

DEAN MORSE . . .
... prodigal son will return.

Morse Speech Will Conclude Assemblies

Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school will address the final general student assembly, March 5, on the war and labor relations. With the completion of his class work next week the dean will leave again for Washington, D.C., to continue his work with the war labor board.

Latest national recognition given to Dean Morse was in Time magazine for February 23 where his photograph was displayed in the U. S. at War section, referring to him as "the man who settled the railroad wage dispute." This was last December when he was appointed by the president to serve on a special board of inquiry to prevent a threatened nationwide strike.

In his present capacity on the war labor board he has handed down decisions on such vital cases as the Boston Fishery, the Aluminum corporation, and the Los Angeles Street Car cases. At the time of his appointment to the war board Dean Morse was requested to retain his status as west coast labor arbitrator.

An award for distinguished achievement will be given to him by the Pi Kappa Alpha legal fraternity in Portland Saturday evening. He will arrive there Saturday morning on his way home from Washington, and will remain there for the fraternity banquet at which the award will be made.

Dean Morse has been granted a leave of absence from the University spring term.

Applications Asked For Degree Files

All seniors who expect to receive their degrees at the end of this year should be sure that their applications for degree have been filed at the registrar's office.

Every senior should make it his responsibility to get his card on file immediately.

"A complete check of the file of application cards is now being made," said C. L. Constance, assistant registrar.

Second Talk Set for 7:30

Dr. Oscar Broneer will present the second University lecture of the current series at 7:30 tonight in 107 Villard hall, according to Dr. R. H. Ernst, professor of English in charge of the series. Dr. Broneer, one of the country's leading archaeologists, will speak on "Early Art and the History of Greece."

Dr. Broneer has contributed to various magazines, among them being "The American Journal of Archaeology," "Hesperia," and the "Journal of American Scholars." He has also written several books, including "Terracotta Lamps," and "Acrocorinth," of which he was co-author. He also translated from the Greek "Eleusis" by K. Kourouniotes.

"Dr. Broneer is the foremost authority in his field," said Dr. Ernst Wednesday, "and his speech should be of especial interest to the students in the audience."

Dr. Broneer earned his A.B. degree at Augustana college in 1922, and in 1923 earned his A.M. degree at the University of California.

Helen Jepson to Sing For 'Bundles' at Tea

Miss Helen Jepson, singing star of the Metropolitan opera, will lend her voice and her time to the "Bundles for America" movement today at 4:15 as part of a program scheduled for the benefit tea to be held in the Alumni room of Gerlinger hall.

Miss Jepson, long a nationally favorite concert soloist, whose main war interest has been "Bundles for America," gave a concert last night in Corvallis.

While here she will speak in the interest of "bundling" over KORE at 12:30. Miss Jenson sang here several years ago as a featured presentation of the Greater Artist series.

While on the campus Miss Jepson will be the guest of Dr. Robert D. Horn, associate professor of English, and his wife, who drove her to Eugene from the Oregon State town last night.

Oregana Picture Times Revised For Thursday

All of the following group pictures will be taken in front of Chapman hall and not at the Emerald or Oregana offices as previously indicated.

"Pictures will be taken at the time scheduled, so be at least a couple of minutes early if you want to make sure you get your picture in the groups," Wes Sullivan, Oregana managing editor, said Wednesday.

4:00 — Emerald reporters, copy desk workers, and night staff.

4:15 — Oregana business staff.

4:30 — Oregana editorial (writing) staffs and the Oregana office staff.

4:45 — Emerald business staff.

5:00 — Emerald sports staff.

7:00 to 10:30 p.m.—Individual pictures of Emerald editorial and business heads will be taken at the journalism building.

WAA Banquet Program Set

"Alert to Fitness" is the theme of the annual WAA banquet to be held tonight at 6 p.m. at the Anchorage, featuring Dr. R. W. Leighton, speaker.

Also included in the program will be individual and house awards, and installation of newly elected officers.

Another custom will give way to the present emergency when senior girls who have won major awards will be given $8 worth of defense stamps instead of the usual monogrammed blankets.

Eligible Girls

Girls who are eligible for this award are: Anna Bannick, Kathleen Brady, Ethel Dixon, Mildred McCarthy, Marilyn Nelson, Hazel Oldfield, Mildred Thomas, D'Ann Shoemaker, Marilyn Christlieb, and Becky Anderson.
