

—Photo by Wes Sullivan
HELEN JOHNSON AND ROY NELSON ...

... associate editor and managing editor of the '43 Oregana.

All-American ...

Sullivan Names Oregana Staff

Roy Nelson, freshman in journalism, was named managing editor of the 1943 Oregana, and Helen Johnson, sophomore in physical education, was named associate editor at the annual yearbook banquet last night at McCrady's cafe. Wes Sullivan, newly-elected editor, made the appointments.

Nelson, assistant managing editor of this year's book, will be in charge of photography and mounting. Miss Johnson, who served as women's editor this year, will have charge of copy and captions for the annual next year.

Future Flyers Meet Tonight

Clarifying the new army air corps program which will enable college men to pledge service to Uncle Sam and still finish their education, Lt. Col. William A. Matheny, of the army air corps, will address a mass meeting of interested students this evening in 203 Villard hall at 7:30.

All men between the ages of 18 and 26 may enlist in the program, no matter what their university class, it was emphasized by Lt. R. C. Ingalls, public relations officer, who is preparing the program for Lt. Col. Matheny's Thursday stay.

Speaking to ROTC students at 1:10 Thursday afternoon, Col. Matheny will be accompanied by Lt. C. H. Brainard, recently graduated air cadet; Lt. James A. Carvin, and Lt. R. C. Ingalls.

Following his short speech this evening Lt. Col. Matheny will show two reels of sound films depicting the life of an air cadet at the training base. Also on the movie program is a picture, "Wings of Steel."

Answers to personal problems will be given by the staff of visiting officers and applications for army air corps training will be given to those desiring them at the meeting.

Public Relations Officer Ingalls urged all men even slightly interested in the flying aspect of the service to come and hear full particulars on the new army plan.

(Please turn to page eight)

Sour Grapes

OSC has got BA
The evening papers drool.
Now we'll have to start a clamor
for
An engineering school.

—J.W.S.

Ban on Desserts Faces IFC Action

Miss Biggs, Kitchen Get 'Money' Jobs

Betty Jane Biggs, Emerald advertising manager, and Jeff Kitchen, assistant educational activities manager, were appointed business managers of the Emerald and Oregana, respectively, at a meeting of the educational activities board Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Biggs, a junior in journalism, has been active on the Emerald since her freshman days, and at the present time writes a weekly column for the Yuba City Herald, a California paper owned and edited by her father. Last year's Betty Coed, she is this year's promotion manager for Junior Weekend.

Kitchen

Kitchen, a junior in political science, is a charter member of Druids, junior men's honorary.

Miss Biggs will succeed Fred O. May, senior in journalism, to the Emerald position. Kitchen will take over the Oregana duties from Emerson Page, senior in business administration.

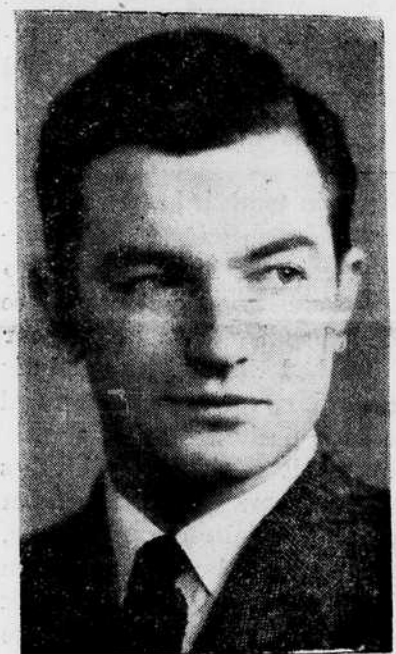

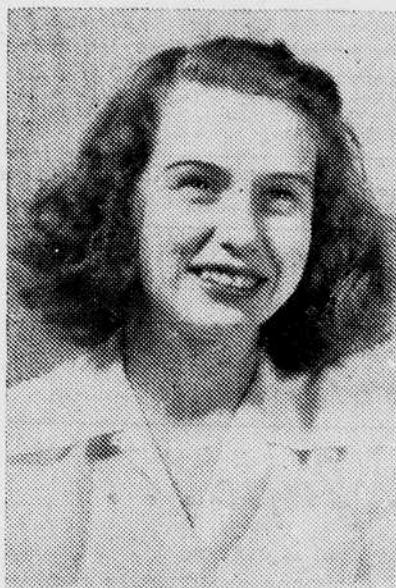

Two other students were interviewed by the board for the Oregana position. Jim Prior, freshman in business administration, Edith Newton, freshman in journalism and Emerald reporter, both applied. Miss Biggs was unopposed for the Emerald job.

