

Oil Well Hit As President Speaks to US

"H," J. O. Lindstrom, University business manager, announced that his protective division of the FDC was completely organized and ready for any emergency.

With 17 faculty sub-chairmen and vice-chairmen assisting him, Chairman Lindstrom has the responsibility of handling the section of civilian defense most likely to come in for the "dirty" work if attack should center in the Eugene area. On his crew are several hundred students ready to be called for action at a moment's notice.

J. Rhinesmith "Kampus Kop"

O. L. Rhinesmith, "Kampus Kop," is chairman of the police squad. He will be assisted by Virgil D. Earl, dean of men. Eighty students have been chosen as special police officers, from those submitting their applications during the past few weeks, and of these 50 will be assigned to the eight air raid wardens for duty in each of their districts on the campus. The other 30 will be held in reserve at a main police headquarters in Fenton hall for special duty.

The fire department will be manned by Chairman E. E. Boushey, and Vice-Chairman W. W. Massey, both assistant professors of physical education. Their student set-up is generally the same as for the police division, 50 students in active duty during emergencies, and 30 in reserve at Fenton hall.

Debris clearance is being handled by K. J. O'Connell, associate professor of law, with the help of men from the physical plant and some student help.

The rescue squad is headed by E. R. Knollin, professor of physical education, and R. K. Cutler, assistant professor of physical education. They will have the same quota of students as the police and fire squads.

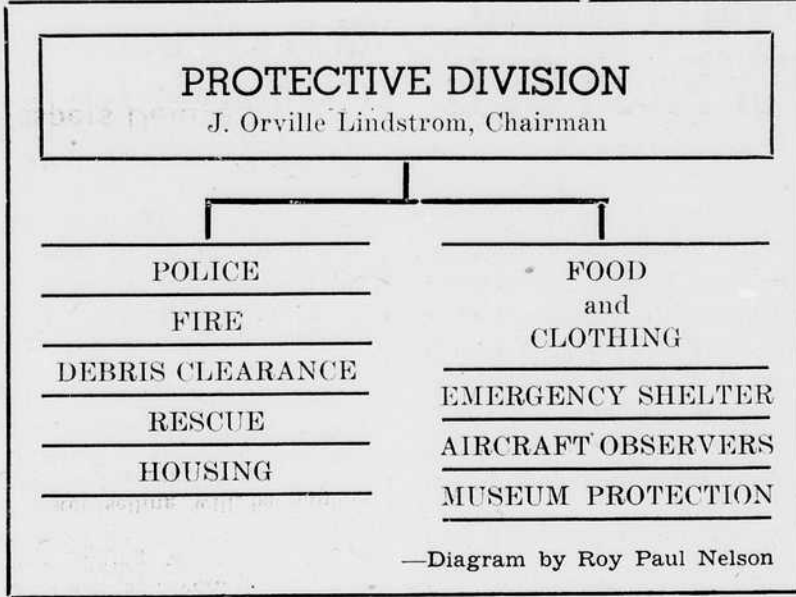

Food and clothing for emergency needs will be administered by Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories; Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women; and W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor of speech. Their headquarters will be in John Straub memorial hall.

Housing Handled

Handling housing will be Elmer Fansett, alumni secretary, whose double problem it will be to find adequate housing for University students in case of an air attack and to find quarters for part of the town residents in University buildings in the event of an air raid.

Emergency shelters will be taken care of by C. L. Huffaker, professor of education, and Arthur Riehl, instructor in architecture. At the present time these two men are carrying out the overwhelming project of surveying every campus building, determining the places of greatest safety within them, and making sure of the exits and fire escapes. They are making studies of the past experiences of England and have carried on several conferences with army and navy officials.

Aircraft observers and museum protection is under the supervision of Luther S. Cressman, head of the anthropology department. Assisting him in the aircraft warning division are John Warren, freshman coach; Bruce Hamby, ASUO news bureau head; and Willis Warren, assistant librarian. Mr. Cressman is also head of the state committee for the protection of museums and libraries.

Judges Make 'Cover Girl' Choice Today

The as yet unchosen "Emerald Cover Girl" is well on the way to the front page of the mammoth spring opening Emerald issue to be published March 5, according to Fred O. May, business manager.

The names of 14 finalists were announced late last night by May, who will act as one of the judges on the committee which will determine the winner this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the University news bureau. Other judges are Helen Angell, Emerald editor; Cecil Snyder, head of the University news bureau; and Fred Brenne, secretary of the Eugene chamber of commerce.

Judged in Person

"Our decisions so far," said May, "have been based entirely on the dozens of pictures brought into the business office by the women's organizations during the past week. However, today we intend to judge the girls in person."

Following is the list of coeds from which the "Cover Girl" is to be selected:

Girl Piggers

Ellen Smith listed: the sending of corsages, buttonnaires, refreshments, cokes and possibly dinner before; furnishing of cigarettes; and calling for and delivering of dates. "All customary courtesies are to be reversed," she said, "even taking to the outside of the walk."

Ticket selling will be handled by a representative from each girls' organization. Two tickets will be awarded to the two saleswomen with biggest sales records. Kathleen Brady is head of the ticket sales.

A fashion show is planned for intermission, when spotlights will focus on 25 models from girls' living organizations. Dresses will be furnished by Eugene stores.

