MILDRED WILSON CO-EDITORS CORRINE NELSON

Clothes Men Like...

By JEAN FRIDEGER

Whether it's a picnic bid for Sunday at Fiji Meadows or a Junior Prom offer you'll want to dress to make him wake up and take notice. Here are a few of the specials those scarce males go for.

Tailored dresses with big floral prints against plain colored backgrounds. The fellows like prints that have just a few colors that do something for you. None of the multi-colored deals that make you look like a florist shop on legs.

They say plain-shoes with emphasis on good lines are the thing. No heelless sandals for campus—remember. His dreams will come true when he sees you in a trimy navy with white, yes, a huge white collar. For them what knits—a new version of the cable sweater is what He will need. They like girls that have taken the initial step. If it's smart—it's monogrammed. This year's college wardrobe looks like a con of alphabet soup. Like a neat solution to the borrowing problem.

These 100 per cent wool check-mate slacks and jacket suits are tailored to perfection. Men like 'em double breasted and cut to hang straight from the shoulders. Scarlet woolen suits get their vote any election day. Nailheaded platforms in dancin' platforms get the nod. Split personality in tailored woolen skirts are approved for bowling.

Two-piece cotton suits look neat to men. Remember your colored dickey for a fast pickup. Wrinkle-proof rayon jerseys are a season's favorite. At first the boy friend will say your glazed chintz play dress looks like a table cloth, but he'll get used to it. Get something in white jersey. They go for that. The short fellows vote for nailhead wedges for dances. A flower muff for proms is a new one and will carry an extra lipstick. Try a few of these suggestions, look dashing and raise public morale.

House Heads Pare Campus Social Events

Dere Diary: This week the last slice was taken from the social calendar when heads of houses said "thumbs down" on preference and a exchange of desserts, leaving us a couple of campus dances and the usual house dances. The popular picnic term is emphasizing rushing and extra weekend activities are being planned by the Greeks to be climaxed Saturday evening with the all-campus sing.

Frosh Glee is the popular weekend date with its three big attractions—Jan King's Seattle orchestra, pledging of 20 freshman activity men to Skull and Dagger.

Five houses are having dances Saturday evening and the law school has scheduled a picnic on its already crowded social calendar for spring term.

Formals are being given by Sigma Kappa with Quintet from Hunger playing; Sigma Nu, Art Holman's band, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Beacher's theme is being presented by Phi Sigma Kappa.

Delta Delta Delta "Priorities of 1942" is a short silks radio dance.

Irвина 1 Expresses Male Wail

Living in the blissful state of marriage for three years now seems to have had very little effect upon the opinions of women held by Irvin Mann, charming and gracious queen of the law school junior weekend. For Queen Irвина I, although perfectly satisfied with his won spouse, still feels that most women have never found out what they are living for.

"Most of them can't even toast a sandwich," he groaned. (Seems to indicate that Irвина goes for the domestic type.)

Lovely Court

Surrounded by his court of three lovely lads, the queen nervously reached for a cigar before exploding. "All college women are frivolous no matter where you find them. They gauge their success on their dates and how many times they will be taken to the College Side for a coke. They have a false sense of values. Most of them come to college directly from high school and they are not mature enough to live an adult existence.

"I do think, however, that college women have the edge on other women after graduation in that they learn how to carry on an intelligent conversation. I also think that women in business could be as capable as men, but they do not have the native ability."

Depends on Heart

His queen for any weekend is "real and sincere." If she possesses these characteristics she will naturally be intelligent and attractive.

"I have no suggestions for her improvement," he grinned mischievously—and not at all in a regal manner—"because she can't do a thing about it. She is a victim of circumstance."

Observation: Whether married or single all men profess either a glowing resentment, a burning disgust or a raging compulsion
