'Sing' Tickets On Sale Today

Tickets for the all-campus sing of Saturday, April 25, go on sale today at 9 a.m. They will be sold at the ticket booth between Oregon and Commerce from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday for 15 cents, Bob McKinney, sing chairman, said Monday.

Participants are not required to purchase tickets.

Nancy Riesch Heads Lunch

Nancy Riesch, junior in business administration, was appointed Monday by Ray Packouz, chairman of Mothers' Day, to the chairmanship of the luncheon for the mothers. The annual celebration is held in conjunction with Junior Weekend.

Faculty chairman for the dinner will be Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories. As members of her committee Miss Riesch has named Sue Sawyer, decorations; Peggy Wright, programs, and Virginia Wells, hostess.

The luncheon will be held Saturday, May 9, at 12:15 p.m., in John Straub Memorial hall. Mrs. Turnipseed has prepared menus for a 75 cent luncheon. Approximately 500 people are expected.

In each hall the sponsor and officers will act as hosts and will see that places are provided for wraps. Mrs. A. E. Caswell and Dean Karl Onthank will arrange for the seating. Mary Bentley, chairman of the social affairs committee, will be in charge of the placecards for the luncheon.

There will be a song leaders' meeting at 7 o'clock today, in the College Side. "It is imperative that all song leaders be present," McKinney emphasized, "for final detailed plans will be made."

A suggestion for postponement of the sing until next fall, considered Monday because of the press of social activities, was overruled by joint accord of committee members and the various houses.

There are 18 women's and 15 men's houses preparing for participation, leaving approximately one-third of the University student body to compose the audience.

Concert style plans are still being formulated by the committee composed of: Bob McKinney, chairman; Janet Farnham, Stan Weber, Bob Ballard, Bunny Potts, and Marjorie Major.

Mid-Terms

When I find those mid-terms coming,

I make sure I know my oats,
I memorize my formulas,
And passages and quotes,
And when the darn thing's over,
And the prof above me gloats,
I resolve that in the future
I'll take more extensive notes.

Last Bugle Blows Today For V-7 Men

Last call for V-7 enlistments will be made this afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock in McArthur court.

A special examining board, headed by Lt. Comm. J. G. Thwing, from the thirteenth naval district headquarters in Seattle will be on the campus today only, according to information received Monday from the president's office.

This will be one of the last opportunities to sign up for this program. Enlistments close May 1.

In order to be eligible for the V-7 classification, which leads to a commission as deck officer in the Navy, students must be in their junior or senior year in college and have at least 93 term-hours of credit.

After May 1, students may only enlist in the V-1 program. Only those 19 or under are eligible for classification V-1.

Junior Party Called Off

The junior class party, scheduled for today, has been postponed until next Tuesday, Earle Russell, chairman of the party, announced today. At the party the Junior Weekend Queen, Eleanor Engdahl, will first be formally introduced.

Monday Miss Engdahl met Governor Charles A. Sprague, who was in Eugene to attend a Kiwanis meeting.

Board Hears Atherton On Athletics

With their first and second choices for Oregon's 1942-43 football catch already wearing navy blue, the University athletic board last night announced the expected appointment of Freshman Football Coach John Warren to the number one spot on the gridiron coaching staff next year.

Immediately following the meeting, Mr. Warren announced that he plans to accept the proffered position. Although he, too, applied at the same time as Oliver and Corley for a navy commission, he does not expect to be accepted, Warren indicated.

Atherton

As a preface to organizing a new coaching staff, the board heard Edwin Atherton, Pacific coast conference commissioner, speak enthusiastically on the future of college athletics during the war years ahead. He spoke confidently of the importance of the competitive athletics in building up the nation's physical strength.

"Americans are not suited to arm-moving calisthenics," he declared, "and it has been proven by the Army and Navy trainers that men really develop better in this country when the element of competition enters in." On this basis, he considers the coast conference plans for business as usual "for the duration" a patriotic step as well as important to the individual schools.

Preparation of a greatly reduced expense and income budget for next year was discussed by the board.

Hop Comes Tomorrow

"Nickel Hop night," Wednesday, April 22, is drawing closer and coeds are looking over their record collections and brushing up on their "lines" for the AWS sponsored event.

House representatives met at the Side yesterday to receive the traditional shoeboxes in which to put proceeds, and to be instructed as to their duties, which include taking charge of the music, blinking the lights at the end of each 15-minute dancing period, and handling the money.

Formerly Annually

In the past, the Nickel Hop has been put on once a year, usually during winter term, and the winning house has received a silver loving cup, with its name engraved, which remained in its possession until the following year.

With the new system, there will be two "Hops," winter and spring terms, the prize for the first being the silver cup, while spring term winners will receive a $5 record order.

House Heads Ban Deserts

Cancellation of all spring term exchange desserts has been ordered by the heads of houses, it was revealed Monday evening by Nelda Christensen, president of the group.

Rises in food prices were given as one reason for the cancellation.

"It seemed a logical way to cut down expenses," Miss Christensen said, "and by doing that we can save time and money for national defense. We keep saying that we are going to do something for the war effort and I think it's time we started. We want to start with the first thing first, and this is the first thing we can cut."

Dean Suggests

Suggestion for the action was made by Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, and a unanimous vote was made in favor of cancellation. The new ruling will affect all desserts, even those previously scheduled, with two exceptions. The Highland house preference dessert set for Tuesday evening, and the Hilyard-Canard dessert will not be affected.

Men seemed less perturbed by the new ruling than women. Dave Holmes, social chairman of Phi Delta Theta, said he believed cancellation would cut down expenses, and that "all the men and girls who need to get acquainted have done it fall and winter terms, so spring term desserts aren't really necessary anyway."

Picnics are Better

Keith Claycomb, Campbell club, said he thought it would be swell for the freshmen if they still had desserts, but that with

Manager Bids Due

Petitions for the position of manager for both the Oregon and Emerald, are due in the educational activities office Friday April 24. Applications for head usher and the coat check concession may also be turned in at the office. Petitions for editor and business manager of the student directory will be due at the same time.

Priorities Clamp Down on Campus As Paper Shortages Hit Exams

Photographic Paper Feels War Effects

By ELIZABETH ARMSTRONG

A paper shortage isn't such a bad idea when the exams that may not be given are considered but in many other ways students will feel the shortage, and the final curtailment of paper. The first and most vital effect, especially with spring term well on its way, is the allotment of photographic paper soon to be made to retailers.

Even toothpaste has its niche in the priorities roll call. Tin tubes are needed for future reference. OPM demands that for every two products manufactured and sold in tubes, one must be returned.

Photographic films, produced with many chemicals, will not only go on the priorities list, but
