Jupe Pluvius Dunks AWS Spring Auction

NOW is the time to get a priority on the ten rain-hats offered on the block today at the AWS auction in front of the Side at 4 p.m., as well as the twenty umbrellas, one reversible, fifty bandanas, etc.—to be all set for the "inclement weather" that caused the postponement of the auction until today, according to Janet Ross, chairman.

Gray skies and intermittent showers, continued today, will cause the auction to be postponed again, but auctioneers Joe Montag and Bunny Potts will be on hand if the sun is out to give their "going-going-gone" spiels, she said.

Three Pipes

Since tobacco hasn't been rationed, and gives no indication of doing so, three pipes are going on the block, as are glasses, pins, one sweater, two pairs of tennis shoes, pens, pencils, looseleaf notebooks, leather binders, and about 15 pairs of gloves, as well as many other incongruous items.

Texts to be offered to the mercies of the crowd are: "English Composition," "Advertising," "Introduction to Physical Education," "Nations of the World," German, French and Spanish books, speech books, economics books, "Index to English," "Short Stories," "Problems in Prose," marketing books, "British Prose and Poetry" books, "Background of Social Science," "Accounting Principles," and "Plane Trigonometry."

King Selects

2 Point Needed

"It will not be necessary for the contestants to see the dean of men, Russell said. "If they know their cumulative is above 2 point, they may turn out; I'll check later."

Frank Lyon was chosen from a group which demonstrated before Russell yesterday afternoon in McArthur court.

Russell was re-elected yell king last Thursday. He first received the office fall term, 1941. Ineligible grades disqualified him for winter term election. Winter term voting was delayed because of a lack of applicants until so late in the term that it became necessary to postpone it until this term.

Prize 'Poets' Compete for Cash Awards

A simple verse of four lines will net $2 for the inspired "poets" who win the Junior Weekend roadside sign contest. Deadline of the contest is next Saturday, April 4.

Betty Jane Biggs, promotion chairman for the Weekend, released a sample verse Tuesday which will indicate the form which the entries should have. The verse:

Hardly a coed
Who was a queen
In '75.

The entries may play up any part of Junior Weekend. Some of the highlights are: "Of Thee I Sing," musical comedy taking the place of the traditional canoe fete; the all-campus luncheon; the Junior Prom; and Weekend personalities. The sample verse will not be accepted.

There will be six $2 prizes given and it is permissible to enter more than one verse and win more than one prize. Entries should be submitted to Miss Biggs at the business office of the Em-

Hey You Dogs! He's Out Again—The Dog Catcher

Living organizations on the campus owning dogs must get licenses for them immediately, according to a warning issued by the Eugene dog control officer yesterday. A great many unlicensed dogs have been running loose on the campus and the Humane Society is starting a drive today to place them in the city pounds.

"If a dog is placed in the pound, his owners must pay a dollar fine as well as feeding expenses," said the control officer.

Dog licenses may be obtained at the city hall and the metal tag should be attached to the dog's collar at all times. Licenses for male dogs are $2.25, and for females, $2.75.

Any unlicensed dog caught on the campus from now on will be placed immediately in the pound and no excuses will be accepted.

The judges will be the main heads of the Weekend committees.

The verses will be arranged or signs which will be placed between Oregon and Friendly next to the street. The first winning verse will be displayed next Monday. The verse will be changed each week until Junior Weekend.
