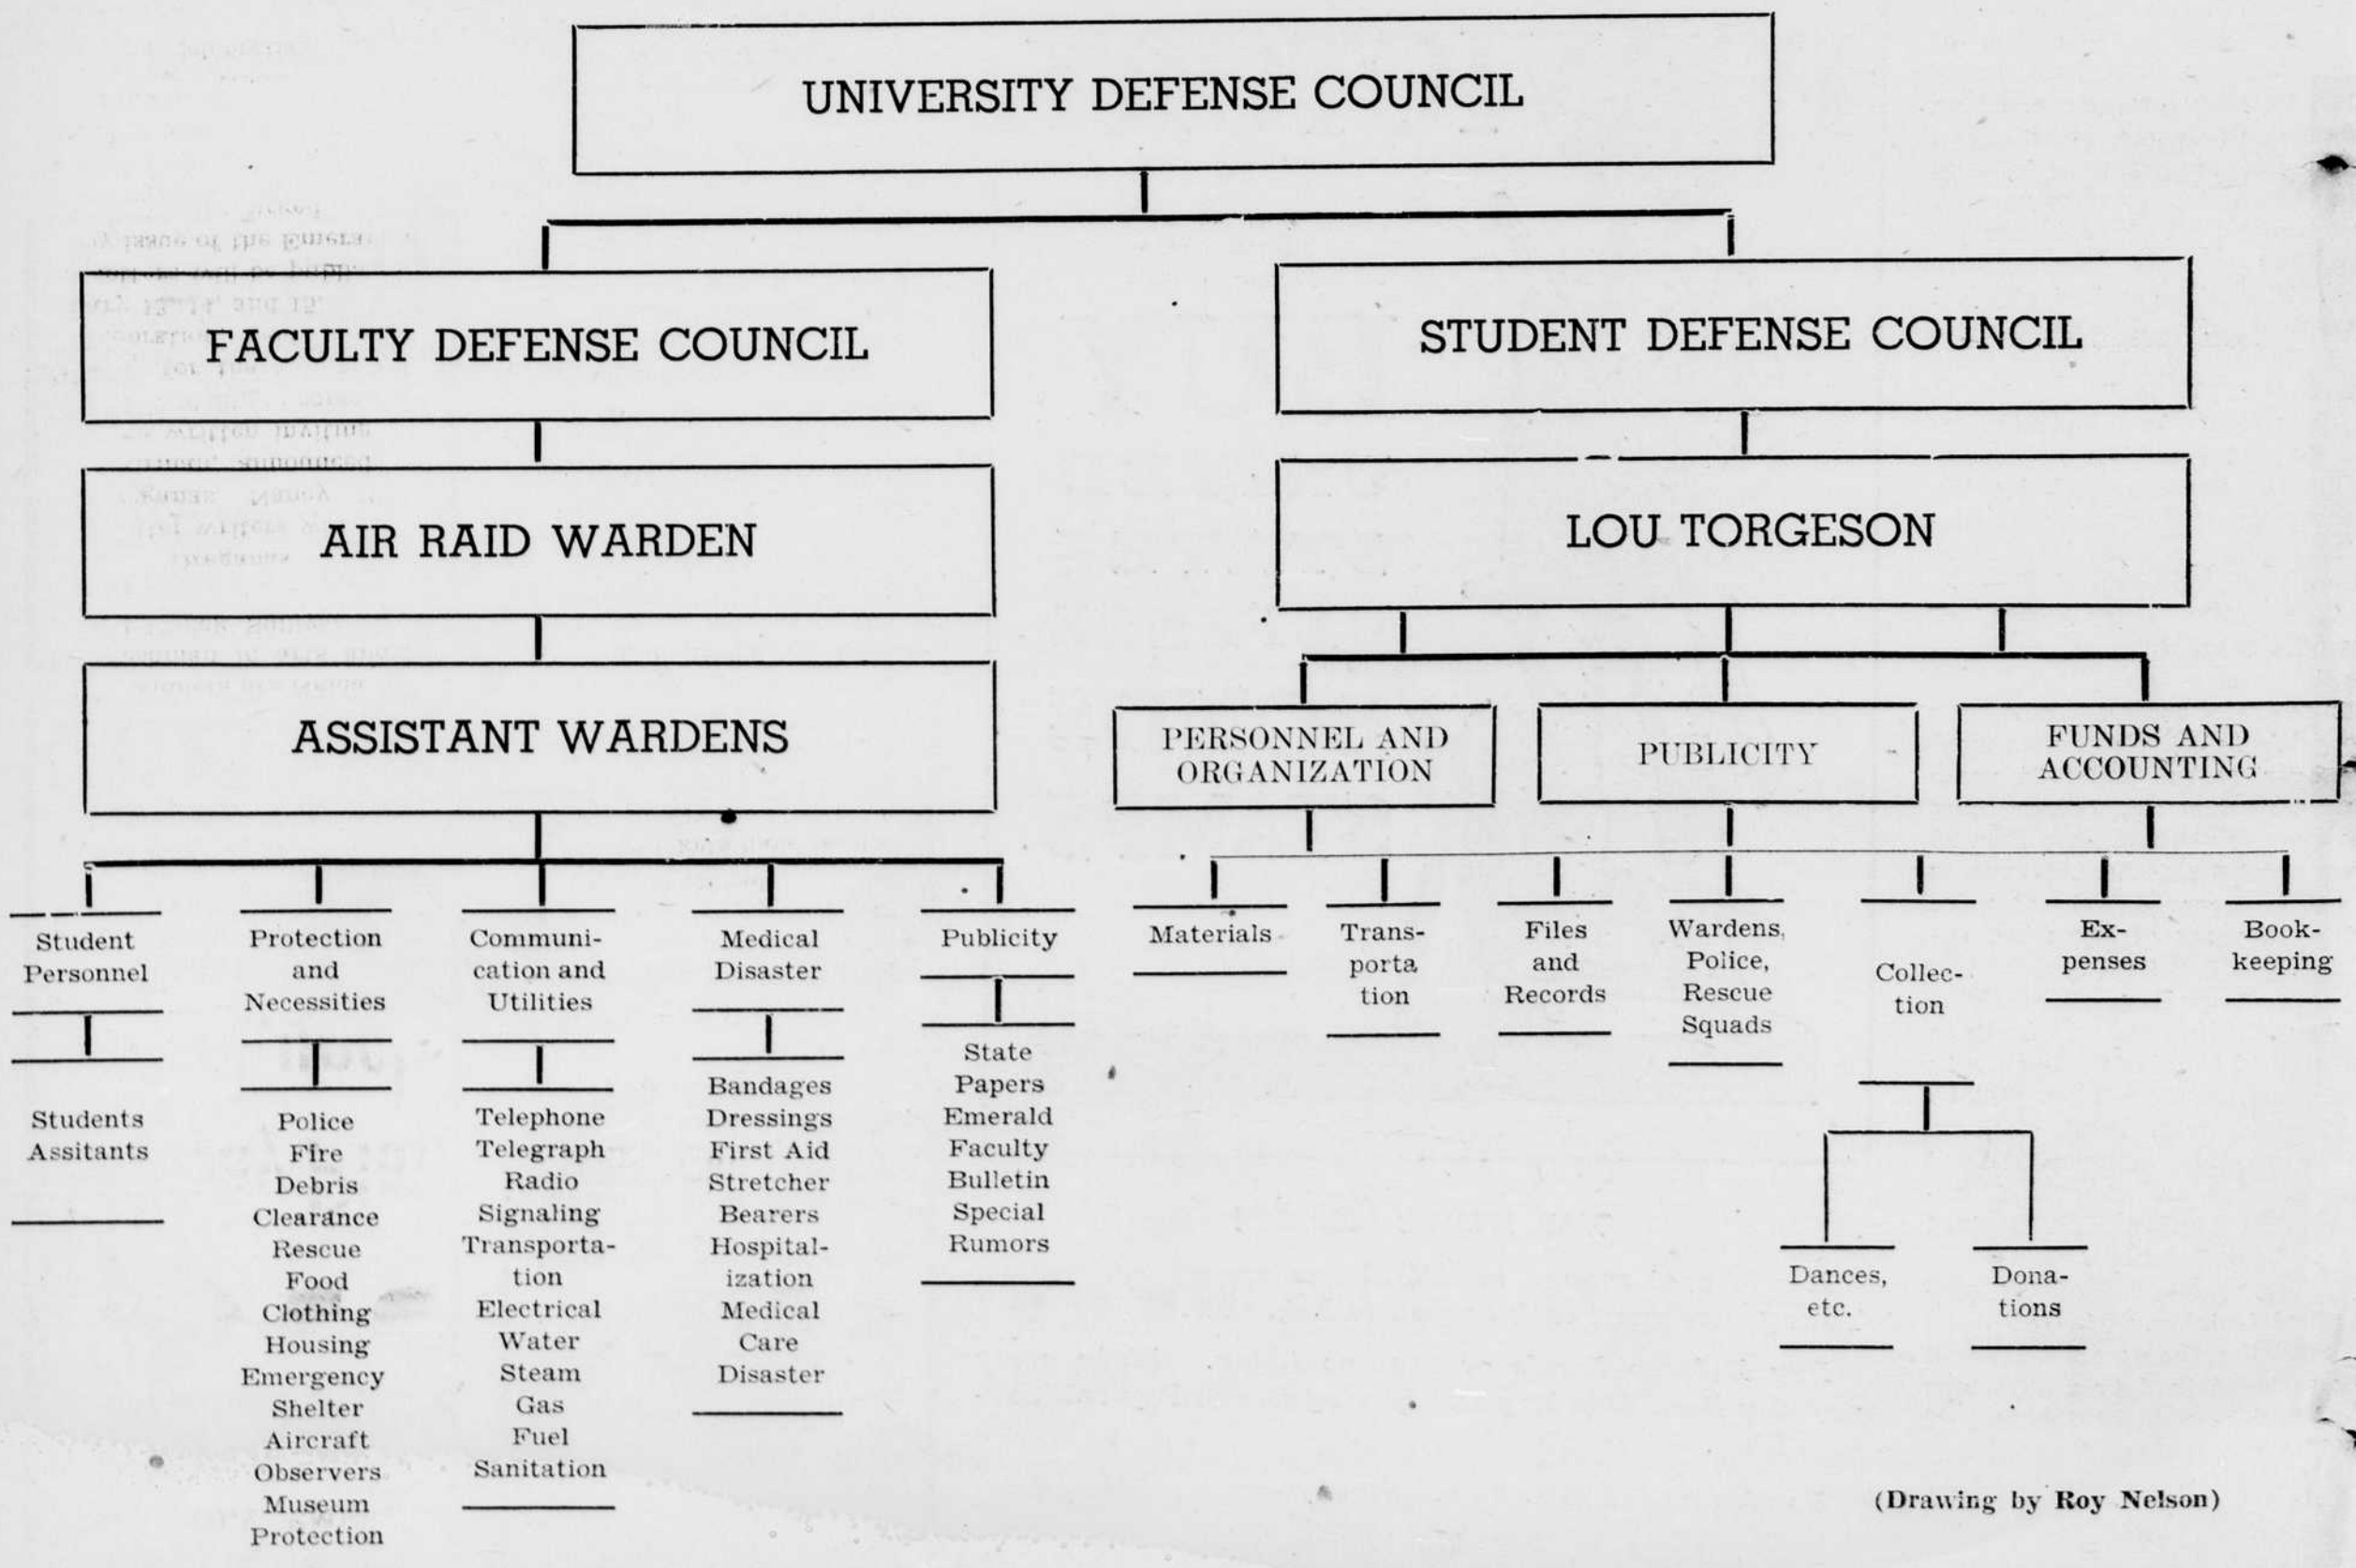

Other publication dates are: (Sundays and Mondays excluded) February 7 to 28; March 24 to 31; April 1 to 30; and May 1 to 16.

Sale Compared With Last Year

To date the tag sale for the World Student Service Fund drive has collected $95.31, with Eugene high school still to be heard from, Elizabeth Edmunds, co-chairman of the drive on the campus, announced Thursday. This figure compares with a tag sale collection last year of $91.01.

Faculty solicitations are still being secured, Miss Edmunds said, and no complete figures for this is yet available. Faculty members wishing to contribute to the drive which aids destitute students of foreign lands are advised to mail checks to Ray Packouz, in charge of faculty solicitations, in care of the YMCA.

Collections from church groups are not yet in and no figures are available. All solicitors should turn in their collections at the YMCA building between 4 and 5 p.m. today.