Vespers Delayed

The University vesper service, originally scheduled for the first Sunday of March, has been postponed until March 22, because the music auditorium is in use on the other Sundays, Dean Theodore Kratt of the music school announced today.

Nazi Disease Hits Infirmary

Sabotage in the form of one case of German measles has hit the infirmary, and sends paling into significance, for the time being, the three-day measles.

Inhabitants of the bandage bastille are: Helen Luvaas, Maxine Cuning, Flora Bertsch, Betty Stockwell, Mrs. June McCarthy, Doris Cleeton, John McKinney, George Mengelkock, Ernest Hansen, Jean Thomsen, Harvey Fielder, Robert Rowan, Vernon Kisabeth, John Hediger, Barry Boldeman, Leon Olmstead, and James Durkheimer.

Marine Corps Officers Visit

Moving pictures of officers' training in the U. S. marine corps will be shown on the campus by Lieutenant M. J. Kelly and Staff Sergeant Mack Sherman next Friday, February 27, it was learned here yesterday. Applications to the marines will be reviewed and accepted during the visit of the two officers.

All senior students who are accepted will be ordered to training beginning in May while juniors and sophomores will remain on an inactive status until their college courses are completed. Successful completion of candidates' classes at Quantico, Virginia, qualifies a college graduate for a second lieutenant's commission in the marine corps reserve.

All applicants must be unmarried men and must agree to remain unmarried until they have received their commission. They must belong to no other military organizations, be taking a course leading to a B.A. or a B.S. degree, pass a physical examination, be at least 66 inches tall, but not over 76 inches with proportionate weight, and be recommended by three reputable citizens as well as the dean or college president. Further information concerning enlistment may be obtained from Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, dean of physical education, who is handling applications.

Dr. Smith Addresses Los Angeles Meeting

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University geology department, spoke to the Philippine Society of Los Angeles during their monthly meeting held February 14. After the luncheon meeting Dr. Smith was asked by a member of the federal radio communication office to go to Hollywood to make a recording of his speech to be broadcast to the Philippines.

Dr. Smith is on leave of absence this term and is doing advanced work at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Time Magazine Runs Picture Of Dean Morse

Time magazine honored Dean Wayne L. Morse of the University law school this week when it printed a picture along with several of his quotations. A single column cut of the dean was pictured in the "U. S. at War" section of the magazine.

Quoted on the war labor situation, Dean Morse stated that the function of the War Labor board of which he is a member is simply "to settle all labor cases" and nothing else." He was credited with being the man who "settled the railroad wage dispute," and was named with three other college professors as a member of the board.

"Dean Morse," the magazine said, "like many another board member, found it hard to explain how labor problems could be divorced from the price problem."

Morse, due back to the University in the near future, was appointed to the board last year by President Roosevelt.

Frosh Glee Heads Named

Naval in theme will be the Frosh Glee, to be held April 25; the four officers and two co-chairmen of the freshman class decided in their meeting last week.

Heads of ten committees for the hop were chosen by the class heads. Co-chairmen are Glen Macy and Lorraine Davidson.

Bob Henderson was chosen for the post of promotion chairman; for advertising, Betty Ann Stevens; for publicity, Harry Glikman.

Joyce Wright is in charge of the program committee; Bill O'Malley will head the ticket committee; Hobart Bird and Peggy Wright are in charge of the decorations committee.

Hal Locke is orchestra chairman; Stan Hager, floor chairman; and John Todd heads the cleanup committee.

Bass Dyer will head the entertainment committee; Bonnie Range, patrons.

Louis Felsheim, class treasurer, will manage the finances of the dance in place of the usual finance committee.

"Contact chairmen in the near future to formulate committees," was the advice of the co-chairmen.

Kerr to Talk On Customs Of US Navy

Naval reserve enlistees now on the University campus will be introduced to the traditions and customs of our navy tonight when Commander R. E. Kerr, United States navy, retired, speaks in the faculty room of Friendly hall at 7:15.

Commander Kerr, who is being sponsored by the campus defense committee in accordance with requests from Washington, D. C., will answer questions of the reservists immediately following his talk. All men already enlisted or preparing to enlist and interested faculty members are invited to attend.

"Principal advantage of the talks," commented Dr. Howard R. Taylor, University defense council head, today, "is that it will help the men in the period of observation they must undergo before being sent to the midshipman training schools. These periods last 30 days and it is decided then whether or not the men are fit material for the navy."

Commander Kerr was formerly a member of the ROTC faculty at Northwestern university and now resides in Eugene.

The lecture tonight is the first in a series of two. The second will be presented by Commander Kerr next Thursday night.

Fern Ridge Dam Seen On Geology Field Trip

A geology field trip led by Dr. Lloyd W. Staples visited Fern Ridge dam Sunday. The group studied the structure of the dam, watched a mechanical craze in action, and studied the effects of the dam upon the Long Tom, the stream controlled by the dam.

Seybolt Directs

Directed by Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt, this play promises to be one of the best of the year. The dialogue, even though written in blank verse, is simple, direct, and vivid.

The climax of the play is highly emotional, with a large build-up, and is superbly done by the members of the cast.

Send Books to the Boys In Service

The boys in the camps want books. Bring good books you can spare to the "Co-op." We will wrap and mail them FREE.
