Oregana Staff Meets Tonight

Major Oregana staff appointments will be announced tonight by the editor of the 1943 book, Wes Sullivan, at the annual Oregana banquet at 6:15 at McCrady's cafe. Workers on this year's publication who have been invited will eat "on the house."

After two years as the "dictator" of the University's annual, Wilbur Bishop will take part in his last campus function before leaving for flight training. This will be the final appearance of Emerson Page as business manager of the book. No invitation cards are necessary for admittance to the banquet, although only those who have been invited will be present.

New Book

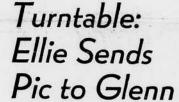

Featured in the evening's program will be the display of "The World's Largest College Yearbook." This will be the first public showing of the 1942 Oregana, which is scheduled for campus distribution on May 8.

Next year's managing editor, associate editor, nine division editors and co-editors, executive secretary, art editor, promotion editor, and assistant managing editor will be named.

Certificates

Oregana certificate awards for outstanding members of the staff this year will be presented.

Maxine Tripp from the editorial staff and Bette Workman from the business staff are cochairmen for the banquet. Bob Whitely is in charge of the pro-

It's not unusual for orchestra leaders to receive requests for autographed pictures, but the customary procedure was reversed recently when Glen Miller, who will serenade Oregon's Junior Weekend on his May 6 program, received an autographed picture of Queen Ellie Engdahl and the royal court.

Miller's entire program, which will be heard at 6 p.m. PWT over KOIN, KSL, or any other CBS station, will be dedicated to the "Of Thee I Sing" weekend. He may play "Of Thee We Sing, Ellie," written in honor of Queen Ellie I. The song was sent to Miller with the suggestion that he might use it on his broadcast.

"Of Thee We Sing, Ellie" will be sung by the Alpha O trio at the junior class party Tuesday. Words to the song are by J. Wesley Sullivan, newly appointed Oregana editor.

Worth announced last night Don't Ya Worry; that the class of '44 had made no provision to cause its constitution ficers elected Monday afternoon. According to Barry Campbell, threw themselves under cover, and tore wildly across the campus in flight from the "Japs," yesterday afternoon when the air minutes of the Monday meeting. Early Settlement '

any time during the year.

The constitutions which were Sophomores Are Still Sans Class Officers still leaves the class of '44 without officers for next year. The

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1942

Business School

Oregon State Gets

still laves the class of '44 without officers for next year. The matter will be brought before the judiciary committee on Thursday or Friday, according to Steve Worth, first vice-president of the ASUO and director of elections.

Air Raid Alarm to be retroactive to April 7, date of the class nominating assemblies, and therefore raised a ques-Just a Practice tion as to the legality of the of-

sophomore class president, there was no motion made at the meeting to provide for the nomina-

Juniors O. K.

The junior class meeting apparently came out all right, the quorum present having passed a motion making their constitution apply to the nominations made April 7. New officers for the class of '43 are Ray Packouz, president; Nancy Lewis, vice-president; Lois Bechdoldt, secretary; and Clarence Terry, treasurer. Pat Cloud, junior class president, assured last night that the retroactive motion had been included in the Worth said last night that he would contact Orlando J. Hollis, acting dean of the law school and chairman of the judiciary committee, to arrange for an early settlement of the issue. Worth said he would have the matter reviewed in order to guarantee the incoming sophomore officers a term of office without the danger of being declared ineligible at brought up Monday were based on a model constitution drawn up in the past by Phil Lowry. It has served as a model many

State Board Grants Major Priviledge

Oregon State College was finally granted the right to give major work leading to "appropriate degrees" in business administration this week, something for which they have been fightingever since the University was given the right to confer science. major degrees.

The state board of higher education consented to this move Tuesday, concluding a long controversy over proposed restoration of the old school of commerce lost in the 1932 reorgania

Formal Action

In the formal action which was proposed by the curricula committee and passed unanimously, the board avoided the use of the word commerce and left all details of "courses, organization, and administration" to be worked out later. F. A. Gilfillan, acting president of the board, accepted the action, however, as essentially what had been sought by the college and pledged the institution to fulfill the "opportunity, and obligation" it afforded.

