ASUOVotes for Queen Officers Installed Today

Phi Thetas Pin Pledges

Recently elected members of the executive council will be installed at this morning's assembly by Judge James T. Brand of the Oregon State Supreme court. Also holding the spotlight is the pledging of new members of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary. All sophomore girls are requested to sit near the stage since all second-year girls are eligible. After administering the oath of office, Judge Brand will speak on a subject as yet unannounced. An honor guard composed of 12 senior officers will be present.

Judge Brand has received an honorary degree from the University for distinguished public service. He has spoken on the campus many times, according to Karl W. Onthank, dean of personal administration.

The speaker will be entertained by the law school faculty at a luncheon following the assembly.

Drop Shown In Enrollment

With a 14 per cent drop, University enrollment totalled 2,799 at closing time last Saturday, registrar's statistics show.

Male registration chalked up a one per cent increase last week over the previous week. It is now only 21 per cent below the figures of last year at the same time. There are 1548 men enrolled now.

Juniors Increase

The junior class shows a 24 per cent increase over last year. Other class membership dropped as follows: freshman, 1 per cent; sophomore, 22 per cent; and senior, 30 per cent.

Law and physical education enrollment maintained unchanged percentages of decrease, 25 per cent for the former and 31 per cent for the latter.

Wanna Be a City Editor?

By G. DUNCAN WIMPRESS

Would you like to be a city editor? There is a position open on the Daily Emerald which must be filled in the very near future, according to a statement issued by G. Dunc Wimpress, chief city editor, last night.

"In addition to the city editor job, there are four assistant editorships now open," said Wimpress.

"We will have a meeting of all desk workers at 7:30 in the Journalism building next Thursday night," he continued, "and I hope to see all present and potential desk workers there."

Besides being a requisite for an Emerald certificate, work on the copy desk is excellent practice for the aspiring newspaper writer. Mr. George T. Turnbull and Mr. Charles M. Hulten, professors in journalism, both recommend copy desk work to their students.

"Not having worked on a desk is no reason for staying away from the meeting," Wimpress concluded. "We like to have as many new people as possible down on the desks and we're expecting quite a few new ones at the meeting. It's really not very hard work and all the kids seem to have a lot of fun."

Comely Ruler Picked Today

The "Stars and Stripes" queen of the 1942 Junior Weekend will be selected today at the all-campus assembly to be held at 11 a.m. in McArthur court, Bud Vandeneynde, chairman of the queen's reign committee, emphasized Wednesday.

A change from previous regulations will call for the marking of the name of only one candidate on the ballot instead of five. The other places on the ballot should be disregarded by the voters.

Distribution of ballots has been extended to from 9 to 10:30 a.m. today to meet a large demand. They can be secured at the Co-op.

Judges Ballot

The judges for the contest reviewed the candidates last night and made their choices. Their ballots have been saved uncounted in sealed envelopes under the care of the faculty judges.

Only one ballot will be accepted from each person, Vandeneynde said, and the voters must leave immediately after voting. Just before the assembly time the judges' ballots will be opened and the first eight chosen will be brought to the stage and introduced.

Girls Appointed

Appointed to the Junior Weekend committee Tuesday were Mary-Ellen Smith, junior in social science, as executive secretary; and Patsy Palmer, junior in business administration, as queen's wardrobe mistress.

The junior class party at which the queen was to have been introduced tonight has been postponed until Tuesday. The weekly meeting time for the Junior

VAUGHN CORLEY . . . to coach or not to coach.

New Mentor Offered Rank in Navy

University Athletic officials may have to consult their lists of potential head football coaches for the second time in a week if Vaughn Corley decides to have a part in the navy's new physical fitness program, it was reported today.

Appointed head UO football coach at a meeting of the athletic board Monday night, Corley has received orders to become a lieutenant junior grade in the naval reserve. An announcement said to have come from the 13th naval district office said yesterday that Corley will go to Seattle, Monday, April 20, to be sworn in as a lieutenant, junior grade, and leave for Annapolis for training.

When contacted last night by the Emerald, however, Corley declined to say what action he would take until he had a conference with Webfoot officials.

It was understood that the naval appointment was optional and that Corley's previous commitment to the University may automatically cancel the naval appointment. Having applied for the position several weeks ago, his place upon acceptance would be in the navy's new physical fitness program.

Corley is the successor of "Tex" Oliver, who left as head football coach of the Ducks to become a lieutenant commander in the United States naval forces.

Time Cards Due

NYA time cards are due in the pay roll office, Johnson hall by 12 noon today, April 16, according to word from the NYA office.

The "Hop" will be held at each of these organizations Wednesday, April 22, from 6 to 9 o'clock and will be an informal affair.

Proceeds go into the AWS treasury, a part of which is donated each year to scholarships for deserving University women.

The advertising committee, under Marilyn Campbell, is making signs which will be placed in the Side, the Co-op, and other buildings on and near the campus.

Time Goes on--Infirmary Stops

Never let it be said that nursing is all drudgery and toil. Even the gauze girls have their fun, as was witnessed at a recent birthday party held by the infirmary staff honoring Miss Lou Vogel and Miss Gladys Samel. While their patients upstairs ants met in the big dining room were eating their dinners, the six for the birthday party—replete nurses and seven student assistants with frosting names on a birthday cake, and gifts.

Oregana Jobs Filled Today

Wes Sullivan, editor of the Oregana, will be in his office in McArthur court this afternoon from 1 to 4:30 to receive applicants for staff positions on the new yearbook.

Posts for which aspirants will be interviewed include: two associate editors, managing editor, four division heads for activities, schools, men's and women's departments; executive secretary; promotion director, sports editor, and two assistant managing editors.

Photo Staff

Students with professional photography equipment and previous experience are eligible for positions on the photography staff.

"The photography staff will be as large as the number of competent photographers I can find," said Sullivan. These members will work with University photographer J. Warren Teeter under a new system that will enable houses to get better pictorial coverage of events by notifying the staff previous to the occasion.

Emerald Editor Petitions Due

Petitions for the position of Emerald editor are due in the educational activities office this Friday, April 17. Applicants will go before the board Thursday, April 23.

Petitions for business managers of both the Emerald and Oregana are due Friday, April 24. They will be interviewed Thursday, April 29.

UO to Distribute War Information

By PEGGY OVERLAND

The University has been chosen as one of a total of 140 war information centers throughout the United States, according to an announcement from the federal office of education. The University will serve as the center for the entire state of Oregon, according to the report.

These centers have been set up throughout the nation on the basis of about one to every million population. As the Oregon center, the University will receive all publications dealing with civilian defense, civilian morale and other material pertaining to the war effort, and will make them available to all persons and organizations in the state, according to Howard R. Taylor, chairman of the University defense council.

Taylor also announced that

Dr. Hugh B. Wood, professor of education at the University, has been made chairman of the war information service. Already a number of defense publications have been received at the University library where they are on display for all students to see. These and others received from time to time will be catalogued, and bibliographies compiled for use of state agencies.
