

Irvina Buds, Blooms, Fades

From the first hesitant appearance of their frail, coy queen, Irvina I Man, till the last feverish group song of the picnic, law-schoolers celebrated with noise and general abandon during their Saturday "weekend."

Crowned at the first of the afternoon, against a background of music furnished by Morrellnoff Sharpinsky, Queen Irvina I was lovely in a black shiny dress complete with bulging muscles. A bright sash around the waist and a dashing black cape completed her costume. For the ceremony her black hair was worn in two red pigtailed hanging from a quaint Dutch hat.

Led Parade

With her court of princesses Cecil Wright and Ed Luckey, the queen led the parade procession in one of two antique carriages furnished for the affair by Dean Wayne L. Morse, from his museum of western relics. Members of the law school faculty were transported in the second vehicle and both were horse-powered by members of the law school student body.

According to law school statistics the final score of the business administration-law school softball fracas was 9-8 in favor of the barristers. Lawyers solemnly credit this to the fact that Orlando J. Hollis, acting dean of the law school, relieved tiring pitchers toward the end of the game and pitched a magnificent no-hit inning.

Picnic

The climaxing picnic was held, as planned in event of rain, under the Hendricks park shelter. Ed Luckey, general chairman, remarked that the roof did not leak so it was not necessary to transfer the celebration to the Holland as was planned in case of a deluge.

He expressed appreciation from the entire committee for the "all-out" interest shown by the campus and particular thanks to the "hordes of enthusiastic students who greeted participants of all events with such great clatters of applause."

New Pi Mu Epsilons To Hear Dr. Milne, OSC

New officers and members elected at the Pi Mu Epsilon April 22 are George Costello, director; Whitney Scobert, vice-director; Bessie Kamarad, secretary. New members of the math honorary are Glennie Scott, Margaret De Cou, Russell Harwood, Walter Gilbert, Orville Marcellus, William Moore, Armin Gropp, and Nathan Edwards.

They will be initiated at Gerlinger hall at 5:30 Thursday; a banquet at the Anchorage will follow. A talk to the group by Dr. W. E. Milne, head of the math department at Oregon State College, on exterior ballistics, will be given at 8:00 in 105 Deady. The speech is open to students and should be of special interest to those in military.

Delegates to Attend Westminster Foundation

Mrs. J. D. Bryant, hostess director of Westminster house, Professor W. G. Beattie of the extension division, and Dr. A. E. Caswell, head of the physics department and dean of the lower division, will attend the annual meeting of the Westminster foundation in Portland on May 5.

The foundation has charge of the Westminster houses on this campus and on the Oregon State campus.

Dr. Detling to Address Natural History Society

Dr. Leroy Detling, assistant professor of botany and curator of the herbarium at the University, will present a talk to the meeting of the natural history society of Eugene, which will sponsor a weekend devoted to the study of wild flowers, beginning Friday night. Dr. Detling will speak at 8 p.m. in room 101 Condon hall, on spring wild flowers, particularly those growing in Oregon.

Under the leadership of Dr. Detling, the group will participate in a field trip Sunday morning, May 3. At 10 a.m., persons going are to meet in front of Condon hall, from which place they will leave for Mossy Maples Forest Camp, 28 miles up the Willamette highway. The group will collect various botanical specimens, exploring stream banks and woodlands in that vicinity.

sponsored by the University school of music and the educational activities board. Admission is free.

Mortar Board Signs Art Holman for Ball

The annual Mortar Board ball has been scheduled for the Igloo on May 16 with Art Holman's band furnishing the music, Billie Christensen, president of Mortar Board, announced today.

Decorations for the ball will necessarily be simple, said Miss Christensen, since a music festival will occupy McArthur court until 6 p.m. that Saturday. It was believed that dancers would rather attend a simply decorated ball at the court than a more elaborate one in Gerlinger.

Bottles Counted At Pill Palace

The infirmary is counting its blessings one by one this week. Fifty blue blankets, ten thermometers, two blonde nurses—the Medicine Mansion is going full blast with spring inventory. Everything in the building must be counted and priced.
