

Real, Mock Queens Start Reign

'Vivacious Ellie' Just Marvels

By "BOB" YOUNGER
Lovely, vivacious Ellie Engdahl, Junior Weekend queen, squinted into the klieg lamps at the news bureau and marveled. "It's really hard to realize. It's something that just doesn't happen."

Ellie sent a telegram to her parents in Pendleton, "but," she said, "they probably won't believe it."
The gracious queen appeared rather nervous as she sat on the improvised throne which was a photographer's chair. I've never been a queen before," she exclaimed, "and I'm still doing things kind of jerkily."

Activity Girl
This year's junior class should be proud to know that their queen is not only a campus beauty, but is also prominent in campus activities. She is a member of both Kwama and Phi Theta, has worked on both the Emerald and Oregon, and she is president of Gamma Phi Beta.

Her hair can be best described as being the color of maple leaves in the fall with sunlight on them. Her ever-smiling eyes are the same color as those of Margaret Mitchell's southern heroine.

Ellie likes "rather sportish clothes," as could be seen by the sky-blue sweater and brown skirt she was wearing.

Her Majesty is an art major and would like to do some writing and illustrating after she finishes college.

That her escort for the Junior Prom had already been picked was evidenced by the Fiji pin she wore next to her Gamma Phi pin.

Law School 'Beauty' Makes Hearts Heavy

Many masculine hearts are heavy around the law school today. Many handsome faces are long with disappointment—poor candidates.

But joy is rampant in the soul of Irvin Mann, Jr., hence to be known as Queen Irvina I, for Thursday morning he was officially elected by a landslide vote to the queenship of the law school weekend.

Onlookers described his expression upon being elected as one of "delight and startled agony." "I'm so excited," he said, "I hardly know what to say. This election has made me realize just how much I would like to serve my country right away—in fact, before Junior Weekend."

Sharing the glory of the law school weekend, April 25 (plug), with Queen Irvina will be his princesses, Ed "Clever Clarence" Luckey, and Cecil Wright.

"Clever Clarence" graciously said that "our ponderous and pompous queen will reign superbly. He is the loveliest queen the law school has ever had."

Princess "Cecilia" was not so gracious. He disgruntledly said, "I'm a defeated candidate," Irvin campaigned two weeks before the campaign."

Water Warmers

The traditional offices of water warmers for the royal court are to be filled by John Lewis Luvaas and Bob Hoagy Carmichael. Duties of the water warmers this year are still a bit vague due to the insipid condition of the mill race, lawyers commented.

The important office of royal barber will this year be filled by Jeanette Hafner. Barber Hafner's duty will be to cut the royal tresses before the coronation ceremonies and grand parade.

Qualifications

Budding barristers declared that they wished it understood that the queen was not elected without due consideration of her charming attributes. Ed Luckey, making the nomination, pointed out his—er her—the queen's, outstanding qualities of coyness, superb figure, chastity, sobriety, and beautiful white teeth.

Queen Irvina's reign, according to his—er her—the royal subjects, promises to be one of great dignity, grace and benevolence.

Final comment was, "Our queen, without doubt, shows the greatest propensities of any queen, junior weekend or otherwise, since Queen Elizabeth of England. You can practically see the blue blood running through her veins."

Moms to See UO Dancers

Members of the master dance group will perform during Mothers' Day, held in conjunction with Junior Weekend, according to Earle Russell, chairman of the mothers' celebration. There will be two recitals, one from 8 to 9 p.m. Thursday, which will be for students and faculty, and one at the same hours Friday for the mothers.

The recital has been planned to be before the Junior Prom so that mothers can sit in a special session after they leave the affair. The dances will be shown down stairs in Gerlinger hall. There is no admission price.

All of the dances are "Variations on a Yankee Theme." They include Tom Harding, "Open Road"; Merlin Dow, "Rodeo"; Bob Forsythe, "Comics"; Elsie Older, "Rah, Rah," and Barbara Scott, "Small Fry."

Hudson Gets SDX Chair

Russ Hudson, junior in journalism, was elected 1943 head of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, at the regular meeting Thursday. Hudson has been elected senior representative of the executive council and was head of Homecoming Weekend last fall term.

