

Campus Defense . . .

Boushey Wants Fire Wardens

Men who have not yet found their spot in the organized campus defense setup are needed to volunteer as fire watchers. From 75 to 80 persons will be required to supplement the few students who have already offered their services in this capacity, announced Earl E. Boushey, assistant professor of education, last night. Mr. Boushey and Dr. Wayne W. Massey, as co-heads of the fire division under the campus defense council, are supervisors of the group. Fire watchers have as their purpose to watch campus buildings for incendiary bombs during air raids, and to extinguish the burning missiles. They are also to keep immediate fires which might be started by bombs from spreading.

Divisions Made

A specified number of men will be assigned to every major building in each section of the campus, as it has been divided by the defense board. Eight divisions, classified by letters, have been established, making the campus a veritable "city within a city"; and fire watchers' jobs are especially important so that conflagrations, in the event of a raid, will not endanger other parts of Eugene.

Watchers are to be stationed at strategic points for each building—usually one man on the roof and one on the top floor. The number and positions of the men depend upon building structure. The following tabulation lists a section of the campus, the sergeant in charge of fire watchers there, and the number of men each sergeant will need:

- Section A, Greg Decker, 9 men.
- Section B, John MacKenzie, 14 men.
- Section C, Lawrence Thompson, 6 men.
- Section D, Dan Potter, 8 men.
- Section E, Roy Trask, 15 men.
- Section F, Russell Smelser, 13 men.
- Section G, Jake Fidler, 7 men.
- Section H, John Williams, 10 men.

Police Reserve

Procedure which fire watchers will probably go through in the event of a bombing attack is as follows: The man on the roof either sees or hears the bomb, which may fall off the roof. If, however, it goes through the roof, he signals a police reserve stationed outside the building, who will know where the indoor fire watcher is located. The reserve then notifies this person, who will have apparatus with which to extinguish the fire.

Fire fighters stationed in Fenton hall will be notified by telephone or messenger if the blaze spreads. Almost 500 gallon cans for sand have already been contributed by campus living organizations, and 1,000 more are needed, Mr. Boushey said.

Incendiary Bombs

The two supervisors hope to enable those preparing to become fire watchers to actually see incendiary bombs extinguished, through cooperation with the local police department. Practical experience will thus be a feature

Frosh Dance Date Moved

Bass Dyer, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced plans for the selection of the Little Admiral, whose coronation will be one of the highlights of the evening. The Frosh Glee will have a naval theme. Each girls' living organization will submit the picture of one freshman. These will be judged by a committee and narrowed to five candidates. It is hoped that the San Diego naval base will make final selection. Dyer said it might be possible to have a representative of the navy at the dance to take part in the coronation ceremonies.

No Name Band

Nor orchestra has been selected as yet, according to Harry Glickman, publicity chairman. All big name bands have definitely been eliminated from the selection. Glickman said that Woody Hite, whose band proved
