

Matrix Table Tonight

Victoria Case Guest Speaker

Outstanding women from all over the state will be guests of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, tonight at the formal Matrix table banquet, honoring distinguished women in arts, literature, and music. Guest speaker for the affair, at which 100 guests are expected, will be Miss Victoria Case, Oregon author and newspaper woman.

Early this week Pat Parker, Theta Sig president, announced that the three undergraduate girls who will be awarded the title of "most outstanding" in their class, would be Misses Joanne Nichols, Betty Ann Stevens, and Joanne Dolph. These girls, selected by Theta Sig, have done particularly worthy work in the field of journalism.

Included on the list of acceptances from Oregon women is Mrs. Antonina Riasanovsky, of Eugene, who has gained widespread popularity through her prize-winning book, "The Family." Several Oregon writers, faculty wives, members of Pot and Quill, Eugene club women and outstanding junior and senior girls from the University have received invitations.

Margaret Zimmerman will sing and Miss Elizabeth Walker will play a violin solo as part of the entertainment.

Introducing the speaker will be Mrs. Eric (Sally) Allen, adviser to Theta Sigma Phi. Miss Case, who is a University of Oregon graduate as well as a Theta Sig alum, has recently published articles in the Readers Digest and the Saturday Evening Post. She is the sister of Robert Ormond Case, also a prominent author and Oregon graduate.

The dinner, which will be held at the Osburn hotel, is scheduled to begin at 6:30 o'clock.

The faculty of Kent State university recently voted almost unanimously to adopt the quarter system beginning this fall.

21 Dances...

Go 'Way Rain Pray Pigging Weekenders

By LOIS NULSER

If Oregon weather comes through in its usual form it will rain on twenty-one house dances and even more picnics this weekend. Friday, with thirteen dances, has the slight majority on the schedule.

Tonight Matrix table is honoring important women on the campus with an annual formal dinner at the Osburn.

The all co-op formal "Maytime" will feature a Corvallis band, the Aristocrats, at a dance in Gerlinger Friday evening. Walt Weber, another group from over State way is playing for the Sigma Alpha Epsilon formal. The Quintet from Hunger is playing for the Susan formal. Theta Chi's formal theme is Colonial Gardens. Chi Omegas will dance to the music of Ted Hallock. Kappa Kappa Gamma dance completes the formal list.

No less than 18 house dances, both formal and informal, are scheduled for this weekend, making it one of the busiest Webfeet have seen for a long time. Newest in formal attire are the two-piece bright cotton prints with bare midriff to show off your tan. On the informal side, there are dresses in luscious pastel shades or large floral patterns. And colored shoes are definitely "in."

Calling all Kwamas! This year's sophomore group is giving a picnic Saturday for all former members. Wear your old clothes, they say, and that means anything from slacks and shirts to your big brother's high school letterman sweater. (If the weather is cold enough.)

Short silks and heels will be worn to the annual YWCA Junior-Senior breakfast at the Osborn hotel Sunday, but hats are unnecessary, Carolyn Holmes, campus social chairman, says.

Junior Weekend isn't far off and that event calls for formals, campus clothes, and dressy silks, so be prepared as far as your wardrobe is concerned.

The Last Word

By MARGE CURTIS

Part and All

Pink and purple thistle at the road;
Sharp-sprigged hawthorn hedges on the land;
And tiny crocus cups; and you and I
With withered pinks, and barefoot in the sand.

What music cuts the air with such precision;
What droning thickens on the clover field;
What sudden rapture on the lovely land;
And you and I, and silent, with our yield.

Lift the pinks and kiss their heavy heads,
As tenderly as though you kissed my face,
Those heavy heads are part and one, of all
This careful world, and we have left no trace.

—Peggy Overland.

Turn About Dance Set For Males

It's a women's world... Mortar Board, oh Mortar Board... for your taxi fares were hoard. 'Tis coming, girls... the 16th of May... which means a dance that really is a dance... BEST SUGGESTION OF THE WEEK... dinners in the women's living organizations for the girls and their dates afore the dance.

DATE TO REMEMBER... Kwama picnic rolls around this Saturday... at Swimmer's Delight... alias Rainbow Park... all old and new Kwamas give K-J. Jenkins a ring... R.S.V.P. etc. ... time is from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. ... food promises to be in multitude.

The white sweated girls are on the verge of giving a spring scholarship... with another one rolling along presently... AWS parted with two scholarships a couple of weeks ago to deserving coeds.

THINGS TO COME... a carnation sale to all the women's living organizations before Mortar Board... sponsored by AWS... a good idea is to put the fellow's carnation along side of his plate at the dinner given before the dance... house representatives for the flower sale will to announced by Corrine Nelson, vice-president of AWS, who has a double duty being chairman of the sale.

WHAT THEY'VE BEEN DOING... Billie Christensen, president of Mortar Board, up to her neck in plans for the dance... Hope Hughes is the decoration committee... Nancy Riesch, president of Phi Theta, getting the initiation of the 29 new honorary members planned.

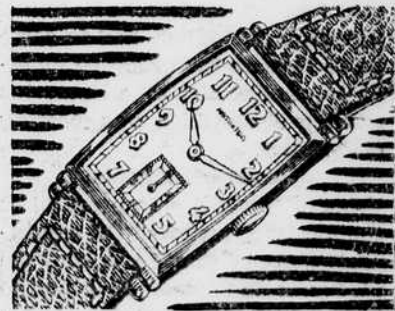

WHY NOT? I say...

It's a women's world...
