

Econ Theorist Visits Faculty

Dr. Bernard F. Haley, head of the economics department at Stanford university, will visit the University and faculty from Friday noon to Saturday noon. Dr. Haley is one of the best known authorities of economic theory on the Pacific coast.

As chairman of the Pacific coast regional committee of Social Science Research council, Dr. Haley is making a tour of northwestern universities and colleges. He will discuss research in the fields of social science with the faculty of the college of social science and discuss individual research projects with faculty members.

A dinner has been planned in his honor, to be held in the faculty club at 6 p.m., Friday.

Dr. Haley will go to Portland after his visit here. Saturday he will attend the Stanford alumni forum for Stanford graduates.

Dr. Haley is a close personal friend of Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University. He and Dr. Erb were closely associated at Stanford. While in Eugene, Dr. Haley will be a visitor in the home of Dr. Erb on Fairmount Heights.

War Called 'Idealistic'

The conclusion of the students at the end of the second of the student forum series in Chapman hall last night was that a war can't be fought for material things without involving ideals.

Opening the informal discussion was Dr. Quirinus Breen, assistant professor of social science and history.

Dr. Breen presented the preliminary statement that granted spiritual purposes a defensive war with very sharp aggression is permitted.

He defined spiritual purposes as those which thinkers of mankind, past and present, would agree upon.

"Should We Bomb Enemy Civilians?" was discussed by Jonathan Kahananui and Don Treadgold. Kahananui stated that he believed that since civilians are part of the obstacles to our military success we should bomb them.

Treadgold, on the other hand, maintained that we couldn't afford to use the bombs, that it would increase the enemy's will to resist, and that we should further international law by supporting it.

Churches Will Observe World Day of Prayer

Services will be held at the Congregational church at 2:30 p.m. Friday and at the Presbyterian church at 7:30 p.m. These services are in honor of the world day of prayer, being observed throughout the United States in an effort to find divine guidance in our present difficulty.

Lois Nordling, president of the YWCA; Florence Anderson; Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories; Rev. Charles E. Funk, director of Wesley house, Dr. J. L. Casteel, director of the speech division, Miss Elizabeth Findly, senior assistant of the reference department of the library, and Mrs. Victor P. Morris will participate in the evening service.

War Work Calls Coeds

All women students interested in working at the University Red Cross center are asked to meet today at 4 o'clock on the third floor of Chapman hall.

The University office is in charge of everything on the campus that the Eugene Red Cross takes care of down town, according to Carolyn Holmes who heads this student organization.

The office and its staff will build an "emergency closet" of bedding, cooking utensils, etc.

Two women's groups, Kwama and Phi Theta Upsilon, will handle the knitting and sewing, and will work directly with faculty instructors. Kwama, sophomore honorary, has charge of the knitting. The University center is especially for the benefit of students in case any emergency arises. Its office is open every Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. At this time, materials for mittens, helmets, sweaters, scarves, overalls, bathrobes, children's clothing, surgical garments, and hospital clothing will be issued to directed groups.

Pick Yer Podner; Tresses Tell Price

Admission for the all-campus dance to take place at the men's dorm tonight will be charged according to the color of the girls' hair.

Fellows with brunette dates must pay 12 cents, 13 cents for blondes, and 14 cents for red-heads.

Music furnished by the Zeta hall radio the dance will last from 9 to 12 p.m. The proceeds will be contributed to the Red Cross.

Aesthetes of UO Join Mystic Cult In Early Vigil

Oregon's unique student organization, the Three o'Clock club, will meet tomorrow morning (tonight) at 1:30 a.m. for a special and extensive session, it was revealed last night.

A full program is on the agenda, and entertainment will be the most lavish of this year, according to elaborate plans which are rapidly approaching completion.

A special edition of the Three o'Clock Whistle will be distributed, it was announced, and the usual banquet is scheduled as a follow-up to the business of the morning. All old members are invited to attend, as well as new ones who are interested in joining the select organization.
