Lana Turner. Except Krupa who is divorced and glad.

There are many records out none of which are good. Father Hines caught Mel Powell's compliment in "The Earl" and copied for his own version on Bluebird. Also the Father, in completing the circle caught Lunceford's "Swingin' on High C", left out the "high" and waxed same, also for Bluebird. Both are bad enough copies and worse imitations. Only good record is James' "Flash" which came out two years ago and the Tri-Delts and Eleanor Beck live.

whose name I am too modest to mention. The Lawrence brothers, Dick and Herb, also did more than their part by batting in the rest of the runs. "Benny the Bum" Benedetti hit for the circuit in the losing Alpha game.

Sigma surprised everyone by pushing Gamma every inch of the way after a first inning three-run explosion by the Gams. Chueher Warren Thompson matched Art Davis, pitch for pitch, but the early margin was too much for him, and Sigma went down to defeat, 5 to 2.

Fielders Boot

the fifth. The entire chucking corps showed their stuff for an inning or so, but all were roundly belted by the inconsiderate Duck sluggers.

Taking up where they left off last year, Dick Whitman banged out the first four-bagger of the season when he lifted one out to deep left center, and Teammate Johnny Bubalo, not to be outdone, whacked out a four-play swat of his own a few minutes later.

Fielding Wobbly

The atrocious fielding was the biggest glare produced with almost every infielder booting at least one.

Monday Hobby stressed fielding to a great extent and with favorable results. Working in the infield were Bubalo and Dick Burns, the left-handed sophomore, at first; Don Kirsch at second; Bob Farrow and Ike Brown at shortstop, and Bill Hamel at third.

Hitting practice was held on the now dirt diamond west of the grandstand yesterday, where Devastating Dick Whitman continued his long-range firing. "Bird Dog," who walked one over the wire fence on Howe field earlier this season, twice squarely caught hold of the horsehide to send it

UO Professors Aid with Book

"The Pacific Northwest" the most recent and complete book on the region, numbered A. L. Lomax and Dr. Warren D. Smith of the University of Oregon among its collaborators. In addition to writing a section of the book Dr. Smith was a member of the publication committee.

Mr. Lomax wrote on business and Dr. Smith wrote on the geography and geology of the region.

The book discusses natural resources, industries, environment, agriculture, population, and other phases of importance.

Otis W. Freeman of the Eastern Washington College of Education and Howard H. Martin of the University were the editorial committee and they with Dr. Smith comprised the publication board.

Issue Gets Favorable Word from Officials

Suggestions on what to do "When Population Mounts," a recent bulletin sent out by the bureau of municipal research, has been received with favorable comment from various city officials, according to the office here. From Chicago Walter Blucher, head of the American Association of Planning Officials, wrote commending the information conveyed.

The bulletin was concerned with what could be done in the way of housing and financing when defense work brought unusual numbers of residents to a city.

Now being sent to city officials, libraries, and leagues is a bulletin centered around a study of comparative tax rates of Oregon cities for the first six months of 1942.

Service Set For Easter

At 7 a.m. Easter morning, students and townspeople will gather for an Easter sunrise service in McArthur court.

Sponsored by the student religious council and the Eugene Ministerial association, the service is a yearly affair and usually very well-attended. This year Professor Gertrude Boyd Crane, of Pacific university, will preach on "Easter in a World of War."

The Eugene high school a cappella choir will present the musical part of the service. Glenn Griffiths will lead in song.

Intercollegiate athletic competition has been abandoned by Bard College.

Trinity college has a history class conducted by a blind instructor.