Board Men

Members of the educational activities board, who interviewed applicants, presided over by Dr. Donald M. Erb, University president, in the absence of the regular chairman, Dr. Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary and registrar, were:

Faculty representatives — Dr. Dan E. Clark, head of the history department; C. G. Howard, professor of law; Dr. Theodore Kratt, dean of the school of music; J. O. Lindstrom, business manager of the University; Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration;

(Please turn to page eight)

BETTY JANE BIGGS,
JEFF KITCHEN ...

... new business managers for the Emerald and Oregana, respectively.

(Photo by Kennell-Ellis)

Orides, Yeomen Dance

Orides and Yeomen will dance Saturday night at their spring informal, Hayfever Hop, from 8:30 to 11:30, in the master dance room in Gerlinger hall. This dance is being planned to take the place of the usual print-and-cord dance sponsored by the independent organizations.

Frank Herman and Edith Newton are chairmen of the affair.

Men Still May Schedule Exchanges

By MARJORIE YOUNG

Unless the interfraternity council follows the lead of heads of houses and votes to ban exchange desserts from the campus, the recently enacted ruling by the women will not accomplish its major purpose, that of saving time and energies for national defense, an Emerald investigation revealed last night.

According to word from the dean of women's office, it is still permissible for men's houses to schedule desserts and to invite members of women's living organizations to attend.

IFC Meet

A meeting of the IFC today, will discuss the matter and take action on it, according to Porky Andrews, this year's president of the council.

Whether or not the men decide to abolish desserts, one of the purposes of the heads of houses action will be accomplished, that of saving money for the women's organizations, Nelda Christenson, president of this group, said.

Schwering Confirms

Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, said that "it was true" that the men's houses could hold desserts, but that "the girls couldn't very well go to them," because it would be going against a ruling made by their own representatives. According to Mrs. Schwering, several houses have decided to replace desserts with firesides during the weekends, thus relieving congestion during the week.

Closed Weekends

Since closed weekends begin in two weeks, all campus pigging, including desserts and firesides, must of a necessity be concluded for this term, a report from the dean of women's office stated today. Piggers must forfeit dates and begin cramming starting May 11.

UO Birdmen Pass First Jump

Passing all sections of the government secondary ground school final 100 per cent, 19 students made an "exceptionally good record," according to J. H. Vaughn, district ground school inspector, who administered the final Wednesday afternoon.

Adding this to the score of primary students, who were tested last Friday and where only two students missed one section of a four part final, Vaughn said local men had earned top score for this CPT civilian pilot training district.

He especially commended ground school instructors Ben Wohler and Orville Vardy for their work in instructing the students. "Considering this is the first program they have taught, the results are extraordinary," he complimented.

Both primary and secondary students will begin actual flying in Klamath Falls the end of this week, according to James C. Stovall, CPT coordinator. Primary students have been leaving all week and a mass exodus of secondary students is expected today and Friday.

Trainees will live in a community arrangement, all being quartered in one huge building which was part of a recent fair exhibit. Cots will be placed at one end of the hall with study tables and dining facilities at the other.

Louis Soukup, flight operator, will pay for food and lodging for the embryo pilots and has arranged for a station wagon to transport them to and from the Klamath Falls airport.

Primary students will receive training in Cub planes and secondary men will be instructed in one-year-old Fairchild monoplane, M5-B and a Waco biplane. Flight instruction will be completed by July 1.

Coordinator Stovall again commended all flying students for their continued interest in the course despite the disadvantage of being unable to fly while studying ground school.

Sing Ticket Sale

Tickets for "Of Thee I Sing," will go on sale today at 8 a.m. in the educational activities office. Heads of all campus living organizations should make sure that the signs for the Winter-green rally are ready by 6 p.m. Friday. See story page 8.

(Please turn to page eight)