However, President Willard (Please turn to page eight)

I Love You Truly . . .

To all those students who raid warning was blown, it was

Some mechanic or helper tried

the bell to see if it would work, and forgot to tell anyone, so don't be alarmed that there was any attempt at an air raid. Although it didn't help much yesterday to know the signals, since the warning signal was blown, it is still best to know that the short blasts are a warning and the long, full one is the all clear.

just "another" test.

Cupid Chosen to Manage Wintergreen Campaign

With Cupid as a collective campaign manager, Junior Weekend heads are plotting a motorized parade rally Friday. May 1, to start the campus-wide campaign to elect Wintergreen for president.

With love as a platform, candidates will swing out toward: a White House victory with the help of the "Of Thee I Sing" chorus. The rally will last from 6:30 to 7:30, and speeches and music will pour forth at four different spots on the campus, undecided as yet.

-Photo by Kennell-Ellis

Badges proclaiming Wintergreen allegiance were issued to all houses last night. These badges, reading "Wintergreen for President," should be worn by ardent party members on Wednesdays, Mondays and Fridays until Junior Weekend, May 9.

The whole campaign is a buildup for a campus election for Wintergreen, campaign managers will be announced later, according to Pat Cloud, president of the junior

> (See photo column 4) BUD WIMBERLY . . .

. . . who escorted Queen Ellie Engdahl at last night's Junior party in his official capacity as her prime minister. He will attend her at all social functions during the Junior Weekend festivities.

The annual meeting of the Co-op board to which all University students are invited, was held yesterday in Chapman hall with president of the board, Bob

WILBUR BISHOP . .

. . . farewell to an All-American.

Independents

Meet Tonight

political aspirations will have their last chance to let their wants and wishes be known when the mass meeting of the ISA

takes place tonight at 7 o'clock in the lecture room of Villard

At the meeting, which will be a short one, according to Gerry

Huestis, president of the organization, those nominated will be presented to give independents

an opportunity to see the candi-

Petitions

have a petition with fifty signa-

times on it before they will be eligible for candidacy. These petitions do not need to be handed to any ISA officer before the meeting, but the candidates must have such a petition either in their own possession or filed with an ISA officer at the time they representative from the sopho-

(Please turn to page eight)

And think t'would be hypocrisy,

If they should say their actions

Have a semblance to democracy.

Two members at large and a

are nominated.

I'm Disgusted

I read of class activities

Each person nominated must

Lovell presiding. Nominations for new members of the board were made. Those elected to fill the office of sophomore representative were Roy Seeborg, Harry Glickman, Glenn Macy, and Don Stephens. To fill the junior position those nominated were Merritt Kufferman, Dorothy Routt, Ulric Dorais, Leonard Barde, Jim Thayer, Og Young, and Yvonne Torgler.

One Soph

From those nominated for the sophomore position one will be elected to serve for one year. From the junior nominations two will be elected to serve for two years.

Five students and two faculty membeers serve on the Co-op board every year. Two members of the board are always seniors who served the previous year. This year the two experienced members will be Bud Vandeneynde and Les Anderson. Faculty members on the boards are Orlando Hollis, professor of law, and Dean J. H. Gilbert of the college of social science.

Elections

Elections for officers will take place between 9 and 5 next Tuesday, May 5, on the terrace of the Co-op store if the weather is good. In case of bad weather the elections will be moved inside.

Mr. M. F. McClain, manager of the Co-op store gave a report on the Co-op store and presented a graph showing the business of the student store during the business year from July 1, 1940 to June 30, 1941. Total sales for that year were $98,597.77, according to Mr. Mc-Clain. Student salaries paid by the Co-op amounted to $4,422.89, $8000 was spent for second hand books purchased from students and $1,750 was handed back to students in the form of cash rebate on cash register receipts were the approximate figures the store manager presented as part of his report. This year the Co-op expects to give students $2,500 in the form of rebate on cash register receipts at the rate of 5 per cent.