Other officers named are Jeff Kitchen, vice-president, and Don Butzin, treasurer. Stan Weber was elected secretary at a previous meeting. Appointed as promotion chairman was Herb Penny.

At the meeting Chi Phi fraternity at Kent State, Ohio, was approved by the Oregon chapter to enter the national organization of Sigma Delta Chi.

President Homer P. Rainey of the University of Texas is touring cancer hospitals of the east and midwest to obtain information for a cancer research project.

598 Pictures Arrive Here

History repeats itself—and this time it's in pictures. Part of the Angelus studio collection of historic photographs, 598 pictures selected from a possible 10,000, is now being unpacked at the University library. The library has been authorized by Dr. Dan E. Clark, head of the history department, to keep and display the photographs.

The photographs are affiliated with the Oregon historical records survey, which the University is sponsoring. Dr. Clark is the sponsor's representative on research and educational procedure.

This portion of the collection includes pictures on agriculture, amusements, bridges, buildings, cities, domestic articles and implements, Indians, industry, memorials, naval vessels, persons, scenes, and transportation, all in Oregon. Some of the photographs will be first displayed on Library day (May 2 and 3), after which they will be placed in vertical file cases for public inspection.

Queen, Court Judge Eugene Baby Show

Junior Weekend Queen, Eleanor Engdahl, and her court of four princesses were judges Friday at a Eugene baby show sponsored by the Women's Benefit association of Eugene and the J. C. Penney stores. There were 400 babies entered in contest, all under 5 years old.

More than 500 Eugene women were present. Judgment was made on the basis of hair, eyes, complexion, and figure.

A handbook, including layouts, type styles, techniques of production, a list of deadlines and staff duties, and a style sheet is being compiled by the editor for use by his staff.

"We hope to have all pictures and copy from this term in by June and have that part of the book ready for printing by the end of the summer," said the editor, hopefully.

"Any house or organization that has an event they want pictorialized in the Oregonian can call us a few days ahead of time, so we can send a photographer over," said Sullivan. This, he explained, will be one duty of the new photography staff.

Victim Saunters In, Bag in Hand

Population is decreasing at the Pill Palace. The only new member to the roster is Tyke Flynn, who sauntered in, bag in hand, sometime Friday afternoon, to calmly announce to weary nurses that she was another victim.

Capt. E. R. Fendall Reported on Bataan

Captain E. R. Fendall, graduate of the University of 1938, is on Bataan peninsula in company with his friend Captain Joseph Saltee, it was announced recently.

Fendall who graduated from the school of business administration, also attended Oregon State. On the campus here, he was active in military affairs and was a member of Scabbard and Blade. He also belonged to Beta Gamma Sigma, business honorary and Alpha Kappa Psi.

Fendall gained his permanent commission as second lieutenant in 1939 and has since been promoted to the rank of captain. For the past two years he has been on active duty in the Hawaiian islands, according to information received from his mother, who lives in Eugene.

AAUW Informal Set

Speaking on "Vocations for Women," at an informal AAUW meeting at Gerlinger Monday, April 20, at 8 p.m., Dean Hazel P. Schwering will talk on opportunities and possibilities for women in the present war crisis.

Senior women, heads of houses, and graduate women are invited to attend.

The Eugene gleemen will sing "O Winds of Strength," one of the choruses of "The New Earth."

According to Dean Kratt, rehearsals "have been good" and students may expect a program of musical art. Admission to students is free. No seats will be reserved.

WSSF Mails $302.19 East

Final arrangements for the 1942 World Student Service fund were completed this week when Elizabeth Edmunds, co-chairman of the drive at Oregon mailed a check to the national headquarters of the fund for $302.19. Heading the drive with Miss Edmunds was Bud Vandeneynde, now chairman of the queen's reign committee of Junior Weekend.

Helping materially in the drive this year was the offering made during the Easter sunrise service which contributed to the fund $39.71. Also aiding was Phi Theta, junior women's service honorary, under the chairmanship of Anita Simmons, which carried on a second drive on the campus.
